SCANDAL INFLICTS DEEP WOUND

Mac's Gov't Sustained By Margin Of 69 In Vote

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan won a grudging vote of confidence Monday night after a slashing opposition attack on his handling of the Profumo-Keeler sex and security scandal and defections in his own Conservative party.

By 321 to 252, the 69-year-old Macmillan was given a mandate in the House of Commons to carry on as chief of government.

But he is expected to step down soon, possibly this summer, and let a younger man try to clean up the Conservative party's badly smuged image.

The Conservatives normally have a 97-seat edge over the combined opposition in the House but Macmillan's victory margin was only 69.

The closeness of the vote reflected growing discontent among Conservatives with Macmillan's leadership. One Conservative suggested in the debate that Macmillan step aside soon.

Twenty - eight Conservatives abstained from voting as an expression of their displeasure with Macmillan's stewardship.

CALLED MORAL DEFEAT

Reuters news agency said the outcome was a heavy moral defeat for Macmillan, since before the Opposition began its massive onslaught on him in Monday's vote on the Profumo scandal, government sources forecast that no more than 15 Conservative members would fail to support him.

Reuters said political observers predicted before the debate that if more than 20 Conservatives abstained, Macmillan might be forced to reconsider his reported decision not to resign at least until the Profumo scandal died down.

As the prime minister left the House of Commons after the vote there were cries of "resign" from Opposition Labor party members and cheers from the Conservatives.

Labor Leader Harold Wilson tried, on a point of order, to ask Macmillan what he planned to do but the Speaker refused to allow the question.

Wilson, who would become prime minister if his party wins the next election, led the attack on Macmillan.

He declared the scandal of high and low life, Britain's most sensational in the century, was "a triumphant success for the Soviet espionage authori-

Kennedy Seeks Support For Rights Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy conferred with congressional leaders of both parties Monday in his search for support for a civil rights program that one conferee said "will cover everything."

This assessment came from Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois who told reporters he believes there is an "area of agreement" between the Republicans and administration leaders on a number of proposals.

Kennedy continued his efforts to ease racial tension by calling in 200 religious leaders for discussion. The president wants them to exert moral leadership in their communities to bring about racial equality.

RC Church Pays Solemn Farewell To Pope John

CP from AP-Reuters

VATICAN CITY—The Roman Catholic Church paid solemn farewell to Pope John XXIII Monday before dignitaries of many nations, the clergy of other Christian faiths and representatives of Judaism.

Cardinals, princes and political leaders attended a requiem mass in the vaulted grandeur of St. Peter's Basilica.

In formal dress, these great and powerful people sat sad-eyes and still before a giant, black draped catagalque doing honor to a pope of humble origins who sought new ways to promote Christian unity and the brotherhood of man.

Pope John's family and boyhood friends were at St. Peter's.

The two hours of magnificent ceremony in Christendom's largest church concluded nine official days of mourning for Pope John.

Meanwhile signs appeared that the election of a new pontiff may be a long affair.

Vatican sources said the private discussions in recent days among the cardinals has failed to produce widespread agreement on any candidate. There were predictions that the conclave opening Wednesday may run for many days before a new pope is chosen.

Social Credit Government Is Re-Elected In Alberta

TIRED BUT HAPPY. Mayor A. Walthen Gaudet and Mrs. Gaudet arrived home yesterday afternoon from England after being away three weeks. His Worship reported a most enjoyable journey but said he was glad to be home after a visit that was "fascinating but strenuous."

Opposition Parties Make Weak Showing

EDMONTON (CP)—The Canadian Press said at 8:30 p.m. MST (12:30 a.m. ADT) Monday that early returns in the Alberta election indicated re-election of the Social Credit government.

EDMONTON (CP) — Social Credit candidates surged to the front in early counting in Monday's Alberta general election.

Premier E. C. Manning, head of the government for 20 years, won an easy personal victory in Edmonton Strathcona East in a four-way contest.

All three opposition leaders trailed—Liberal David Hunter in Athabasca, New Democrat Neil Reimer in Edmonton Northeast and Conservative Milton Harradence in Calgary West.

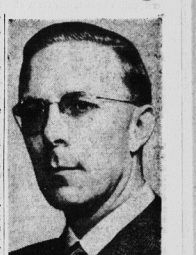
First person elected in Monday's vote was Ashley Cooper, returned in Vermilion for Social Credit.

A record 715,600 persons were eligible to vote compared with 649,400 in the last general election in 1959. Total vote in 1959 was 414,500—64.16 per cent of those eligible.

Sixty-two of the legislature's 63 seats were contested by 224 candidates. One seat was filled two weeks ago when a Social Credit candidate was elected by acclamation.

Redistribution cut two rural seats from the last 63-seat legislature.

Standing when the legislature was dissolved last month was Social Credit 60, Liberal 1, Progressive Conservative 1, coalition 1, independent Social Credit 1, vacant 1. The vacancy was caused by the death in March of Rev. Peter Dawson, Social Credit member for Little Bow, who was Speaker of the House for many years.



PREMIER E. C. Manning won an easy personal victory Monday in Edmonton Strathcona East in a four-way contest. He has been premier for 20 years.

Credit cabinet minister was re elected by acclamation.

IN POWER 28 YEARS

The Social Credit party, in power for 28 years and led for 20 years by Premier E. C. Manning, elected 61 members in the last general election. It has won all four byelections since then.

The only constituency without election activity was Taber-Warner, where Welfare Minister L. C. Halmrast won without a battle June 3 when no one opposed his re-election.

The voting followed six weeks of quiet campaizning in which new leaders of the three main opposition parties concentrated on winning election personally in constituencies held by Social Credit in the last house. All three leaders were chosen within the last 18 months.

The campaign was the eighth for Mr. Manning since 1935 and the sixth as premier.

Social Credit contested all seats, with all 14 members of

Diefenbaker Fails In Bid For Debate On Budget Aid

OTTAWA (CP)—An opposition move to bring about an emergency Commons debate on the part played by three outside experts in preparation of the federal budget was beaten down Monday by the Liberal government, helped by Social Credit.

Later, taking advantage of an opening set up by a Social Credit member, Finance Minister Gordon explained how a Calgary law firm was able to receive from the minister's former Toronto firm a summarized version of changes in the budget at 9:30 the morning after it was unveiled here.

The summary was prepared by the Toronto accounting firm of Clarkson, Gordon and Company, with which Mr. Gordon used to be associated.

The explanation was contained in a telegram Mr. Gordon read to the House from the senior partner in the accounting firm, J. R. M. Wilson. It stated that what the firm had done was "consistent in every respect" with practices followed in past years.

ASKED EXPLANATION

The matter had been raised by Douglas Harkness (PC — Calgary North) who called for a full explanation in view of questions about the secrecy of the budget.

The move for a special debate on three Toronto businessmen being brought in by the government to help prepare the budget was made by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker. He was supported by T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader.

Last Friday, Mr. Gordon admitted under opposition questioning that M. P. O'Connell and C. H. Stanley, Toronto investment dealers, and G. R. Conway, a post-graduate student at Harvard, had been engaged as temporary assistants in the finance department. The minister said at the time that both investment dealers remained on the payroll of their respective concerns.

He emphasized then, however that all three had taken the oaths of secrecy and allegiance, and firmly rejected opposition suggestions that it was improper to allow such outsiders access to the secrets of the budget.

SECRECY IMPERILLED

Mr. Diefenbaker charged Monday that the finance minister's admission constituted "a flagrant departure from constitutional budgetary practice," imperilled the secrecy of the budget and had an unsettling effect on the House and on the country.

He moved that regular business be set aside to discuss the question, which was one of urgent public importance.

After a lengthy procedural debate, Speaker Alan Macnaughton rejected Mr. Diefenbaker's motion, holding that the question lacked sufficient urgency to justify adjourning regular business.

Scheduled for the Commons Monday was resumed debate on the government resolution for establishment of development and loan board. But the procedural battle over the budget occupied so much time that this was not reached in the afternoon sitting. Even the daily question period was affected; it was not concluded until the night sitting — a rare occurrence.

Parliament At A Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

MONDAY, June 17, 1963

Speaker Alan Macnaughton ruled out a motion by Conservative Leader Diefenbaker demanding a special debate on circumstances surrounding preparation of the budget.

The New Democratic Party challenged the ruling, which was upheld by a formal vote of 97 to 69. Social Crediters siding with the Liberals.

Douglas Harkness (PC — Calgary North) said a Calgary law firm received 9 a.m. Friday a summary of last Thursday night's budget from Clarkson, Gordon and Company, Toronto.

Finance Minister Gordon said his former firm received copies of the budget at 9:3 p.m. Thursday, prepared a summary and mailed it in time to catch a westbound plane at 2:50 a.m. Friday.

The Commons passed the government resolution on the Municipal Development and Loan Board and gave first reading to the bill.

Finance Minister Gordon said the bill will be discussed with the provinces; Prime Minister Pearson said Premier Lesage asked that action on it be postponed.

TUESDAY, June 18

The Commons meets at 2:30 p.m. to debate Atlantic Development Board changes. The Senate sits at 8 p.m.

Couple Battle Gravity In Space Record Bid

CP from AP-Reuters

MOSCOW (AP)—Russian cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky continued to whirl around the earth early today, apparently battling gravity in a bid for a new space mark by accord. His blonde orbiting partner, Valentina Tereshkova, had already surpassed the U.S. mark and soared on.

Bykovsky would have to remain aloft to about 3 p.m. Moscow time (10 a.m. ADT) to match the performance of Russian space twin Andrian Nikolayev, who made 64 orbits in a little more than four days last August.

There were signs, however, that Kykovsky might be forced into an earlier landing because the diminishing speed and altitude of his orbit could make it dangerous to remain aloft.

It was believed in Moscow that if Bykovsky should land today Valentina probably would be forced to follow him down.

There was no report of any change in the flight of the world's first space woman. She had circles under her eyes in live television pictures, indicating some fatigue after more than a day in space. But she kept smiling brightly for the camera inside her spacecraft. The newspaper Izvestia reported she dozed off Sunday night and had to be awakened.

The announcement of the variation in Bykovsky's orbit said his maximum altitude, originally 146 miles, had lowered to 125.5. His minimum altitude dropped to 102.5 miles from 112.4.

After she went into orbit Sunday, Miss Tereshkova's maximum and minimum altitudes were given as 144 miles and 113.

NOTE CHANGE

The change in Kykovsky's orbit was noted by Western tracking stations. Experts expressed the belief the variation was the result of a manoeuvre. They had no ideas on the purpose of the manoeuvre.

Tass reported at 10 p.m Moscow time (4 p.m. ADT) the woman had completed 23 orbits and travelled 90,000 kilometres (about 560,000 miles) — farther than U.S. spaceman Gordon Cooper who completed the longest U.S. flight of 22 orbits.

Her space companion had gone around the earth 54 times by then, at the end of his fourth day in space.

There were persistent reports from Communist sources in Moscow forecasting a third manned space shot linked with Vostok V and Vostok VI.

Official announcements gave no hint as to when the pair would come down. Unofficial reports said landing at short intervals would possible come today.

Caretaker Gov't Set For Greece

CP from AP-Reuters

ATHENS—King Paul has appointed Commerce Minister Panayotis Pipinelis, 64, to form a caretaker government to replace that of resigned premier Constantine Caramanlis, who quit over the scheduled greek royal visit to Britain next month.

The action came Monday after Caramanlis demanded a caretaker government be formed to hold new elections as quickly as possible.

The palace announcement which said Pipinelis, considered a friend of the monarch and a close adviser of Caramanlis, will form a caretaker government did not mention new elections.

Sugar Prices Cut 30 Cents

MONTREAL (CP) — Three major Montreal sugar refineries today lowered the price of refined sugar by 30 cents. The price is now $15.25 a 100-pound bag.

The price level is determined by the price of raw sugar on the world market in London, which dropped today.

The price of refined sugar has changed 44 times since Jan. 1 —36 increases and eight decreases. Last May 23, the price was the highest since 1920, at $17.65 a 100-pound bag.

Hoover Remains Critically Ill

NEW YORK (AP) —Former president Herbert Hoover, 88, remained gravely ill Monday but his doctors reported some slight improvement.

Hoover underwent a cancer operation last August and is suffering from what was described as "anemia, secondary to bleeding from the gastro-intestinal tract."

'Fascinating Experience' Mayor Calls Overseas Trip

Justices in traditional wigs and red robes, the famous Guildhall and Mansion House, Covent Garden and the Royal Opera House, Windsor Castle and the Thames River combined in a kaleidoscopic view of Britain obtained by Mayor A. Walthen Gaudet and Mrs. Gaudet who returned yesterday.

For four days they were guests of the City of London along with the mayors of several other Canadian cities and from the moment of arrival till departure every moment was packed with action, dinners, parties, luncheons and side journeys.

It was "a tremendously fascinating experience" and the hospitality shown was overwhelming, the Charlottetown couple said last night.

REAL SURPRISE

A real surprise to them was a telephone call they received at their hotel from E. M. Gorman of this city, the deputy minister of fisheries, who was in Europe on business matters.

At the official reception at Mansion House they were received by the Lord Mayor of London Sir Ralph Perring and the Lady Mayoress.

One of the outstanding short trips they made took them to Windsor Castle where the Queen was in residence in he Castle. They could look out over Runymeade and Magna Carta Island on their way to St. George's Chapel, the seat of the Knights of the Garter, where British Royalty is buried. There Mayor Gaudet laid a wreath at the tomb of Queen Charlotte after whom this city was named.

TIES WITH PROVINCE

It was while at Windsor he was approached by a man who said his people came from Charlottetown and one of his ancestors has been a Father of Confederation. Questioning revealed the family name of his mother had been Palmer.

Both Mayor and Mrs. Gaudet felt that on several occasions during the visit of the Canadian mayors they were singled out for special attention. One of them was during a luncheon at Canada House when host George Drew made reference to "lovely Charlottetowns", another was when Sir Ralph Perring and his lady asked them to sit beside them at a formal function.

VISITS SISTER

Mayor Gaudet had the pleasure of a long visit with his sister Bernadette (Gaga), Mrs. George Buxford, at her home in Coventry.

Among the famous places visited were Coventry Cathedral, the home of Guy Fawkes,

Conference On Smoking To Be Held

OTTAWA (CP)—Health Minister Judy La Marsh announced Monday she is calling an early conference of Canadian health officials and other interested parties on the hazards of cigarette smoking.

She did not name a date in her announcement to the Commons.

Miss La Marsh, who personally gave up smoking during the weekend, said she had been impressed by evidence linking cigarette smoking with lung cancer and certain types of bronchitis and heart disease.

A special effort must be made to persuade young people not to take up the smoking habit, she told the House.

Miss La Marsh said her department will be working in close co - operation with provincial and municipal health departments in combatting cigarette smoking.

She was inviting officials of the other levels of government, along with representatives of voluntary agencies and of the tobacco industry, to an early conference.

ELLERSLIE HEARNING TODAY

Evidence Taken On Move By CNR At Fredericton

About a dozen residents of Fredericton turned out yesterday afternoon at the local railway station to discuss with E. J. Hase, district inspector of the Board of Transport Commissioners, the application of Canadian National Railways to discontinue caretaker services at the station.

Hearings are to be held at Ellerslie today and at Vernon River tomorrow. In each case the opening time is 10 a.m. It is expected federal and provincial government representatives will be in attendance, in addition to private citizens.

At Ellerslie the CNR is asking for the permanent removal of the agent. At Vernon River the application is for the removal of the agent from May to October.

D. E. LeBlanc is agent at Ellerslie and J. E. Johnson the agent at Vernon River.

FREDERICTON SPOKESMAN

At Fredericton yesterday, spokesman for the group, Knud Jorgensen, said "the main interest here is that we don't want to lose the station, which would be a setback to the community. It may be all right to dispense with caretaker services but we wouldn't want to see the station closed."

Mr. Hase made it clear that the hearing was concerned only with the stopping of caretaker services and if the CNR wanted to close the station altogether an application to this effect would have to be made to the Board of Transport Commissioners.

Mr. Jorgensen said "if normal freight services can be maintained without the services of a caretaker, it will be all right." He suggested that "close to 1,000 people live in the area served by the station."

Station caretaker is Frank Cutcliffe, Fredericton.

Mr. Hase said the Board of Transport Commissioners will probably make their decision of the CNR's application "within a month."

A hearing was also scheduled yesterday afternoon at Clyde on the CNR's application to remove their station at the siding in that area. No one showed up at the station for the hearing, except E. G. MacLeod, a nearby farmer who makes one shipment of cream a week by rail.

Tobacco Planting In Final Stages

Tobacco planting is about 75 percent completed in the province, and most growers would have most of their plants in the ground by the end of this week if the weather holds good, David Peacock, provincial department of agriculture fieldman said here last night.

Some of the smaller growers have completed their planting operations and several of the larger ones expected to be through by last night. Leigh O'Brien, Alberton expected to finish planting yesterday and it was believed that Roy Gibson would be completing his 24 acres on the P.E.I. government's experimental farm at Greenfield.

Alyre Gallant, Rustic ville had something more than 20 acres planted last night and he will be pretty well finished with his planned 30-35 acre operation by the end of this week, if the weather holds good, he expects.

A few acres were victims of the most severe frost earlier this month, said Mr. Peacock, who explained that plants affected were those that had just been planted that day, or the previous afternoon.

Tobacco plants came along really good in the greenhouses this spring, observed S.C. Wright deputy minister of agriculture, though several growers complained of poor growth in the early stages.

Approximately 30 acres of tobacco were grown here last year and there are indications that it may come close to 500 acres this year. Agriculture Minister MacRae said recently.

Second World War Leader Viscount Alanbrooke Dies

LONDON (CP)—Field Marshal Alanbrooke, British Second World War leader, died Monday at his home at Hartley Wintney, Hampshire. He was 79.

He was chief of the imperial general staff through most of the Second World War from 1941 to 1946. He was promoted to field Marshal in 1944 and became a viscount in 1945.

Lord Alanbrooke commanded the 2nd Army Corps of the British Expeditionary Force in France from 1939 to 1940. After the retreat from Dunkerque he became commander-in-chief of home forces until his promotion to the post of chief of the imperial general staff.

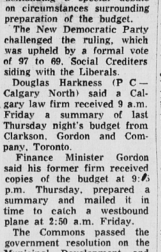
Alan Francis Brooke was twice married—first to Jane Mary Richardson in January, 1914. She died in 1925. His second marriage was to Benita, the widow of Sir Thomas Lees.

He is succeeded to the title of Viscount Alanbrooke by his 46-year-old son, Thomas.

JOINED ARMY IN 1902

Lord Alanbrooke joined the Royal Field Artillery in 1902 and served in Ireland and India before serving in France in the First World War.

He rose to the rank of lieutenant-colonel and between the two wars held various commands and a number of staff appointments.



LORD ALANBROOKE

Official cause of death was not disclosed, but his wife, Lady Alanbrooke, said he had suffered from cardiac deterioration "for some time."

Alanbrooke, a constant companion of former prime minister Winston Churchill during the Second World War and a main architect of the Allied victory, was to have taken part in a ceremony at Windsor Monday as a Knight of the Garter — one of Britain's chief orders of chivalry.

At the ceremony, attended by Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, a special prayer was offered for the wartime leader.

CRITICIZED EISENHOWER

In 1959 the book Triumph in the West, prepared by Sir Arthur Bryant from the viscount's wartime diaries, set off a furor in the U.S. because of Alanbrooke's frequent criticism of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"Eisenhower," Alanbrooke wrote, "although supposed to be running the land battle, is on the golf links at Rheims — entirely detached and taking practically no part in the running of the war."

A spokesman for Eisenhower, president at the time of the book's publication, said Eisenhower never had a golf club in his hands in Europe before victory was won.

The first volume of Alanbrooke's diaries, published in 1957, also provoked a critical storm in Canada.

Some of the book's statements were described by Gen. Andrew McNaughton, the Canadian army's first commander in Britain during the war, as "egocentric bunk."
