BETWEEN TIMES.

A soft, gray day, but the rain fell not,
Though it seemed on the point of falling;
And in the orchard over the hedge,
A blue bird was cheerily calling.

No faintest pink of blossom showed
On peach boughs, glossy and slender;
No clustered leaves were pushing up
Of pansies fragrant and tender.

'Twas just the time when the winter gray
Far over the line was fleeting,
And to the spring that was almost here
The bluebird offered a greeting.

I knew to-morrow the rain might fall,
And freeze while it descended,
And maybe a flurry of snow would come,
When the bluebird's carol was ended.

But never mind—the sun would shoot
His arrows straightway through it,
For the spring was donning her flower crown,
And the merry bluebird knew it.

—Hattie Whitney.

ORIGIN OF THE WORD "BOSS."

Derived from the Dutch "Baas," Which Means Foreman or Master.

Even the dread name of "boss" is an inheritance from the Dutch period. It is derived from baas, meaning foreman or master. A hundred years after English became the official language men of wealth and character like "Boss" Walton, of the famous Walton House, in Franklin Square, received the application from persons who wished to be deferential. And to-day a workingman may use the title in its original sense when addressing his employer or accosting a stranger.

In its political significance "boss" is a Tammany product. As such it defines a vulgar usurper of public authority, who knows he would be squelched if he ventured to stand as a candidate himself, but who succeds by caucus methods in forcing his puppet candidates on the electors and in directing their official acts for his own selfish ends.

On the other hand, a political "leader" is a man who influences the councils of a party by virtue of his ability to direct public affairs, and who appeals personally to the ballot-box for his commision to make laws and to execute them in the name of the people. Hence with unerring instinct the Tammany bosses call themselves "leaders;" but in Tammany Hall things always go by contraries; even the force of gravitation works towards the ceiling, causing vice to rise above decency and those who have shortened human life to soar into prominence as guardians of the public weal.—Century Magazine.

Secret of Long Life.

Barthelemy Saint-Hilaire, the famous French scholar and politician, who recently entered on his ninetieth year, full of physical and intellectual vigor, has been telling the inevitable interviewer how it is his days have been so long in the land. It is, we are told, the effect of strict adherence to the old proverb, "early to bed and early to rise," with steady work during working hours. Every grand old man seems to have a secret of his own. Mr. Gladstone attributes his longevity to his habit of taking a daily walk in all weathers, and his giving thirty-two bites to every morsel of food. Oliver Wendell Holmes pinned his faith on equalibility of temperature. The late Major Knox Holmes swore by the tricycle, which in the end was the cause of his death. Dr. P. H. Van de Weyde, an American octogenarian, not long ago offered himself "as an example of the benign influence of the study and practice of music."

Some aged persons give the credit of their long lives to abstinence from tobacco, alcohol, meat, or what not; others to their indulgence in all these things. One old lady, who had reached the age 120 or thereabouts, maintained that single blessedness is the real elixir vitae, and she as scribed the death of a brother at the tender age of ninety to the fact that he had committed matrimony in early life. The late M. Ferdinand de Lesseps believed in horse riding. Mr. James Payn complains that in his boyhood he "got a little bored with too much horse." In a letter recently published, M. de Lesseps delivered himself on the subject as follows: "I shall always be deeply grateful to Larine, my riding master, who from my earliest years made me share his keen passion for horses and I am still convinced that daily exercise has in a large measure been the means of enabling me to reach my eighty-fourth year in perfect health." Carlyle was also a great rider almost to the end of his long life, and he not only rode, but groomed his horse himself. On the whole it must be concluded that the secret of longevity is a sound constitution prudently husbanded.

Uses of the Water Bag.

When the india-rubber hot water bag is as inexpensive as it is at present, it becomes almost a duty to possess one. The water to fill it is always attainable, and the comfort of the possession will amply repay the expense. Frequently its use will relieve pain in a far simpler and more effectual manner than any medicine. A bag placed on the side of the neuralgic face will cause the blood to flow to that part and bring nourishment to the starving nerve. A fit of indigestion may be overcome in a similar manner. The weak heart may be assisted by a scantily-filled bag, placed under the left arm, against the side. In the summer hotel on a rainy day it will make one quite fearless of the half-aired sheet and chilly bed, and thereby ward off the attack of the "blues," which cold unseasonable summer weather often produces. Then again, carefully concealed in its dark-colored bag, what a comfortable companion for a long, cold country drive. Always soothing, never contradictory, it is actually a life-saving machine.

Many as are the blessings of the hot water bottle, it must not be forgotten that it is also a source of danger. Always see that the stopper is absolutely tight, and never use it without a thick cover. Many a painful burn has it given, especially to an unconscious patient or to an old person. In old age the circulation being weaker, the vitality becomes low. A thick cover will keep the water longer warm as well as insure against burns. Filling the bag quite full will also cause the heat to be retained for a longer time, but it will not be as comfortable as when half full. When not in use, the bag should be emptied.—Good Housekeping.

Training Canes.

"Training canes" is the sign at one of the principal shops. A cane of medium length, with a ball handle weighing any amount. These training canes were till recently part and parcel of every well appointed dude, but lately there has been a great demand for them by the athletic girl, who is nothing if not mannish. She contends the training cane is a capital thing to develop muscle and make a girl walk well. So be it. If she likes it, why find fault?—New York Herald.

MOUNET-SULLY.

The Celebrated French Actor.

The features of Mounet-Sully are familiar to Canadians, as the great actor, during his American tour, played to delighted audiences in this country. Mounet-Sully mimics the passions to the life, and there is a subtlety, an intellectuality in his delineations which places him in the front rank of great players. Mounet-Sully is a patron of the famous "Vin Mariani," and it is thus that great actor speaks of it:—"When we drink it, we sing, are gay, we love, we dream of the future, of glory, of the infinite. In fact, nothing can be better for strengthening than 'Vin Mariani.'" And this is the universal testimony, that this famous tonic coca wine nourishes and strengthens when all else fails, building up the nervous and debilitated system, driving away the blues and all despondency, and giving a new lease of life to those who were disposed to cultivate a morbid pessimism. If you desire to know something about the celebrated persons who have spoken admiringly of "Vin Mariani," send your name to Lawrence A. Wilson & Co., Montreal, and they will send you an album containing such portraits, free.

MARIOLATRY—FRENCH TREATY. BLOOD MAKING WINES.

The public have recognized the fact that the day has passed that they should pay fancy prices for brands—BRANDOLATRY—has been a thing of the past. This is proven by the enormous daily increase of our famous wines,—all guaranteed pure. Imported direct from the vineyards of France. We challenge the trade in general to prove that the brands we are selling at $3.00 and $4.00 are not the equal of those they have been and are now selling at double the price. PROWLING PUSSY.

Not Gossip and Flirtation Alone That Takes Her Out.

It is no merely love of gossip or flirtation, not alone the lust of battle or a passion for music, that leads the cat to prowl at midnight round the garden. And the bones that lie so thick at the bottom of the hollow where the owls have lived for generations give us some ideas of the swarms of small game that are to be found by those that have eyes to see them. There are few gardens probably, even within the suburbs of a town, to which some of these wild creatures, the long-tailed field mouse, the bank vole and the shrew, for instance, do not make their way. Even a hedgehog has been seen going home in the small hours along a road bordered on both sides by walls and houses, hurrying, with half a dozen little prickly copies of herself behind her, toward the family hiding place on the wooded hill above the town. As we go farther afield, we become aware of the existence of yet more of these seldom seen inhabitants of the woods and the meadows. Yet even there we see their traces much oftener than we catch sight of the creatures themselves. Few people, even in the country, see much of stoats or weazels, except perhaps just around a farm, or rotting on the keeper's tree. They are children of the night, stealthy and secret in their movements, keeping as far as possible aloof from man. The mole, too, though he so constantly betrays his presence by chains of earthworks in the meadows, seldom comes into our ken. A strange existence his, almost wholly spent underground, almost all of it in darkness. Yet he has eyes, and, unlike many of his kindred, can see with them clearly enough. So, too, can bats, in spite of the proverb to the contrary. Eleven species of bats are native here, and four more have been taken at least once in this country. Yet how little we seem to know of them, of their ways and of their hiding places. Now and then we may see a bat asleep—as they all are in weather like this, even four weeks at a stretch—hanging head downward, with its leathern wings folded close upon its tiny body, clinging in a dark nook under the turret stair. Much more rarely may we chance on one in full daylight—dazzled, no doubt by the unaccustomed glare, hung up, perhaps, against a tree trunk, flapping its ears, blinking its bead-like eyes, baring its tiny teeth and making grimaces that might well make a village urchin think twice before meddling with so strange an apparition. But our glimpses of bats are, for the most part, only for a moment, as they flutter past in the twilight, or swoop down among the insects that, on summer evenings, hover on the water.—London Chronicle.

WHAT A BABY LOOKS LIKE.

Fancied Resemblance to Father or Mother Said to Be Imaginary.

Nothing is more remarkable than the comparison of the same sized profile views of the same person at six and at thirty years of age; the growth of the nose and the development of the forehead are so great that the jaws appear to have diminished in size, and this is really what the jaws have done, in proportion to the whole face.

It is a fond delusion with visitors and nurses that the baby is just like its father or mother. No one who has had that scientific training necessary to proper observation could make such a statement. and beer or soda water.

"In Paris it is possible to live very cheaply. On Sundays I got my dinners in old Cardinal Richelieu's palace, an excellent dinner, with wine, for thirty-five cents, and on week days frequented cheaper and less aristocratic quarters, where I could study the working people of Paris. Connected with one of the largest bazaars in Paris is a restaurant where 3,000 people dine daily at a cost not exceeding fifteen cents each.

"The most important item of living in Paris is fuel. I had a cozy little room on the Rue de la Harps, for which I paid fifteen cents a night. Wood sells by the pound. A single stick costs five cents. I found it much cheaper to go to the theatre on a winter night than to remain in my room. I saw Bernhardt for ten cents, while, had I remained in my room twenty cents' worth of wood would have been required to keep me in comfort."

Below are the figures given by this eccentric traveler as the lowest rates for traveling in Europe. Beginning with the steerage passage across the Atlantic at the present low rate of $10 we have:

From New York to Naples, 4,456 miles, $10.

Railroad fare in Italy, taking in Naples, Rome, Florence, Pisa, Bologna, Venice, Milan, Como, 596 miles, $11.11.

Railroad fares in Switzerland, $7.25.

Railroad fares in Germany, taking in Strasburg, Baden-Baden, Heidelberg, Stuttgart, Munich, 363 miles, $4.30.

Railroad fares and Danube boat fares in Austria, taking in Linz, Vienna, Buda-Pesth, $6.65.

Buda-Pesth to Constantinople from Bulgaria, $12.65.

Constantinople to Odessa, Black Sea steerage, $3.

Odessa to Berlin, taking in Kijow, Moscow, and St. Petersburg, 2,220 miles, $29.36.

Berlin to Cologne, 364 miles, $5.80.

Cologne to Paris, 306 miles, $5.75.

Paris to London, 255 miles, second class, $10.

London to New York, $15.

Total cost of transportation from New York and back, $120.87.

The distance covered is nearly, if not quite, 14,000 miles, 7,000 of which on steamers includes subsistence as well as transportation.

"A year's subsistence at half a dollar a day amounts to $182.50, thus the entire cost of a year's trip, embracing overland from Gibraltar to the Bosphorus, amounts to $303.37, if you are willing to travel second class and third class and foot it at times.

On the Decay of Paper.

The introduction of wood fibre into the manufacture of paper, its economical production and the attractiveness of the article so produced have combined to tempt the paper maker not to make for "all time," but for the day, and only sufficient for the day is the evil thereof.

Modern methods of book illustrations require a paper of fine, even surface, with the property of semi-absorption of printer's ink, and this latter requirement has resulted in the very considerable use of what is known as "half-sized paper, i. e., paper which has but a small proportion of gelatine, or other size, on which the permanent cohesion of the paper depends. Such paper cannot resist the influences of temperature and humidity to which all books are exposed, and thus ultimate decay is probable.—Notes and Queries.

After the Grip

No Strength, No Ambition

Hood's Sarsaparilla Gave Perfect Health.

The following letter is from a well-known merchant tailor of St. George, N. B.:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen—I am glad to say that Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills have done me a great deal of good. I had a severe attack of the grip in the winter, and after getting over the fever I did not seem to gather strength, and had no ambition. Hood's Sarsaparilla proved to be just what I needed. The results were very satisfactory, and I recommend this medicine to all who are afflicted with rheumatism or other afflictions caused by poison and poor blood. I always keep Hood's Sarsaparilla in my house and use it when I need a tonic. We also keep Hood's Pills on hand and think highly of them." J. W. DYKEMAN, St. George, New Brunswick.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, and do not purge, pain or gripe. Sold by all druggists.

Grateful—Comforting.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST—SUPPER.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in packets, by Grocers, labelled thus,

Dairymen, Attention!

Of the Cheese and Butter Factories in operation in 1894, we furnished, to the satisfaction of all concerned, the necessary apparatus for the following:—Winsloe, Hampton, Tryon, Crapaud, Grand River, Dunk River, Mount Stewart, and Vernon River Bridge.

In the summer of 1894 we made nine Cheese Vats (each holding from 650 to 700 gallons of milk), and two Butter Vats (each averaging 400 gallons of milk); no complaints were made—satisfaction given.

From our large experience in the past we are now better than ever prepared to meet the wants of Dairymen. We guarantee satisfaction, and respectfully solicit the patronage of those who are contemplating the erection of Cheese or Butter Ftories.

Our make of Vats is superior to all others, and our fifteen and twenty gallon Cans are the best and cheapest in the province.

Terms to suit puchasers.
