At Mount Allison

SACKVILLE, N.B., July 13—The appointment of Professor Howard Brown, B.A., B. Mus. (above), as head of the piano department at Mount Allison University has been announced by President Ross Flemington.

Mr. Brown has appeared as soloist with the Royal Conservatory Symphony Orchestra and the London Chamber Music Society, and has played many solo recitals throughout Ontario, including Hart House and the Art Gallery in Toronto.

During World War II he was engaged for two and a half years in personnel work for the Canadian Army, and this past year, has been head of the pianoforte department at the Halifax Conservatory of Music.

Minutes were read and adopted. Ten members answered roll call with a verse of scripture.

Among The Farmers

Federation of Agriculture News

Crop Review

The strawberry season is about over. The crop is most areas was well below average although the quality was reasonably good.

Haying has commenced in several sections of the Province. In spite of recent rains, it is generally a light crop. Most experienced farmers feel that the hay this year should be cut early so as to provide additional pasture as soon as possible. The feeding quality will be much greater too, if the heavy grass bottom is cut early. However, the root crops have been slow and weeding is interfering with the haying. With favourable weather, by next week it is probable the most of the hay will be cut.

A few days vacation over last weekend wound up with perhaps being as much a business as a pleasure trip for your provincial secretary.

Last Friday he attended, along with Mr. F. M. Nash and other Island representatives, the opening of the annual New England Poultry Festival at Belfast, Maine. It certainly was an inspiring and educational meeting. A full report of it will be given at the Poultry meeting next Monday evening.

From there, he went to Boston and had time to discuss the distribution of Prince Edward Island products with some officials of Government and the trade in the Boston area.

Marketing of turnips, potatoes, and strawberries were the principle problems discussed. A good deal of valuable information was acquired which will be a guide for our Federation program in the future.

A look into the Maine Poultry & Egg Co-operative which is based on local producer marketing co-ops, in Maine, was also enjoyed. Those wholesale outlets have their own trucks and storages and are found throughout Boston and New England cities, and are directly connected with locals all over the state.

This arrangement might very well be a pattern for our Island producers in the egg and poultry field.

Poultry Meeting Monday
The Provincial Poultry Committee, which was set up last year to act in an advisory capacity to the Department and the Federation, has arranged to hold a meeting at Birch Court, Experimental Farm, Charlottetown, next Monday evening.

It will consist of the annual meeting of the Approved Flock Association at 7:30 and will be followed by a general discussion which may well lead to the setting up of a permanent egg and poultry board based on our Provincial marketing legislation.

It is hoped that in spite of the haying and busy season that as many farmers as possible, from right across the Province will arrange to attend.

A plan will be submitted for discussion and if approved, the members of the Provincial Board will be selected at this meeting.

The present poultry committee consists of: D.A. MacDonald, Glenfinnan, Chairman; Earl Jelly, O'Leary, Jerry Richards, Wellington; Byron Webster, Morrell; Lloyd Burns, Freetown; J. H. MacPhail, New Haven; Jerome O'Brien, and F. M. Nash.

Potato Board
The last minute details and amendments to the Potato Marketing plan, which are more numerous than those of the previous year, will be discussed at the meeting of the Board, Miss Doris Myers and Miss Belle Rogerson. (Patriot please copy).

British Columbia
If Prince Edward Island is recognized as the birthplace of Confederation then our western Maritime Province surely must become known as the birthplace of producer controlled marketing. For the past fifteen years the agricultural producers of British Columbia have carried on a continuous battle for orderly marketing and to develop suitable legislation. The natural difficulties were very great. Agriculture is not the most important industry, and the Government would naturally be influenced by consumer reaction. Authorities in British Columbia feel that through orderly marketing the position of the grower has improved, the dealers are satisfied and the consumer is getting products of better quality. Of the Boards examined, the B. C. Fruit Board which handles an export

Farm Forum Conference, Brandon
This meeting was attended by Provincial Farm Forum officials, the farm commentators of the CBC from each region and quite a large number of Federation and Forum people from Manitoba. That Farm Forum is playing an important part in the rural adult education of this country goes without question. Farm Forum has done much and can do more to promote rural adult education. It appears to be a natural complement of Farm organizations and the co-operative movement, both of which can profit by encouraging and promoting it.

Farm Costs
OTTAWA, July 13—(CP)—Over all cost of commodities and services used by Canadian farmers advanced 4.6% between January and April this year, while cost of commodities and services, exclusive of living costs, rose seven per cent in the same period, the Bureau of Statistics reported today.
