A WAR INCIDENT.

The Lieutenant Didn't Forget the Kindness Done by a Brother Mason.

Among the prisoners taken by the Union troops at the time Pickett made his great charge at Gettysburg was a Virginia sergeant. He was a Mason, Captain John A. Kellogg of the Sixth Wisconsin gave him a drink of something reviving from his canteen and put some rations in his empty haversack. Their parting was that of brothers.

In December, 1864, when Kellogg was a colonel commanding his regiment, he accompanied him on a ride along the pike line a few miles to the left of Petersburg. By some means, and without knowing it, we got between the picket lines. We were brought to a halt suddenly by the following unmilitary salutation:

"Is that you, Captain Kellogg?" Looking up, and about two rods to the right, we saw a lieutenant and a dozen men in gray who had apparently just taken their arms in preparation for serious business.

"That's my name, sir," answered the colonel.

"Beg pardon, Colonel Kellogg. You were a captain at Gettysburg. Allow me to extend congratulations upon your promotion."

It was becoming interesting, and both of us were making plans for a shooting match between a dozen Johnny pickets with guns in their hands and two officers who had only revolvers, and they not in hand.

"Guess you don't remember me, colonel."

"I guess that is so," said Kellogg, and he was more nervous than I ever saw him in battle.

"I'm the sergeant you gave a nip from your canteen and whose haversack you filled at Gettysburg. They have made me a lieutenant since then. I'd like to have a visit with you, but the officer of the day is due here. Guess you had better get back to your lines."

"Thank you, lieutenant," said the colonel, saluting, and as we turned to leave the Confederate gave the command: "Shoulder arms! Right dress! Present arms!" Then both of us lifted our hats. There was fraternity for you!—Chicago Times-Herald.

HUNGER AS A MOTIVE.

It Is One of the Mainsprings of Progress in Human Affairs.

The ravenous nature of the most powerful spur, hunger, are continually reddening the flanks of the primitive community. The apostle's scathing arraignment of the Cretans, "whose god is their belly," would literally apply to every savage tribe and many a civilized one. Hunger is one of the mainsprings of progress. At its imperative command the flint was chipped into the arrowhead, the dart, the spear. In its honor the net was woven, the hoe was made and the soil broken. To appease its cravings the wild bull is broken to the yoke, the forests are felled, the ditch is dug through the marsh.

On its errands the ship is launched on the perilous deep and the hand sent out upon the warpath. Into its service have been impressed the winds of heaven, the steam wreaths of the ocean, the glittering shafts of the lightning. It is the real Aladdin's lamp of civilization. The ceaseless westward flow of the human stream and the march of the "star of empire" have been at the behest of its genii. Whether it be born of a barren soil and a cruel sky or of the pressure of overpopulation, it has played a leading part in molding the destinies of the nations.

In the fall of every world empire from Assyria to Rome the conquering race has invariably come from the mountainous or barren land, or from a sterner sky.

And still today the nations of the bleak struggle with soil and climate is severest, the Scotch, the English, the Dutch and the North Germans, are overrunning the whole of the inhabitable globe and bid fair to far outdo Alexander by more peaceful and far more stable means.—Monist.

Proceedings Against a Pig.

The animal which most frequently came before the criminal courts was the pig. At Meville St. Denis, near Paris, there still exists a spot called Truye Pendue, after a sow which was once hanged there for killing an infant, and about 20 similar cases are recorded in France alone by different writers. Thus in 1886 the magistrates of Falaise condemned a pig to have its snout and one leg cut off and then to be hanged for having killed an infant and eaten part of its face and arm. The pig was executed in the market place dressed in human apparel, and the executioner received ten deniers and a new glove as his fee.

The following is the statement of expenses sent to the bailiff of Mantes in March, 1403, for the execution of a sow which had killed a baby:

For her expenses while in jail, 6 sols, Parisian item, to the hangman who came from Paris to make said execution, 24 sols
Item, for the cart which took her to the gallows, 6 sols
Item, for cords to tie and drag her, 2 sols 8 deniers
Item, for gloves, 2 deniers

In all these cases the animal was duly arrested, imprisoned, tried and condemned with every legal formality.—Cornhill Magazine.
