...and YOU?

Mark Twain once told the story about a Blue Jay so energetic he filled an abandoned shack in the woods with acorns. Got it just about overflowing, too, just by saving up systematically—putting something away, little by little, until it grew into a lot!

That's a pretty fair policy for any of us to follow. Acorns wouldn't do you much good. But, if you stored up Canada Savings Bonds, you'd be in pretty good shape to meet whatever turns up tomorrow... to handle any financial upsets—perhaps to enjoy yourself the way you'd like while you're still able to sit up and take notice!

A few dollars every payday will get you Canada Savings Bonds on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Or, by instalments through your bank or investment dealer. You'll never miss the money that way. And you'll be pleasantly surprised just how fast you can build up a tidy little nest egg that earns you good interest. Tomorrow won't look after itself... why don't you start looking after it... now?
