Mr. S. M. Bruce, the Australian high commissioner in London, and president of the League of Nations council, is the presiding officer at the daily hearings on the Locarno pact, which are held before the council in London. England and the other signatory powers of the pact are seeking some peace plan, satisfactory to all, to replace the Lovarno pact which was automatically scrapped when Adolf Hitler moved the German army into the demilitarized Rhineland zone. Mr. Bruce is shown at his desk in "Australia House" as he prepared for the council discussions.

ROSE VALLEY WOMEN'S

The March meeting of the Rose Valley W.I. was held on the evening of March 11th. There were nine members and three visitors present. Meeting opened in the usual way. After committee reports were recorded new committees were appointed. A letter was read concerning the Carnegie Library, and after some discussion it was decided that although almost every one appreciates the library, and recognized the great privileges which it affords the people, yet considering the financial standing of the province, and the fact that the Government has undertaken to balance the Budget, that we should not ask for anything requiring such a large amount of money, or that would bring extra taxation to the people at this time. A letter was read from P. A. Creelman, M.D., concerning the Anti-Tuberculosis League, and it was decided to sign the resolution sent out from the office. The questionnaire on Legislation was brought forward by Mrs. J. D. Mathieson, and the questions discussed and answered. The Institute went on record as fully endorsing the Prohibition Act as it now stands, but with stricter enforcement, and letters were forwarded to our representatives in the Legislative Assembly, asking their support of this measure. A splendid demonstration on candy-making was put on by Mrs. J. W. MacKenzie. An "age" contest was put on by Mrs. Herb Clow, and won by Mrs. Henry Chowan. Next place of meeting at the School on Wednesday evening, April 8th at 7.30 p.m., ro'l call to be answered by giving a method for removing stains. Program com., Mrs. Herb Clow, Mrs. J. W. MacKenzie and Mrs. K. H. MacKenzie.

EASTER BEEF

Amongst the fine display of Easter beef we will have on display at our store on Good Friday will be two steers weighing 2300 lbs. fed by Hyde Bros. Clyde River, and one baby beef 830 lbs. fed by Eelson MacKinnon, Clyde River. They are beyond doubt the best on the market. The cattle are a credit to the feeders and go to show what can be done by Island farmers in producing fat cattle.

We take great pleasure in inviting the public to come and visit our store which will be open all day. Come in and boost home production.

Transatlantic Air Service

(By Guardian's Special Wire)
LONDON, April 8—(C.P.—Havas)—France and the Irish Free State may collaborate in the joint operation of a proposed trans-Atlantic air service linking Cork and Sydney, N. S. It was reported here tonight following a meeting between French Minister Gueset and representatives of the Irish Trans-Atlantic Corporation.

At this meeting, held yesterday in Dublin, arrangements were discussed for use by the French company, Air France, of terminals projected by the Irish company for Sydney and a site yet to be chosen in the Irish Free State.

C. H. Clendinning, chairman of the Irish airline, said tonight: "What we have in mind is the joint operation by Franco-Irish interests of a trans-Atlantic air service from the Free State to Sydney, American and French machines would be used on this hop, and a French-Canadian company would be formed in Quebec to handle traffic from Sydney to all parts of Canada." "Air France would be given the exclusive right to operate feeder lines from the Irish terminal to the principal capitals of Europe." It was learned that directors of the Irish Trans-Atlantic Corporation, accompanied by Maxwell Atkinson, prominent architect, journeyed to Cork over the weekend to inspect the facilities offered by the Cork airport and harbor committee for a trans-Atlantic seaplane base.

Cheer For Sick-Abeds Takes Practical Turn Patients Like It.

TAKES PRACTICAL TURN AND PATIENTS LIKE IT

Remember to take only small supplies these for a large quart jar of even so delicious a treat as wild strawberry jam, while it may represent a considerable sacrifice of your family larder, will make the recipient feel she is in for life!

If your friend is at home it might be a good idea to go completely practical. Several tins of orange or grapefruit juice will please more members of the family than the invalid for they do away with all the sticky business of squeezing and fishing for pips.

BOOKS THAT CHEER.

If a strict diet is the doctor's orders, books and magazines are sure to please, only remember to choose them in the lighter vein. Even a confirmed bookworm will not feel like tackling history or a philosophical novel on a more or less empty tummy. Choose volumes see that the print is not too fine. Be sure that magazines do not contain material that might be upsetting to the sufferer. For instance, if she is a victim of arthritis, make sure the magazine does not carry an article on the disease with all sorts of details as to its seriousness, etc. You might unwittingly be the cause of a serious setback in her progress to health.

When you go calling on a little new-comer for the first time you will want to take it something to wear. This is another time when

SPARE MOTHER.

When visiting sick-abed children, be kind and think of their harassed mothers as well and leave mechanical toys that need lots of winding and musical instruments off your list of possible presents. Take along a fat painting book with large, easily colored pictures, and a box of crayons or a gay-colored cut out book and a pair of kindergarten scissors. Sewing sets are not a very happy choice for lit-the girls as needles and pins get lost in the bed and sewing is pretty dull work for an invalid. English comic papers will be popular with either girls or boys and you can buy them from large selections suitable for children from five or six until they are twelve or more.

Whatever the age or sex of your invalid and whatever your gift, wrap it up as gaily as you can and be sure when you get there that you keep your conversation as gay as the wrappings on your parcel—no one wants solemn commiseration when they are ill.

SOFTLY SHADED LAMPS

An important item with regard to furnishing and decorating a room is the method by which it is lighted. A garish light is often the ruin of an otherwise delightful chamber. Indirect lighting and pretty shaded lamps may be purchased for a trifle and no room needs to blaze with hard unprotected lamps under these conditions.

Too much furniture has a more ruinous effect than too little, and one of the pitfalls of the young housekeeper is to fill her rooms with unnecessary items which in the end only clutter, and do not enhance.

Built-in bookcases give a homey look as well as being definitely useful. Such additions offer countless ways and means of introducing color schemes with book-bindings and decorative ornamentation.

The Excruciating Pains of Rheumatism

We recognize in rheumatic disorders a diseased condition of the blood containing uric acid which is the cause of this irritating and painful trouble.

Rheumatism leaves in its train, distorted joints, crooked limbs, crippled hands, and the intense pain and agony is almost unbearable.

Burdock Blood Bitters purifies the blood by driving out the uric acid. Get rid of your rheumatic pains by using B.B.B.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

SIGNS OF RECOVERY

All women like nice toilettries and when ill in bed they are doubly appreciated. Delicately perfumed soaps and dusting powders—even sponge—will make the long stay in bath oils and salts for the daily bath much easier to bear. A nice hospital gift is a collection of favorite cosmetics in the small fifteen and twenty-cent sizes, assembled in a gay box complete with a little mirror and cleansing tissues.

Toilet waters are refreshing as well and there is a grand solidified cologne that comes in stick form—so nice to rub on the forehead in hot weather.

AND FOR THE MAN!

Men fall ill as well, and while the mere presence of a fair visitor will do much to revive them, they like presents too. If not on a diet like things to tempt the palate, but will prefer more robust delicacies than jams and jellies. If their digestion will stand it and their tastes lean that way, you might try some particularly exclusive pickle or cheese.
