Choir Entertain Pastor At East Point

Rev. D.L. MacClare, pastor of the East Point Baptist and South Lake Christian Churches, wended his way to the home of the church organist, Mrs. Clinton Stewart, for what he thought, was his weekly practice with the choir members but, on arrival, he was greatly surprised to see his choir together with a few other friends prepared for a social evening in his honour. Very soon all settled to an evening of games and contests after which Mr. Ken MacGregor, as master of ceremonies, called the group to order and he, as well as Messrs. Harold Hunter, Robert Rose and Mrs. Clinton Stewart spoke words in appreciation of the wonderful leadership and support that Rev. Mr. MacClare had given in the choir and in the practice at all times. Through his untiring efforts, skill, and patience a Male Quartette was formed. Miss Norma Garrett read a well worded address to the pastor and Mr. Robert Rose presented him with an initialled gold cuff link set with matching tie clasp on behalf of the choir members. Mr. MacClare replied very fittingly in his usual capable manner after which all joined in singing "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow."

Doctor Says

(Continued from page 1) physical and mental readjustment can be carried out under trained workers. EARNEST PLEA The doctor made an earnest plea to business and industry to give, wherever possible, consideration to the physically handicapped. By helping in this way, he said, not only would the employer be obtaining valuable assistance but would be playing an important role in the rehabilitation of the handicapped person. Recalling the history of handicapped people, Dr. Gencheff said it had been the practice to hide such people away. He frowned on such methods and stated it was most important that the individual be given the feeling of being wanted and useful. Stressing the importance of keeping the public in the picture at all time, president J. Lincoln Dewar stated in his annual report: "In order to justify appeals to the public, charity organizations must have a program which indicates a real need."

REHABILITATION GRANTS

Recalling prior to its last campaign for funds the Chapter had intimated that certain amounts would be available for the rehabilitation of those suffering the crippling effects of other diseases, Mr. Dewar noted that the Chapter this year intended to grant an additional $1,000 to the Rehabilitation Council, and would also provide $2,000 to assist in the equipping of the occupational therapy department at the Orthopedic Centre. In addition the president pointed to certain other expenditures in the Chapter's 1958 budget. These included: $1,000 for the vaccine project; $500 for post graduate study; $1,000 for braces and appliances; $500 for patient transportation; $1,000 for special education. Mr. Dewar noted with satisfaction the fact that the Province during the past year had been almost completely free of polio. "Probably nothing contributes more to summer peace of mind than the knowledge that a polio epidemic is either not developing or in progress," he said. GRATIFYING RESULTS The result of the Chapter's educational assistance program was "particularly gratifying," the
