STILL LOOKING FOR A COOK.

The Editor's Mistake of a Newspaper Man in an Intelligence Office.

"The cook left us a few days ago," said a depressed-looking newspaper man to the editor writing to a writer for the New York Times. "She said she couldn't live in a house the head of which lived so irregularly and kept such terribly bad hours, even if his wife was ill. And there has been nothing but trouble for me since. I had to get my own breakfast this morning. That was bad enough. But this afternoon, as a direct result of the cook's unhappy departure, I was placed in a most embarrassing position, and recollection caused the newspaper man to look very mournful indeed. 'I started for an intelligence office with the firm intention of getting a position of a writer for a tropical country where one can live on raw fruit. Several alleged books passed in review before me, but none of them suited me. I was questioning one a good-looking, modestly-dressed woman entered the place. Something about her appearance struck me favorably. I said to myself, 'There's the cook I want,' and started for her. I recall now that the manager made an attempt to attract my attention, evidently realizing my intention. But I took no notice of her. My state of mind was such, owing to the departure of our cook, that it never occurred to me that anybody else should ever be so precise as I was. I touched the new arrival on the arm and said: 'You're the very woman I want for a cook. What are your terms?' 'Lord! She turned slowly round, put up a pair of those long-handled glasses - I forget what you call 'em - and calmly looked me over. 'I want a tall footman,' she said. 'You are tall. What are your terms?' 'We are still without a cook.'

A Remarkable Coincidence.

An old gentleman, evidently a collector of statistics, but with a kindly face which shined out to something like philanthropy about the edges, was gazing abstractedly down the street.

Suddenly he stepped up to a gentleman who was awaiting a car, and, touching him lightly on the shoulder, said: "Excuse me, but did you just drop a $20 note at the same time holding out in his hand the sum mentioned."

The gentleman questioned gazed a moment at the note, assumed a look of excitement, made a hasty search of his pockets, and said: "Why, so I did; and I hadn't missed it," holding out an eager hand.

The old man slowly drew forth a note-book, and said: "I thought so." He then took the name and address of the lower, and, putting the note in his pocket, turned away.

"Well," said the other, "do you want it all as a reward?" "Oh, I did not find one," returned the benevolent old man, "but it struck me that in a great city there must be a large quantity of money lost, and upon inquiry, I find out as the thirty-first man who has lost a $20 note this very morning." - Boston Globe.

A National Loss.

Barker-Who, in your estimation, is the smartest man in public life? Billings (with dignity)-I do not aspire to public life.

A Feminine Definition.

Clara-Why are you so bitter against him, just because he proposed and you refused him? Maude-The wretch! He said he would never ask me again.

Meteorological Item.

Mr. Puffinblow-Ain't you the fellow who said the sun was losing its heat? Mr. Weatherman-Yes, and the scientists agree with me on that point.

Mr. Puffinblow-Well, I believe it now. The sun can't keep this up very long and have any heat left.

No Cause for Alarm.

This is your sixth trip across the ocean in winter, is it? said the timid passenger. "Are you never oppressed by a fear that the ship will run into an iceberg and sink?" "Never, madam," replied the business-like passenger, briskly. "I never visit a center of money in ships."

Sweet Deduction.

Tommy-How, I read that a man can stop chewing tobacco by eating candy. Do you suppose that is true? Mr. Figg-Probably.

Tommy-Well, if a little boy was kept filled up with candy all the time, don't you suppose that he would never want to learn to chew tobacco?

Sure to Be a Go.

And the Thermometer Fall.

"I've got an awful cold," said the Weather. "What are you taking for it?" asked the wind. "A drop of mercury every hour."

Characteristic Remarks.

"Now, you wouldn't say that that man across the street is worth $10,000, would you?" "Oh, I don't know. It might be true."

"That is the reason I thought you wouldn't say it."

Remarkable Growth.

From 10,000 to 1,000,000 in Ten Years.

Substantial Evidence of Public Appreciation - Rapid Extension of a Business Founded on Merit - When Newspaper Advertising is Valuable.

The mark of public appreciation which best indicates the meritorious character of an article for public use is the evidence shown by the necessity of re-issuing business facilities connected with the production of the article. The Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., located at New Haven, Conn., owning and manufacturing the original formula of the Kickapoo Indian - the famous medicines of that celebrated tribe, have found it necessary to make a substantial enlargement of their factory by the purchase of a six story brick building containing about thirty thousand square feet of floor space for conducting the enormous and still increasing business of supplying their remedies to the public. This growth has all been within the past ten years; and this is the third time the Kickapoo Medicine Co. have outgrown their quarters since the first introduction of the Kickapoo Remedies among the white people. Their business has grown in a ratio of one to a hundred; or in other words, they are now doing annually one hundred times the amount of business they did the first year.

Merit a Necessary Basis.

This success resulted mainly from the intrinsic merit of the Kickapoo Remedies; since their introduction was largely attained with comparatively little or no advertising, and that principally consisting of parties of Indians with their interpreters travelling from town to town erecting their camps and showing the people just what the Kickapoo Remedies were and their use.

It was only within the past two years that the Kickapoo Remedies have been advertised in the newspapers, and then only at first in certain sections after their sale had been established, so as to keep the merits of the Kickapoo Remedies before the people. This newspaper advertising campaign, however, has been of much benefit to the sale of these famous medicines, and has been largely instrumental in effecting the needs of additional facilities. Many people who were not reached before are now using the Kickapoo Indian Remedies, and some really astonishing cures have been wrought by these simple compounds of roots, barks and herbs.

When Newspaper Advertising Pays.

Healy & Bigelow, the agents for the Kickapoo Indian Medicine Company, appreciate and endorse most heartily the value of the newspaper advertising for a meritorious article, and say: "We find that newspaper readers are very discriminating, and inclined to be skeptical at first, but after you have established confidence in your goods, and the people find that your statements are reliable, then your business is bound to increase and extend."

The Kickapoo Remedies consist of only five articles, all of which are the product of roots, barks, gums, leaves and flowers. They are absolutely free from mineral or other deleterious substances, as ascertained after a chemical analysis by R. H. Crittenden, Professor of Physiological Chemistry at Yale College.

Kickapoo Indian Sagwa is a blood, liver and stomach remedy. Kickapoo Indian Oil is a quick cure for all pains, stiffness, rheumatism, and other ailments. Kickapoo Indian Cough Cure, as its name implies, is for throat and lung difficulties. Kickapoo Indian Salve is an excellent remedy for cuts, wounds, eczema, etc., and Kickapoo Indian Worm Killer is a harmless and absolutely certain remedy for those troubles so frequently met with among children, viz: Seat, pin and thread worms. The Sagwa and Oil are sold in a dollar a bottle; the Cough Cure fifty cents; and the other remedies at twenty-five cents a bottle or package.

There is probably not a drug store in the United States today where the Kickapoo remedies are not obtainable, and we are pleased to say that Messrs. Healy & Bigelow have published in this paper, and will continue doing so, some really marvelous cures effected by their Kickapoo Indian Remedies, and also unimpeachable evidence of the absolute vegetable purity of these simple, yet effectual compounds, such as, someone has said, bring "Long Life and Good Health."

A SPLENDID RECORD.

A Provincial Industry Trenches its Business in the Last Three Months.

Some three months ago this journal informed its readers that a new provincial industry, that of the Hawker Medicine Company, of St. John, had completed its first quarter's business, and that its book showed a development of trade and a record of sales that was not only gratifying but really astonishing.

Another three months has now elapsed and the company have balanced their accounts for the six months. The results show that in the last three months they have tripled the business of the first three; they have about doubled their working staff and work has been carried on in the packers room till 11 o'clock every night in order to fill orders promptly. From all parts of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and P. E. Island, from Newfoundland and parts of the United States, the orders have rolled in. The business is now firmly established. The experimental stage is past. Repeat orders come in constantly, showing that where once the remedies are introduced, they win permanent favors with the people, who know as soon as they have given any of them a trial, that these standard remedies are all that they are claimed to be. Indeed, this last might readily be assumed without a trial, and judging solely from the character of the gentlemen who form the Hawker Medicine Co., as they are numbered among the leading citizens and most honorable and successful business men of St. John.

The Hawker Medicine company are now patenting their remedies in Great Britain and will presently extend their operations there, as well as more extensively to the United States. About the middle of this month Thomas Rankine, who so successfully introduced the Hawker remedies in Newfoundland last spring, will start and traverse the western part of Canada, from Montreal to Vancouver in the interests of the company. With such a record as that of their first six months now closed, the Hawker Medicine Co. are evidently destined to achieve a great success. They control standard remedies, which have received the endorsement of leading physicians in Canada and the United States, as well as the fervent praise of sorely afflicted people who have by their means been restored to health.

Their place of business is at 104 Prince William Street, St. John, N. B., where they have the most extensive and elaborately fitted up premises of the kind in the Lower Provinces. William Hawker, the original inventor of the remedies, has been a druggist in St. John for 30 years, and had long proved the value of the different remedies before the present company was organized. It is with pleasure that the journal records the company's wonderful success.

D. Waters, Campbellford, Ont., says that the Peterboro Medicine Co. (Limited) are at liberty to use his name in the interest of all who may be suffering as he was before he used Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure.

AFTER TWENTY-FIVE YEARS!

CLEMENTSPORT, N. S., July 18, 1893.

THE GRODER DYSPESPIA CO., LTD.

GENTLEMEN: This is to certify that I am 60 years of age; that twenty-five years ago I began to suffer from distress in my stomach, which continued to grow worse from year to year, and that for the last five years my suffering has been almost unbearable. During this long period I tried almost every dyspepsia medicine that I could hear of, and employed all the medical practitioners within reach, but without receiving permanent relief.

I suffered from severe constipation accompanied by bloating and belching of wind. Nervousness troubled me very much. Sometimes I would become so sick and weak that I could not attend to my work. Under such conditions I became alarmed and began to lose hope of recovery.

One day I noticed in The Telegraph a testimonial telling what Groder's Syrup had done for other people. This was about one year ago. I bought one bottle and found it so beneficial in its results that I secured more. The remedy gave me great relief. I CAN EAT ANYTHING I WISH NOW. There is no more BLOATING, no more SORENESS OF STOMACH. Nervousness is completely gone; constipation has become a thing of the past in my case. In short, I CONSIDER THAT I AM CURED, and cured by the use of three bottles of GRODER'S BOTANIC DYSPESPIA SYRUP. I can conscientiously recommend above remedy to all who suffer as I did.

Yours truly, (Signed) GEORGE RANDALL.

NOTE.-This is to certify that the above testimonial is true in every respect, as I am well acquainted with the above-named gentleman. (Signed) A. S. BURNES.

The Telephone Company

P. E. ISLAND.

Parties using the telephone will find talking much more satisfactory if they will observe the following rules:-

1st. Speak with the mouth about four feet from the transmitter.

2nd. Speak in a moderate tone of voice, too loud, and distinctly.

3rd. Place the telephone so as to cover the ear just as if you wish it to shut out all other sounds. Do not press too hard on the receiver. It is possible to talk and be heard when standing back two or three feet from the transmitter. If you should have a conversation in a pleasant mode of conversation, it is entirely unnecessary, and is a waste of time and lung, and being very annoying to a within range of your voice.
