IDA BAILEY ALLEN

Elaborate Luncheons Salute Hotel Opening

DIPLOMATS and other important VIPs from Iran and many other countries gathered in the spacious foyer of the Royal Hilton Hotel for the opening ceremonies.

To the music of the Royal Regimental band and surrounded by his ministers, His Imperial Majesty, the Shahanshah of Iran cut the ribbon for the opening of the hotel.

RECEIVED APPLAUSE Through the foyer he heard the cheering and enthusiastic applause and on to lunch in the Grand Ballroom with the gentlemen.

The ladies were ushered into the exotic Persian Room to enjoy a special Fashion Luncheon during which the Iranian haute couture, "Karshik," presented beautiful models with magnificent fashions, displaying a fashionable outdoor, at home, afternoon and evening costumes created in Tehran, chic and luxurious.

The furs were most interesting, especially a coat of creamy white baby lamb skins, slit front and back from yoke to hem.

Recut at my table were English speaking Iranian ladies, who were kind enough to give me their own favorite home dinner party menus, with recipes which will be given next week and which are adapted to American entertaining.
