ISLAND CROPS.—Mr. William Clarke, of North Wiltshire, writes to the Farmer's Advocate for August: "Hay, taken as a whole, will be a good average crop. Old meadows were badly winter-killed, but we have had a phenomenally wet spring up to July 5th, and it brought the grass along finely, considering the prospect in May. New meadows escaped unhurt, and are a grand crop all through the Province. The various grain crops never promised better at this date on all high, dry land, but a great many fields of low to flat land will be from a partial to a total failure. Winter wheat is not grown on the Island. Root crops have done grandly the last fortnight and promise well. The spring was very hard on the corn crop; a great deal missed all over, owing to wet and cold, but the outlook is all right for those who sowed thick, for where thick enough it looks fine, having made great growth in the last two weeks. Fruit of all kinds will be a short crop."

Prince Edward Island Illustrated is for sale at all the Bookstores. Price 25c.

MR. CARLETON'S LECTURE.

An intelligent and appreciative audience assembled in St. Patrick's Hall last evening to hear Mr. John L. Carleton, barrister-at-law, St. John, lecture on "Boyle O'Reilly, the Poet of Humanity." The lecture was delivered under the auspices of the Benevolent Irish Society, and Mr. Peter McCourt, the President of that organization, presided and introduced the lecturer in a complimentary speech. Mr. Carleton's treatment of his subject was excellent in every respect, and everyone present was delighted. After touching briefly upon the early life of O'Reilly, Mr. Carleton took up the poet-journalist's career in the United States, and pointed his narrative by quoting extensively from his writings. The discourse was highly eulogistic of the clever writings and praiseworthy motives of this talented son of Erin, and the extracts from his prose and poetry so eloquently and ably given by the learned lecturer were roundly applauded.

The vote of thanks at the close was moved by ex-Councillor Byrne and seconded by Mr. J. E. B. McCready. Mr. Carleton replied in fitting terms.
