

The Daily Examiner

OCTOBER 15, 1884.

Steady!

The moral sentiment of Charlottetown is now wide awake. Electors have heard and read and discussed the questions at issue.

The voices of our best and most eloquent men, the arguments of the press, the exhortations of the churches, and the "Ten Reasons" have not been in vain. The people have been aroused to the folly and danger of sanctioning the liquor traffic, and opening wide the door of the tavern. All that remains to be done is to go to the polls to-morrow. Go as early as possible; and let nothing prevent any elector who appreciates the true interests of his country from voting "AGAINST THE PETITION"?

What the Law Says.

THE law says no alcoholic liquors of any kind shall be sold or given on election day.

It says this because it is desirable that all electors should act according to the dictates of their reason and conscience on that day.

Everyone admits that this is right! And if it is right that the law should say there shall be no liquor on election day, is it not also right that the law should say that there shall be no liquor on any other day of the year?

Men should act according to their reason and conscience always. They cannot do so under the influence of strong drink.

Electors, what do you think? Answer by your votes to-morrow.

Mark your Ballots "Against the Petition."

Licensed to Sell.

- Licensed to hush the voice of right; Licensed to bid all honor flee; Licensed to make a sin seem light; Licensed to make lives disagree; Licensed to kill the maiden's blush; Licensed to dull the fear of shame; Licensed to bid her conscience hush; Licensed to give a tarnished name; Licensed to lead our youth astray; Licensed to coax him from his toil; Licensed to give his passions sway; Licensed to lead him into brawl; Licensed to take the workman's board; Licensed to make his arm grow weak; Licensed to rob the children's board; Licensed to blanch the mother's cheek; Licensed to make us need police; Licensed to tax our house and land; Licensed to bid all crime increase; Licensed to form the robber's band; Licensed to crushed the drunkard low; Licensed to leave him in the mire; Licensed to bid his mad talk flow; Licensed to set his brain on fire; Licensed to fill a drunkard's grave; Licensed to bring a widow woe; Licensed to make a woman a slave; Licensed to be the children's foe; Licensed to give a prison life; Licensed to bid a felon lurk; Licensed to whet assassin's knife; Licensed to give the hangman work; Licensed to work in sin like leaven; Licensed to live a no'er-do-well; Licensed to shut men out of heaven; Licensed to shut men up in hell.

Electors of Charlottetown are asked to sanction "Licenses to sell." Will they do it? NO.

No liquor to be sold to-morrow, on pain of a fine of $100 or imprisonment for six months.

The Penal Clause.

THE judgment of the Stipendiary Magistrate as to whether a violator of the law may be put in jail for a third offence against the provisions of the Canada Temperance Act is published in THE EXAMINER to-day. His Honor is of opinion that the provisions of the Scott Act are not impaired or altered by the Liquor License Act, the intention of the Legislature being to have both acts intact. So that a violator of the Scott Act may be imprisoned. His Honor's judgment is clear and to the point, and well worth reading.

No liquor to be given away to-morrow.

For Catholics and Protestants.

In this agitation, Canada knows no difference of creed or nationality. Alcohol is recognized as an enemy of morality, and therefore an enemy of every religion that teaches morality. Catholic and Protestant in this campaign, are marching shoulder to shoulder, just as they would outside a residence. In England, Cardinal Manning appears on the same temperance platform with dignitaries of the English Church and pastors of all Protestant denominations. From Father Mathew in Ireland, to Bishop Lalleche and his devoted clergy in Archdiocese, and Father Martineau in Montreal, the Catholic Church can boast of a small list of great workers in this holy cause. The Scott Act itself was introduced by a Catholic, Senator Scott.

RALLY at the Market Hall this evening, and at the Polls to-morrow morning.

A Temperance Poem.

ELSEWHERE in to-day's paper we publish a poetical production, headed "Go Feel What I Have Felt." Almost forty years ago the writer of this, when a lad learning the printer's art, was given the poem mentioned to be placed in type. That lad, a few years previous, had followed the dead body of his father, who went down to a drunkard's grave at the early age of thirty-six, having sacrificed business, fortune, friends, and leaving a loving wife and four small, helpless children to the cold mercies of the world through a taste for intoxicants. Like hundreds of thousands of British-born subjects, the father had acquired the drinking habit when in his boyhood. It became so fastened upon him that, although he made many herculean efforts to throw the terrible habit off, he was unable to do so, and he sunk to an un-honored grave. That lad while setting the poem in type, felt that the words and sentiments were the utterances of his own mother. It was a complete history of her sufferings and her feelings, and from that day to this the poem has not been forgotten by the writer. It was a happy thought on the part of the person who conceived the idea of sending the poem broadcast, as a campaign document in the pending Scott Act contest. Its pathos and its indignant indictment of King Alcohol, must appeal to the hearts of many a wife and mother in Charlottetown.

At the time mentioned, at the beginning of this article, the poem had been going the rounds of the press of the continent. It was then prefaced with a short account of the lady author, and the circumstances under which it was written. We are sorry that the particulars are not to be found, as the few harrowing details would tend to increase abhorrence for the use and traffic in alcoholic liquors. The lady author, superinduced by her intense, mental and bodily sufferings, poured out her whole soul in the truly graphic poem, which tells the whole tale of man's slavery to drink, and the fearful consequences to himself, wife, children, friends.

And there are those in Charlottetown who will vote in favor of the demon alcohol. There are fathers in town, whose sons may be seen regularly or occasionally tipsy, who proclaim themselves opposed to the Scott Act, seemingly forgetting that a rigid enforcement of the Act would save their sons, and that as good citizens they should give all aid to the laws to suppress the traffic in intoxicants.

The writer thanks God that he was enabled to vote for the Scott Act, and trusts that when to-morrow comes he shall also be enabled to place his mark opposite the words "Against the Petition," on the proper voter's ballot. Every wife and mother should pray that the husbands and fathers of Charlottetown shall record their votes "Against the Petition," and the result will be that at least the next and future generations shall be abstainers from the use of intoxicants.—Com.

Ladies and Gentlemen, old and young, attend the Meeting in Market Hall this evening.

—In his last charge to the Grand Jury, the Chief Justice referred at length to the absence of crime in this Province, and said that in his opinion it was largely attributable to the repressive legislation in regard to the sale of intoxicating liquors. We give this in answer to the assertions of the liquor dealers. Electors, whom do you credit most the liquor dealers and their friends or the Judge on the bench.

RALLY at the Market Hall this evening, and at the Polls to-morrow morning.

—Three hundred and forty dollars was the amount, which Francis Nicholson had to pay a few days ago, for attempting practically to prove that the Scott Act did not prohibit. He was convicted on five separate informations of having sold liquor at Bloomfield, Carleton, N. B., and was fined $50 and costs for each offence!

LIVELY Speeches by our best Speakers at the Market Hall this evening.

Wrecked.

The schooner Three Sisters, Capt. Walpole, ran ashore on China Point during a squall on Monday night, and is a total wreck. She was a vessel of 43 tons, and her cargo of coal from Pictou was consigned to the Charlottetown Woolen Factory. All hands were saved.

The P. L. G., Capt. Anderson, reported missing, is, we learn from a despatch received by Capt. John Hughes, "all right" in Pictou.

Another Fire in Summerside Barn Totally Destroyed.

FIREBUG AT WORK.

About midnight last night the town of Summerside was again alarmed by the sound of the fire bell. It was found that a barn on the corner of Market and Cedar Streets, in the occupation of Mr. James McNeill, blacksmith, was on fire. The barn and its contents were totally consumed. The fire was evidently the work of an incendiary.

LIVELY Speeches by our best Speakers at the Market Hall this evening.

Yea, cursed rum! thou foulest fiend that walks our sin-stained earth, The progeny of hellish sprites who know to them its worth, Exult in all its dire effects, the streams of blood that's shed, The countless thousands which its power has numbered with the dead.

'Tis rum that oft has turned aside the virtuous and the just, 'Tis rum that's caused the Christian man no more in God to trust, 'Tis rum that's caused ten thousand souls away from home to dwell, 'Tis rum that blasts our peaceful earth—'tis rum that peoples hell. —AMICUS.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Artesian Wells.

SIR,—The Scott Act is on trial, and the popular verdict will sustain it; but there are other ways of poisoning water than corrupting it with drink-mixtures; other drains of the public health than drinking intoxicating beverages. There is a poisonous drainage, which insidiously finds its way into the bottoms of our wells, and produces disease; and as everybody in Charlottetown is aware of the fact, probably the "Pump Act" will loom up, after the rivets are well clenched on the Scott Act, and get a reforming fiat to conform to a more sanitary way of supply. Or, perhaps the water-reformers of Charlottetown may dream about the experiment of an artesian well. Why not? The fountain, in Trafalgar Square, London, England, and the government offices near have been supplied since 1844 by two of these wells 393 feet deep. At Paris the Grenelle well is 1,798 feet deep. It was completed in 1841, and the well at Passy, begun in 1855, and completed in 1860, has a supply capacity sufficient for 500,000 persons. The London Horticultural Society's garden has such a well, which yields 880,000 gallons of water, at the temperature of 81 deg. Fah., in every twenty-four hours. If water, plenty and pure, follows the firm establishment of the Scott Act, it will put more soul into the cause of temperance and other cleanly habits, than this city in the sea has experienced since her patron Saint Prince Edward took the place of St. John.
