A WELL DESERVED TRIBUTE.

The Hon. J. H. Fletcher, of Salem, Oregon, writing to a friend in this city, pays the following well-deserved tribute to the worth of his sister, recently deceased, the late lamented Mrs. Young:—

"You may well say she was a good woman. She was one of the masterpieces of Nature's works, and with the exception of her mother, after whom she was closely modelled, I can truthfully say I never knew a better woman. I think no living person knew Bella so well as I. We toddled and played together in our infancy, we lived in sweet communion together in our youthful days, under the guidance of a discreet and loving mother, and in maturer years our love and attachment for each other seemed to grow stronger as time passed. I never knew my sister to be guilty of an unbecoming act. She was a pure, guileless girl, and after wards blossomed into a noble woman. When we were all at home she was the life and light of the family. She was so womanly, so cheerful, so full of story and fun, so sympathetic and kind at all times and under all circumstances that the sound of her voice seemed to make us all happy and fill the old home with music and sunshine. She was benevolence intensified. She gave to the poor with an unstinted hand. She loved everybody. When she used to visit her old home at Orwell, the elderly women of the place would flock to see her. She was so bright, cheerful, social and loving that she became a universal favorite. Ah! how well they knew.

"That best portion of a woman's life, Her little, nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and of love."

But she is gone. She has fought the last fight, and conquered the last enemy. If I were asked the reason of my sister's popularity I would say that it was because of her sunny disposition and her charity.

She had, indeed, that "charity that never faileth." Prophecies fail; tongues forgotten, and knowledge fades away like the sunlight of the evening, but charity endureth forever. It is greater than faith, grander than knowledge, brighter than the star of hope which gilds the cradle and illumines the grave. It is because she possessed this virtue in such an unusual degree that we loved our deceased sister so well."

MR. EARLE'S CONCERT.

The concert in the Opera House last evening was a success from every point of view. The excellent programme prepared for the occasion was carried out in a manner which delighted the large and fashionable audience, and the hope was expressed that it would not be long before Mr. Earle would give the theatre-going public another opportunity of participating in a similar feast of good things. The first part of the programme consisted of vocal and instrumental music and dances, and the many encores demanded testified to the appreciation of the audience. The second part was made up of a burlesque on "Cinderella," the characters in which were taken by Misses Florence Earle, Amy Earle, Lillian Collings, May Stewart, Winnie Collings, M. Earle, Nettie Ross, Louise Bremner, Gertrude Ross, M. Irwin, Daisy Douse, and Mr. E. H. Mitchell. All the characters were in capable hands, and much amusement was afforded. Where each did so well it is perhaps unfair to single out any for special mention, but the excellent manner in which the parts of Miss Jones and Mrs. Jarvey were interpreted by the Misses Florence and Amy Earle demands it. Both ladies carried out their parts with a fidelity to detail that is not always exhibited by amateurs, and gave evidence of the possession of much histrionic ability. The concert was under the distinguished patronage of the Governor and Mrs. McIntyre, the Mayor and Mrs. Warburton, and the Bishop of Charlottetown. The National Anthem brought the proceedings to a close.

PERSONAL.

Miss Mary O'Neill, music teacher at Vernon River, was a few days ago presented with an address accompanied by a valuable set of furs by her pupils. The address was signed on behalf of the pupils by Clara Macdonald and Minnie Edmonds.

THE REPORT OF THE ASYLUM COMMISSIONERS.

SIR.—The public should have this report long ago. We are informed that the evidence is still in the hands of the stenographer and that Premier Farquharson will not give him time or liberty to extend the report of evidence to submit to the commissioners. Hence the commissioners cannot make a report. This plainly speaks the rotten condition of the Government. The commissioners made a mistake when they did not take notes of the evidence themselves, and turn the key on Mr. Farquharson, as he had no business to be present at the investigation, much less to ask any questions as to its management, and on the witness stand he himself should have been thoroughly examined. I am also credibly informed that a lot of repairs on roads are being made in the Fort Augustus District. It is time for the taxpayers to put a stop to this kind of work. Meetings should be called all over the Island denouncing this conduct and calling for resignation or dissolution—cleaving to the flesh pots cannot be tolerated much longer.

Gardner as President, and Mrs. McCready and Miss Enid McLean as Secretaries. Its immediate object is to send medical and surgical necessities to South Africa for wounded Islanders. If possible, they will be forwarded with the second contingent.

THE RILL AND RIVER MISSION BAND held their anniversary service in the Methodist church, Alberton, on Wednesday, December 27th. The Rev. John Goldsmith, pastor, occupied the chair. The programme consisted of a service of song, entitled "Jessica's First Prayer." Solos were nicely sung by Misses Nettie Leard and Lena Clark, and two duets by Misses Bauche Leard and Florrie Bell. Miss Ethel Bell presided at the organ with her accustomed ability. The connective readings giving the beautiful and pathetic story of Jessica's life were very effectively read by Miss Violet Goldsmith. The collection in aid of the fund of the Band amounted to $6.00.

Convalescing

is more or less a very slow process according to the severity of the sickness. Vitality, when at a low ebb, works at a great disadvantage, and much time is required to regain the lost strength and power.

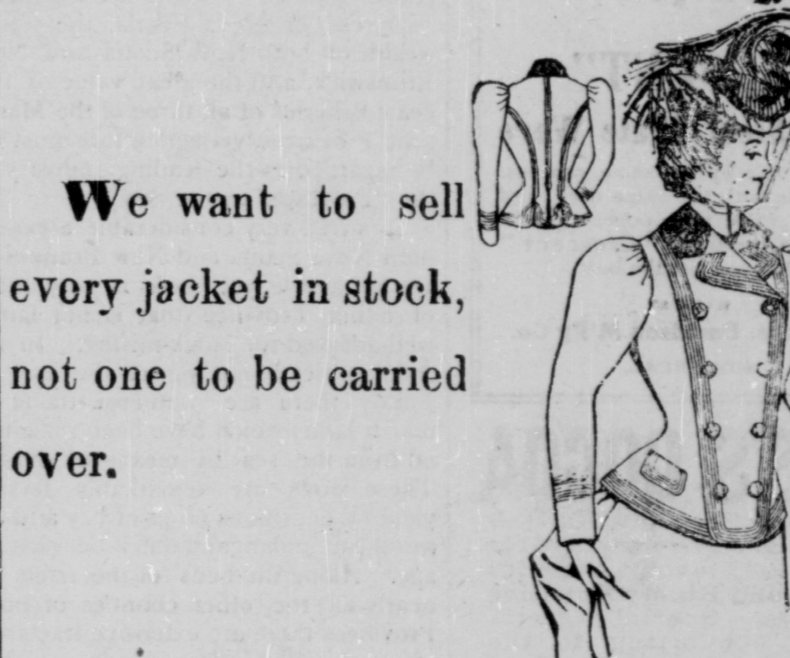

Pabst Malt Extract The Best Tonic

produces marvellous results in such cases. The rich food of the malt goes direct to the blood without further digestion, and the hop principle gives tone to the stomach, creates a desire for food and the ability to digest it.
