Condemn Aping Yanks At Resorts

OTTAWA (CP)—The practice of Canadian resort operators flying the Stars and Stripes and giving their establishments American names was condemned Tuesday by Canadian tourist officials. A federal-provincial tourist conference endorsed a resolution of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce urging that the practice of flying the United States flag be discouraged and that resort and restaurant operators be urged to serve high quality food distinctive of some area of Canada. Resources Minister Lesage agreed with other delegates that Canada should be kept Canadian. He said the federal government is ready to endorse Canadian Tourist Week to be held next May 1-7 and that might be a good time to impress the "keep Canada Canadian" idea on caterers and the public. E. G. Rowbottom, British Columbia deputy minister of trade and industry, termed as "stupid" the practice of flying the U. S. flag. Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian travel bureau and it was "ridiculous".

Goes On Trial For Husband Poisoning

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Judge Lloyd H. McGuire entered a plea of not guilty Tuesday for grand-mother Nannie Doss to a charge she murdered her fifth husband, one of four she has admitted feeding rat poison. Judge McGuire acted at the request of county attorney J. Howard Edmondson after Mrs. Doss' court-appointed lawyers refused to make a plea for her. They insisted she is mentally incompetent. The plump, 49-year-old widow is accused of causing the death Oct. 10 of Samuel Doss, 58, who died about five months after they were married. Her lawyers, Gordon Patten and Quinn Dickson, for the second time tried unsuccessfully to have their client committed to a mental hospital for observation. Judge McGuire refused, saying he did not feel he had that jurisdiction.

all day and into the night. Millions of television viewers saw the birthday presentations in ancient Westminster Hall when the prime minister was given the portrait of himself painted by Graham Sutherland and the autographed book from Parliament. Recalling that he and Attlee had been the only two British prime ministers of the last 14 years, Churchill said that was something for the world to recognize as "a symbol of the inherent stability of our British way of life." Of his wartime leadership, he said he was glad when Attlee described his speeches then as expressing the will not only of Parliament but of the whole nation.

THANKS OVER TV

Dulles Stresses Peaceful Note In Latest Talk

(By James Marlow, Associated Press Staff Writer)
The Eisenhower administration has replied to those who want tougher tactics toward Red China State Secretary Dulles responded in a radio-television broadcast on Monday night. The United States will try to use every peaceful means before going any farther, to get along with the Communists. "Peaceful" was the keynote of his talk, although he said the United States would "react vigorously" to provocation. He did not say what he meant by reacting "vigorously." Last January Dulles spoke of "massive retaliation" against an aggressor. Monday night, although firm, he was more restraining.

REVEALS THINKING
This was a little more detailed insight into his thinking than he provided in January when his failure to explain in some detail what he meant brought him criticism here and abroad. Dulles' speech Monday night was made at a time when the U. S. is protesting the imprisonment of 13 American spies by the Chinese Communists. Without specifying this in his talk, Dulles called the Chinese "provocative." But if the Eisenhower administration has any plans for freeing those Americans beyond protesting their imprisonment, Dulles did not reveal them.

Britain Relives Finest Hour With 80th Birthday of Prime Minister

By Alan Harvey
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON, (CP)—Britain relived its finest hour with the 80th birthday of Prime Minister Churchill. The anniversary of the "Voice of Old Britain at Bay"—as poet-playwright Sir Alan Herbert once called him—evoked a nostalgic flashback to a moment of high drama. Throughout the lane Tuesday, minds turned to the terrible time 14 years ago when Churchill's ringing words rallied the people to a cause that seemed lost—victory over Germany in the Second World War. Those were grim days but they had a quality few Britons have forgotten. In retrospect, there is an aura of excitement about them. Somehow there now seems in these islands almost a hankering to recapture the spirit of wartime, to regain the shared feeling of camaraderie and shared adventure, of living on the nerve-ends, beside which peacetime existence seems drab and tame.

VAGUE NOSTALGIA
There is nothing bloodthirsty in this odd yearning. Movie-maker Sir Michael Balcon describes it as "vague, unwitting nostalgia." Sir Michael, head of Ealing Studios, says in a contribution to the weekly British magazine, Truth, that this nostalgia is caused not by wanting the "horror" of those days back again but by a awareness of their general atmosphere. Something of the same feeling is expressed by the Dowager Marchioness of Reading, chairman and founder of the women's voluntary services, who writes that she cannot read but Churchill's wartime speeches "without a prickling eye and a tingling memory." The examples could be multiplied. They may help explain why Churchill has earned a special gratitude which cuts across party lines; why the man who once seemed doomed to be forever a brilliant failure now is widely accepted as one of the great figures of the 20th century.

1855 CHARLOTTETOWN CENTENNIAL 1955
AN INVITATION TO OUR CITIZENS TO LIGHT UP FOR CENTENNIAL YEAR
With January 1st set for the Official Opening of Charlottetown's Centennial Celebration all merchants and citizens are urged to co-operate in the lighting up of our City through special planned street lighting in the business area and by extra special Christmas lighting of their homes, all of which we urge you to leave up throughout 1955.

Up-town merchants will be contacted regarding participation in decorative street lighting being planned by our local Electrical Contractors.
It is hoped that many of our private citizens will make an extra effort to light up their homes for the Holiday Season and the ensuing Centennial Year.
Arrangements have been made for special lighting of City Hall and many of our Churches and other Public Buildings.
As Christmas is only about three weeks away it is respectfully suggested that the time to light up is now before the Christmas rush is upon us.
For suggestions, costs, etc., contact your local Electrical Contractor.
Your support and co-operation in providing for the Festive lighting of our City for its 100th Anniversary will be greatly appreciated.
Charlottetown Centennial Committee.
