"TAKE TO THE WOODS."

An Interesting Yarn Brought All the Way From Havana.

"Did you ever see the celebrated 'take to the woods' proclamation?" asked a young man who has lately returned from a prolonged sojourn in Havana. "It was one of the most amusing practical jokes ever played. For nearly a year, as you may know, Havana has been swarming with fake patriots, most of 'em colonels and generals, who are dead sore because they haven't received fat jobs in the civil service. They sit around the cafes at night, rehearsing their wrongs, and their favorite threat is that they are going to 'take to the woods,' meaning that they will go out to one of the interior provinces and start a little war of their own.

"Of course nobody regarded the thing seriously, but some of us got tired hearing it, and one day we drafted a proclamation which purported to emanate from the governor's palace. After the usual preamble it went on to say in substance that the expression 'take to the woods' was hereby declared treasonable, and any one making use of the same was liable to a penalty of from 5 to 20 years' imprisonment at hard labor.

"A job printer we knew set the thing up for us in regular official style, one side Spanish and one side English, and we had about a hundred copies privately struck off. They were the source of endless fun. Wherever we heard a boodle patriot holding forth on the ingratitude of nations we would quietly slip him a copy of the proclamation and whisper that it was being posted all over Havana.

"The effect was magical. I remember a certain general who was bellowing at the top of his voice and had just made the usual declaration in regard to the woods, when a waiter handed him one of the documents. He glanced at it, turned pea green and vanished. How he got away I don't know. It was like a trick on the stage, and, what is more, I never laid eyes on him again. I believe he really did take to the woods.

"We worked the thing for about a week before the joke leaked out, and we came near causing an exodus among military gentlemen who wanted jobs or blood. Some of them received such a nervous shock that they have been mild as lambs ever since."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Only One More Month

Our celery will only hold out about one month. Some of the wise ones are ordering a quantity to be kept in reserve for them. We have held on to the best for the last (the famous English Red Celery.) In this respect we resemble children who keep the most dainty part of their lunch to the last and at the rate it is going the time will soon come when there will not even be a last. The moral to the above is quite plain; no need to read between the lines it is enjoy it while it lasts.

We also have Hubbard Squash, Cape Cod and Island Cranberries, Spanish & Canadian onions, Brussells sprouts, red & white cabbage, carrots, beets, parsnips, turnips, beans, peas, parsley, etc.
