

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JUNE 2, 1884.

Methodist Union.

The union of "the Methodist Church of Canada" was legally consummated yesterday. The Church has now two general superintendents, 1,633 ministers, 175,000 children in its Sabbath school, and some 785,000 adherents.

The Methodists are to be congratulated on their Union, and on their strength; let us hope that their union will continue unbroken and that their strength will increase.

Aggressiveness and Audacious Attacks.

At last we have the policy of the Opposition! Here it is, as formulated by the organ at Ottawa. Commenting on the remark of the Toronto World that Sir Richard Cartwright had "burnt his boats," the organ says:

"It is to be hoped that the example will be generally imitated by the Liberal leaders; and a bold aggressive policy affirming definite reforms in the administration of public affairs adopted. A boldly affirmative policy, backed by aggressiveness and audacious attacks upon Tory strongholds must win. There is no reason for regarding any constituency as hopeless of being carried or redeemed by the Liberals. Faint heart never won fair lady, and sheer dog god pluck has carried many an apparently fainting cause to victory."

That's it. Now we know what we have to look out for—"Bold aggressiveness" and "Audacious attacks!"

The Burden of the Public Debt.

THE Moncton Times supplies the following figures as representing the burden of the public debt in the years mentioned:

Table with 2 columns: Year, Amount. 1881: $6,950,542; 1882: 6,770,489; 1883: 6,609,386.

Decrease in debt burden since 1881, three hundred and fifty-seven thousand dollars! The Times also remarks that the estimates for next year show a decrease of upwards of two hundred thousand dollars in interest and sinking funds, notwithstanding the silly assertions that the country is going to wreck and ruin by reason of the enormous debt, and that the charges of management of the debt for the present year and next year (estimates) average less than $170,100, while the average for this service during the Mackenzie Government's term of office was upwards of $200,000.

Congregational Singing.

LAST EVENING, a very large congregation gathered in the Methodist brick Church, to hear the Rev. Mr. Lathern, who occupied the pulpit for the first time since he resigned the pastorate of the Church, five years ago. The text—"Grounded in Love"—was taken from the 17th verse of the 3rd chapter of the Epistle to the Ephesians; and the sermon was an able and eloquent discourse. But we missed the congregational singing that used to be such an important part of the worship, and it seemed that Mr. Lathern missed it, too. Before giving out the hymn, he said, "We will join in the service of sacred song;" but as the tunes chosen by the leader of the choir were entirely new to the congregation, they were unable to take any part in that service. This is certainly a mistake. While it is pleasing to see a good choir in every Church, it is still more pleasing to hear the whole congregation sing with the spirit and the understanding. We hope, when Mr. Lathern preaches in the brick Church again, he will hear congregational singing, such as he used to have when he was their Pastor.

Editorial Notes.

—Senator Allison is being spoken of as a dark horse for the Presidency, and it is said that if nominated his chances for success would be away above the average. A Chicago paper says that "he possesses many taking qualities. A few years ago he took considerable credit mobilier stock and other substantial bribes. By all means our republican friends should pitch upon the low as their standard bearer."

—Says the St. John Sun:—"We have men among us, few let us thank our stars, who would like to see our peaceful Canada burdened with such a loadstone, all that the boy who grows up in the cabin may feel that he has a chance some day to be President! "A chance" indeed it is. And what is a President? The head of a clique, the puppet of the managers, the pawn of the astute players. Let each true Canadian patriot thank heaven that we elect no President nor Governors, nor Judges, nor Sheriffs. Annexation must shear off these tag-alongs, before it can appear fair to Canadian eyes."

The Roman Catholic Church is beginning to take active steps for carrying on a propaganda among the colored people.

The Magdalene Islands.

We advise those of our readers who desire to spend a pleasant and profitable hour to obtain Miss Pope's charming brochure entitled "In and around the Magdalene Islands." Few of us know more of these islands than the bulk of the people of Ontario and Quebec know of this island; and yet they are as well, or almost as well, worthy of our regard as this island is of that of our brethren in the big Provinces. Miss Pope tells the reader, in her fine literary style, how the Magdalene Islands are reached, and, in small space, gives many interesting particulars concerning their history and present condition. Her descriptive touches are graphic and artistic. The jail, she says, is "a large and hideous stone erection, with a stunted chimney at each side, bearing some sort of resemblance to the grim visage of a young bull-dog with cropped ears;" but she adds—showing that there may be some utility in hideousness—"over eight years have passed since the jail held a prisoner." A more attractive feature noted by Miss Pope is the fact that "not a frog, toad or snake has ever been found in any part of the Magdalene Islands." Here is what every one of taste and sensibility will at once recognize as an exceedingly fine bit of descriptive writing.

"Against the western shore the surf beats in, incessantly chanting its never-ending dirge over those whom its pitiless waters have engulfed. But very calm and beautiful was the sea of St. Lawrence that summer day, and its waves murmured softly and cooingly as they twined strange wreaths of wild sea-grasses round our horses' feet, and brought us d-licate mosses and dainty shells, as if to allure us to venture nearer to their treacherous depths; but ever and anon the gentle waves broke against the wooden wall of some ill-fated wreck that, lodged in the tenuous sand-bar, stood a grim testimony to the truth of Mr. Steadman's beautiful poem:

"Woe, woe to those whom the Islands pen! In vain they slun the double capes; Cruel are the reefs of Magdalen; The Wolf's white fang what prey escapes? The Grindstone grinds the bones of some, And Coffin Isle is craped with foam; On Deadman's shore are fearful shapes!"

In the Magdalene Islands, says Miss Pope,—

"One finds a distinct peasantry—a hardy, self-reliant race, that keeps to their own customs of dress and speech as hand-d down from their Basque and Breton ancestry. No faded flounces and tawdry flowers or meretricious jewelry incommode these women in their daily toil. Short, full homespun gowns, generally of some dark, rich color, surmounted by a loose, light, print jacket; their glossy black heads covered by large sunbonnets of snowy whiteness, furnished with a deep cape; their shapely feet and well-turned ankles encased in gaily striped stockings and strong leather shoes—such is their week-day attire. They are very tenacious about these shoes and stockings, and would be terribly scandalized at being caught going barefooted, as is the custom of the peasantry of the British Isles. What they were in the days of Bishop Plessis they are now: when you see one you see all. There are, of course, different degrees of comeliness, but all are neat, clean and well-dressed, and pass you with a cheery "Bon jour!" that is pleasant to hear."

We are pleased to notice that Miss Pope has not forgotten to refer to the services rendered them by their indefatigable representative in the Parliament of Canada, Dr. Fortin; and having given a few glimpses of what Miss Pope portrays "In and around the Magdalene Islands. We have no doubt the readers of THE EXAMINER will procure for themselves, and read, admire and profit by Miss Pope's brochure.

A New Campaign of Terror.

The Russian Nihilists have renewed their activity and begun a new campaign of terrorism in the Province of Moscow. They have placarded the Province and its capital with hundreds of copies of a manifesto carrying a threat of death to the Czar. As these placards were all posted on the same night, and as each man engaged in the work could have posted but very few of them, owing to the necessity of dodging the police, it is evident that the Nihilists must count among their members a large number of men willing to risk their liberty in the prosecution of such an enterprise. The proclamations are well printed on good paper and are headed "The executive committee to the Emperor Alexander III." They have neither date nor signature, but each copy bears the usual seal of the executive committee impressed upon the paper after it had been printed. The proclamation reminds the czar that he was warned in May, 1881, that, if he would avoid the fate which had befallen his father two months before he must grant a constitutional form of government, and organize a parliament composed of representatives of the people. During the three years that have followed this warning, the proclamation says, the revolutionists have suspended their agitation, but now that their warning has been so long unheeded, they inform the Czar that he must prepare to deal with as his father and predecessor. The police tore down the placards before most of the citizens were stirring, and have made strenuous efforts to find the persons who printed and posted them. Many students of both sexes have been arrested on suspicion, and a thorough search has been made of the offices of all newspapers, and printers suspected of disloyalty. None of the peculiar type used in printing the placards has been discovered, and the police believe that it was melted up immediately after being used.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

[SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER.]

The Republican Convention.

CHICAGO, June 1. Delegates to the Republican National Convention are rapidly arriving and already the city presents scenes of great activity. The hotels being crowded with strangers. It is too early, as yet, to perceive any positive indications as to the probable result of the convention, and a prediction cannot be made with any assurance of reliability. Each of the leading candidates for the Presidential nomination claims to have gained strength within a day or so. It is probable, however, that Blaine will lead on the first ballot, with Arthur a close second. The contest will doubtless be a protracted and severe struggle with the result as yet completely in the dark. Preparations are proceeding for fitting up of Convention Hall, which is gaily decorated with national colors and various state emblems. Several complete delegates are now on the ground and are perfecting preliminary organizations.

More Dynamite Outrages.

NEW YORK, June 1. The Sun's London despatch says that all other topics are swallowed up in the dynamite outrages of Friday night. They have resulted in the injury of but a few persons, all belonging to the poorer classes. If the attempt on Nelson's column had succeeded, the loss of life would have been terrible, as that district always largely crowded in the evening was particularly so with people returning from the O.K. races. Extra guards have been placed around Mr. Gladstone's residence at Hawarden.

Berber Fallen.

Cairo, June 1. Snakin advices state that rumors have reached there that Berber has fallen and Osman Digna has captured 3,000 men and our guns. It is further rumored that he intends to attack Snakin soon.

Egyptian Affairs Growing Worse.

NEW YORK, June 1. Accounts from Egypt depict the condition of affairs as growing steadily worse. French influence is in the ascendant and English influence is declining.

Ross-Courtney Race Postponed Again.

NEW YORK, June 1. The Ross Courtney race has been again postponed on account of rough water—this time till Saturday next, at four p. m.

Seventy-four Lives in Peril.

THE CREW OF A SRAILER FLOATING TO SEA ON ICE.

The Newfoundland brig Confederate, Captain Thomas Green, of Harbor Grace, with a crew of seventy-nine men was caught in a formidable ice nip in Notre Dame Bay on the 8th April and thrown completely on the floe. The ship lies over on her side with her yard arms on the ice. On the 20th of May, five of the crew volunteered to travel to land, a distance of nearly twenty miles, and report on the situation, at imminent peril of life, and in an exhausted condition they reached Twillingate, boarded the steamer Hercules and arrived in St. John's on the 30th ult. They report all provisions consumed, except bread, and the last pound of fuel exhausted. There is a frozen ocean of ice all round, and as the ship thus beset is now drifting out to sea there is danger of the whole crew being lost or starved to death. The Powerful steamship, will be at once despatched to the rescue. Captain Cross, of the steamer Hercules, reports ice to the westward of Notre Dame Bay as far as the eye can reach, an innumerable icebergs.

The somewhat novel experience in these days of a strike for higher wages is being undergone by the stone-cutters of Winnipeg, who have abandoned work until they obtain $4 a day. This appears a high rate of wages, more especially as the cost of living in Winnipeg, since the collapse of the boom, is down to the level of eastern cities, and it is natural that the contractors should enter the plea of inability to comply with the demand of the strikers. The incident does not indicate dull times in the Northwest.
