

THE RIGHTS OF A WIFE.

"Before everything else the young woman has a right to expect from her husband tenderness, sympathy and faith," says Ruth Ashmore, writing in the June Ladies' Home Journal of "What to Expect from a Young Man." But sometimes, in his eagerness to make all life fair to her, he fancies she is a doll, and not a woman. And a doll is a very selfish toy; it demands careful treatment all the time, and it gives nothing but a pretty appearance in return. It is the foolish wife who expects infallibility in her husband. She forgets that there is a difference between the housewife and the house moth. She should expect from her husband politeness at all times, and a certain gentleness that every man, possessing the real instinct of a man, gives to a woman. But she should not expect from him too much. She has no right whatever to ask of him permission to live a lazy life herself, and to give no all her days and years to idle thoughts. When the wife can make her husband's homecoming a joy, his home-staying a pleasure and a delight, and his leaving home a sorrow, then, and then only, can she expect a great deal from him."

SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER.

PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

About Fifty Amendments to the Tariff.

THE PREFERENTIAL CLAUSE.

Important Resolution Submitted by Sir Charles Tupper.

THE GOVERNMENT'S ARGUMENTS.

OTTAWA, May 26.—When Hon. Mr. Fielding moved the House of Commons into Committee he explained the amendments which he proposed to make in the tariff as introduced by him five weeks ago.

The Finance Minister shows his want of confidence in his own resolutions by proposing some fifty amendments to them.

After recess, the amended resolutions were taken up in detail. When the reciprocal resolution was reached, Sir Charles Tupper addressed the Committee. He pointed out that while one month ago the Finance Minister almost declared the independence of Canada and showed a lofty scorn of all Imperial treaties, he had now so far retreated as to amend his resolution recognizing these treaties.

The new clause reads as follows: The Governor-in-Council may extend the benefits of such reciprocal tariff to any country which may be entitled thereto by virtue of any treaty with Her Majesty.

Sir Charles quoted high Imperial authority to show that these treaties would give to European countries the same concessions offered to England. What then was the value of all the boast that the Government had given special advantages to British trade.

The opposition leader went on to argue that the Government had made concessions to Great Britain and European countries which if made to Britain alone, would have procured for Canada a great advantage of preferential trade with the Empire. If the Government was prepared to make these reductions in the tariff, why did not the ministers try to obtain a preferential market for Canadian products in return?

Hon. Mr. Laurier had, Sir Charles continued, the opportunity of his lifetime; but he had thrown it away. If this tariff is adopted preferential trade will be impossible. Mr. Chamberlain would be disarmed. The British Empire Trade League would be paralyzed and the whole movement for an imperial league would be set back indefinitely. Sir Charles closed a strong address by proposing the following amendment:

That in the opinion of this House a reduction by 25 per cent. of the duties upon the imports—except wine, malt, liquors, spirits, spirituous liquors, liquid medicines, articles containing alcohol, sugar, molasses and syrups of all kinds, the product of the sugar cane or beet root, tobacco, cigars and cigarettes—in favor of any country whose tariff is or may be made on the whole as low as that of schedule D, is calculated to imperil the industrial interests of Canada and is in principle opposed to preferential trade of any kind with the Mother Country.

That on several occasions the Government and Parliament of Canada have requested Her Majesty to be pleased to take such steps as might be necessary to terminate the effect of the provisions of all treaties which prevent the parliaments of the United Kingdom and the self-governing colonies from adopting such tariffs as will be required for the promotion of trade within the Empire, but no decisive action has been taken in this direction;

That a desire for preferential trade with the United Kingdom is now general throughout Canada;

That this House is of the opinion that the government of Canada should cause Her Majesty's government to be advised that so soon as the difficulties in the way are removed, the parliament of Canada is ready to enter into a preferential trade arrangement with Great Britain and Ireland.

That this House cannot consent that any arrangement made by the government of Canada with any country involving serious considerations of tariff and revenue should become operative without the sanction and ratification of parliament.

Hon. Mr. Davies replied, speaking for an hour. He began by scolding Sir Charles Tupper and charging him with displaying hostility to the policy of favoring Great Britain. Then he made an argument in favor of two propositions. First that, no Imperial commercial treaty was binding on the colonies that were self-governing in fiscal matters; and second, that even if the German and other Treaties were binding on Canada they did not make the preferential clauses of this tariff applicable to the treaty countries.

LATEST NEWS BY WIRE AND MAIL.

LONDON, May 24.—The first bulletins from the census taken on the new principles in the Russian empire last February show just what the political symptoms of the past few years has prepared us for, namely, that the cities and industrial centres have been growing in population at an exceptional rate. Five years ago there were fourteen towns of over 100,000 souls; now there are twenty-one. St. Petersburg now has a population of a million and a quarter, an increase of 25 per cent in five years. Moscow in a similar period shows an increase of 20 per cent and Lodz nearly forty per cent. This last place, called the Manchester of Poland has passed Kharkoff, Kieff and Riga since 1892, and is now the fifth city in the empire.

PORT TAMPA, Fla., May 24.—The celebration of Queen Victoria's birthday drew thousands of people here. Heavy excursion trains were constantly arriving. Her Majesty's warship Palas and the American cruiser Montgomery are here. By special permission of President McKinley, 100 men from the Palas were permitted to land with arms and to parade. An exhibition drill followed, with a banquet given by the Port Tampa chamber of commerce in honor of the officers of the Palas, the Montgomery and distinguished visitors. Athletic games and water sports were held this afternoon. There was vociferous cheering when the band played God save the Queen.

TORONTO, May 24.—The Canadian Pacific's new line from Toronto to Buffalo, N. Y., via Hamilton and Niagara Falls, will be opened for traffic on May 30th. This is a most important acquisition to the Canadian Pacific, as it gives it a direct connection at Buffalo with the New York Central, West Shore and other great American lines diverging from that city. Passengers from Halifax can now reach those points without leaving the C. P. R.

LONDON, May 24.—The Chronicle says it understands that Dr. W. J. Loyds, who has been here for some time on a confidential mission for the South African Republic, will take back to the Transvaal Mr. Chamberlain's proposals for a settlement of existing difficulties and that there is every prospect for a settlement that will be approved in England and at the Cape. The Chronicle says that Mr. Chamberlain and Loyds have had a friendly personal interview.

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—After being twice chased by Spanish gunboats and passing unscratched through a storm of shot which splashed in the water across the vessel's bows, the British fruit steamer Ethelred arrived here last night, after a five days run from Port Antonio, Jamaica.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The Bram murder case was advanced and given the first place on the docket at the beginning of the next term of court in October.
