St. Laurent Favors All-Canadian Gas Pipeline

EDMONTON, (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent Monday night pledged the liberal government to back development of an all-Canadian pipe line to given Eastern Canadaian centres the benefit of Alberta's cheap natural gas.

The prime minister touched on his government's pipe line policy as he continued to hammer away at his main West vote-getting argument: Western Canada should vote Liberal because only the Liberal government has sufficient country-wide support to provide strong, stable government to speed Canada's economic development.

The only alternative for Canada, he said in a speech prepared for delivery at 9 p.m. MST before a Liberal rally, would be a coalition government made up of opposition parties with different and contradictory philosophies, too weak to provide the administrative strength needed at Ottawa.

Believes Australia Has Much Uranium

May contracts came on the board at the close of the session.

Prices for class two and domestic wheat, top grades, were down two cents from Friday. IWA prices were down one-eighth

Will Follow Tests Closely In P.E.I.

Considerable interest has been aroused throughout the Province as a result of the experiments made in Germany and the promise of a test to be made in New Brunswick, dealing with the treating of asphalt and concrete with a chemical mixture to make them ice-repellent. Claims made for the discovery are going to be put to the test on a 100 foot stretch of New Brunswick highway, with the approval of the provincial and federal governments.

The compound has already been subject to tests in the University of New Brunswick laboratories and is said to have rated even better than in Germany. An inch-and-a-half of asphalt containing the chemicals is being superimposed on the old black base on the test stretch and will be watched closely for results next January. It is estimated that roads under construction can be made ice-free at an additional cost of 10 per cent.

Hon Dougald MacKinnon, Minister of Highways on being questioned regarding the experiment said that the engineers of his department are deeply interested and are in touch with the situation in New Brunswick.

"Should anything interesting develop," he said "we expect to look fully into the possibility of improving winter driving conditions here."
