U.S. May Speed Missile Launching Date 2 Months

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — A two-month speedup in the date for launching the first full - fledged United States earth satellite was listed as a possibility by the U.S. Navy Monday.

A spokesman said that, if the navy successfully fires its 6-6 inch, 21-pound test satellite next month, the 20-inch sphere carrying complex instruments might be fired into orbit in January.

Meanwhile, Senator Henry Jackson (Dem. Wash.) told a press conference it may be necessary to increase taxes to provide money for a greatly increase military program including nuclear devices.

Jackson, who heads the weapons subcommittee of the congressional Atomic Energy Committee, said the U.S. should begin at once a crash program for construction of "100 or more" atomic-powered submarines.

These would afford the "best" platform on which to carry missiles that would deter Russia from starting a war."

MARCH STILL TARGET

The navy spokesman disclosed the possibility of a January launching of the larger U.S. moonlet after a press conference by Dr. John P. Hagen, director of project Vanguard — the navy satellite effort.

Hagen said the project still was aimed at getting the full-fledged 20-inch satellite into orbit in March, but added there was a possibility it could be done before then.

It was at this point that a spokesman for the project amplified by explaining that, if the first December test of the six-inch satellite succeeds, two other planned test launchings might be dropped. This would make possible the two-month advance in date for the launching of the larger satellite, he said.

After the Soviet Union fired its second successful satellite Nov. 8, the U.S. Army was given a go-ahead to try to launch a satellite with one of its Jupiter-C rockets independently of Vanguard.

Hagen said he did not know whether the army would proceed with its efforts to launch a 20-inch satellite if the navy gets its 20-inch sphere into orbit.

HINTS FROM ARMY

There have been hints from the army that its satellite might be fired before March.

Jackson, just returned from NATO's parliamentary council meeting in Paris, said he believes Russia already is "in large scale production" of operational intermediate - range missiles, and might be producing intercontinental ones.

In that situation, he said, the U.S. should take the calculated risk of full-scale missile production even while research continues, proceeding as if "it were at war."

He called for a "thorough review" of the philosophy of the nation's internal security system. Replying to a question, he said it would be "entirely proper" for the Atomic Energy Commission to reconsider its decision denying scientist J. Robert Oppenheimer access to atomic secrets.

Oppenheimer was director of the project which developed the atomic bomb in the Second World War. He was held to be a security risk in 1954 after a lengthy hearing, although his loyalty was not impugned.

Young People's Convention Is Held At Summerside

The provincial fall convention of the young people of the Churches of Christ, which was held in Summerside over the week-end, proved to be an outstanding success. More than one hundred delegates from the various Churches of Christ were present. The messages delivered by the young people, the youth discussions and the special musical items, all centered around the very appropriate convention theme for youth--"Following the Master."

The program Saturday evening was opened by the provincial president, Miss Betty Enman, followed by a brief word of welcome to the visiting delegates from Miss Beryl Essery, president of the Summerside group. After a brief business session the young people of Fredericton and Broadalbane presented an impressive devotion on the theme of prayer.

This was followed by a message from David Weale of Summerside Y. P. entitled "Following Christ In Prayer."

After this service the young people enjoyed a rousing social get-together and a delicious lunch was served by the ladies of the church.

"Following Christ In Personal Sacrifice." was the theme for the Sunday morning worship service.

The opening Scripture was read by Miss Beryl Essery; Morris McCabe of Charlottetown Y. P. brought a chal'enging message in harmony with the theme.

The girls choir of the Summerside church rendered the anthem "How Wonderful His Love."

The afternoon session opened with a devotional period undertaken by the Montague and Murray Harbor Y. P. groups and led by Friend Herring with a Scripture reading from the Psalms. Included in this devotional was a lovely girls trio.

DISCUSSION PERIOD

Immediately following this Dr. Malcolm Beck of Charlottetown was called upon to take charge of a very unique portion of the convention program — a youth discussion period. After a few introductory remarks and words of instruction, Dr. Beck divided the entire body into five groups and provided each group with a Bible concordance. These groups separated and each conducted its own "Buzz session" on the particular theme which had been assigned them. The findings and the conclusions of each discussion group was given to the whole assembly by a select ed leader.

The results were splendid and truly enlightning. the divine attributes of the Master were brought to light through a searching of the Scriptures and open discussion.

The devotional period of the evening service was taken by the Charlottetown Y. P. and conducted by Miss Margaret Jean MacDonald. A few lively choruses were sung and then a girls' quartette sang the beautiful hymn, "It Is Well With My Soul."

The concluding message of the convention was delivered by Donald McLaran of Montague. His theme was "Following Christ in Preaching And Teaching".

Mr. Kenneth Norris dismissed the assembly with prayer.

Approximately eighty of the young people drove out to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emery Linkletter for a rousing hymnsing and lunch. Tinus ended a very full and inspiring convention of the young people of the Churches of Christ.

Poppy Sale Very Successful At Summerside

President Dr. H. B. MacNeill presided at the regular monthly meeting of the Summerside branch of the Canadian Legion held last evening in the Home with a good membership present.

The report of the wreath and poppy committee revealed that a total net profit of $1,299.71 (with two schools still to report their sales). This the best year, financially, the branch ever had and a vote of thanks was extended to committee chairman Harold Harkness and his committee members.

Nine delegates were appointed to attend the next zone rally meeting to be held in Wellington November 26, the same date on which the Prince County Hospital membership drive canvass of the town will be held. The membership campaign and the Legion's part in the house-to house canvass was outlined in detail by Com. Joe Clark after which a goodly number came forward to take out membership.

The next meeting is scheduled for December 9th, at which the annual election of officers will be held. Five applications for membership were approved.

Arrest Young Theft Suspect

A 12-year-old boy suspected of stealing two wrist watches from Godkin's Jewellery Store at closing time yesterday was located by Cnst. Harry MacKay of the Summerside Police Department who also recovered the watches.

The young lad is said to have entered the store earlier in the afternoon and had been shown the two watches, each valued about $200.00, after stating his intention to purchase a wrist watch. Returning just at closing time he requested to see the watches again. After the boy had spent considerable time in examining the watches Mr. Godkin went to attend to some other work. The young fellow took both watches and ran from the store.

The proprietor was unable to identify the boy. Cnst. MacKay began an investigation and by diligent checking in the area and in several places in Summerside, was finally able to apprehend the young lad, and also recover the watches.

The boy will appear in Juvenile Court later this month.

Funeral Of West Point Lady Held On Saturday

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Peter Smith, a most highly esteemed resident of West Point was held on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 16, with service at the home at 1.30, followed by service at the West Point Presbyterian Church at 2 p.m. conducted by Rev. George Killen, a former pastor of Mrs. Smith's. He was assisted at the church by Mr. Heber Hardy.

Mrs. Smith, the former Mary Jane Ladner, was born at West Point on March 14, 1862, a daughter of the late Frederick and Susan Dumville Ladner. She was a granddaughter of the late Samuel Frederick Ladner, who was a soldier under the Duke of Welling ton and fought at the battle of Waterloo in 1815. For his services he was given Governor's Island at the mouth of the Charlottetown Harbour and later exchanged it for 1,000 acres of land at West Point.

Most of Mrs. Smith's life was spent at West Point where she received people in her home in a most hospitable manner. Up until one week before her death, Mrs. Smith enjoyed excellent health and was a very interesting conversationalist. Her husband predecessed her some 47 years ago. She is survived by one sister Mrs. Susan MacRae living in the United States and by several nieces and nephews as well as many other relatives.

Mr. Killen brought a very comforting and inspiring message to those bereaved in his service at the church. Hymns sung were "The Lord's My Shepherd" and "The Sweet Bye and Bye". A solo was very beautifully rendered by Mrs. Leslie MacLean.
