MR. AND MRS. RONALD F. MacISAAC

Wedding Bells Ring Out For Happy Young Couple

St. Alexis Church, Rollo Bay, was the scene of a very pretty wedding when Mary Theresa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Kickham of Souris West, became the bride of Ronald Francis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. MacIsaac of Rockbarra.

The nuptial Mass was performed by Rev. Gerard Campbell C.S.S.R. of Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, cousin of the bride. Present in the sanctuary were Rev. W. A. Keefe, Rev. W. D. MacDonald and Rev. Reginald MacDonald. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with baskets of mixed flowers and potted plants.

The hymns during the Mass were rendered by Mrs. Edward Deveau, Mrs. Ronald Jones and Miss Yvonne Cheverie, accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Joseph Deveau (Jr.).

Given in marriage by her twin brother the bride chose a floor length gown of white nylon net fashioned with a tight fitted bodice and full hoop skirt of French illusion fell from a tiara of pleated nylon net studded with seed pearls. She carried a white prayer book from which fell satin streamers with tiny rosebuds.

Miss Frances Kickham was her sister's only attendant. She was attired in a blue ballerina length gown of net over taffeta with hoop skirt and matching headress. She carried a nosegay of pink and white carnations.

The groom was attended by his cousin Waldron MacIsaac, Messrs. George MacIsaac and Val Mullally ushered the guests to marked pews.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of mauve silk jersey with white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations. The groom's mother chose a blue linen suit with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception for sixty-five guests was held at the Wheel of Fortune. The bride's table was beautifully decorated with flowers and a three tier wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and groom. The toast to the bride was performed by Rev. Gerard Campbell and the groom fittingly responded. Rev. W. A. Keefe, Rev. Reginald MacDonald and T. J. Kickham, cousin of the bride, expressed their good wishes.

Many telegrams were received and read by Mr. Val Mullally. During the reception appropriate music was beautifully rendered by Messrs. Francis A. White and William Chaisson.

Following the reception, the happy couple left on a tour of the Maritimes. For travelling the bride wore a blue sheath dress with matching duster with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

MR. AND MRS. LEWIS J. HASLAM AND ATTENDANTS

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Popular Couple

Stanley Bridge United Church was the scene of a colourful wedding on Saturday afternoon August 10th, at 2:30 p.m., when Evelyn Joan, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick MacEwen, New London, and Lewis Joseph only son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Haslam, Charlottetown, were united in Holy Matrimony by Rev. E.A.C. Halsey in a double ring ceremony.

The bridal party took their places amid a setting of beautiful mixed flowers and potted plants. Miniature colonial bouquets tied with white streamers marked the guest pews. The youthful bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her floor length gown of silk chiffon over taffeta, styled with fitted bodice and scooped neckline outlined with embroidered alexon lace, cap sleeves and long fitted mitts. Her full skirt was accentuated with a bouffant hip line. Her finger tip veil of nylon tulle was held in place by matching headress dotted with pearls and sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. Ralph Heckbert, sister of the bride as matron of honour, wore a ballerina length dress of pale blue over taffeta and crinoline. She carried a bouquet of pale pink carnations.

The bridesmaids were Miss Nettie MacEwen, sister of the bride, Mrs. Donald Holden and Miss Edna Haslam, sisters of the groom.

Miss MacEwen, Mrs. Holden and Miss Haslam were similarly attired in ballerina length gowns of yellow, lime green and pink respectively. The gowns worn by the attendants were styled with matching bolero jackets, picture hats and mitts. They each carried a nosegay of colored flowers to complement each gown.

Miss Rosemary Andrew, was winsome as flower girl in pale blue frosted organdy over taffeta and crinoline. She carried a basket of mixed summer flowers.

Mrs. MacEwen chose for her daughter's wedding a dusty rose lace dress with white accessories and she wore a corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Haslam, mother of the groom was attired in pale blue over taffeta edged with rhinestones at the neckline, with pink accessories, and she wore a corsage of pink Delight roses.

Mrs. Everett Haslam, grandmother of the groom, wore misty blue lace with white accessories and a corsage of tawny gold roses.

Mrs. Lorne MacEwen, aunt of the bride presided at the organ and Mr. Roscoe Walker beautifully rendered "I'll Walk Beside You" before the ceremony and "Because" during the signing of the register.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for one hundred guests at Mulberry Lodge, Summerside. The bride's table was arranged with a three tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom and flanked on either side by white candles in silver holders.

Dr. George C. Fisher proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom fittingly responded. During the reception telegrams of congratulations were read by Miss Mary Campbell, St. John, friend of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

For travelling the bride wore a navy and white linen box-styled suit with navy and white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Haslam will reside at 75 Bridge Street, Fredericton, N.B., where the groom is assistant manager with the Metropolitan Store. Mrs. Haslam was employed as a stenographer with the N. Brunswick Telephone Company, St. John, prior to their marriage.

ELLEN'S DIARY

A Laughing Heart Is Fairy Godmother's Gift

Can we in the wisdom which has been thrust upon us by the years love a four-leaf clover and "leave it on its stalk?" Never! Not since we gathered first ones as a child hoping the good fortune indicated in the token by legend, would bring us not only the rose frock and Cinderella shoes we longed for, but also the ribbons and frills with which we would dress our young sisters.

Not realizing how fortunate we already were, indeed extremely rich, in that we had a pleasant and unbroken family circle, good health, wholesome food in plenty, and if not always our hearts' desire, sensible clothing to wear, and youth with its outlook of promise.

In mind we can see the clovers yet in which were set the odd magic one, in aggregations here and there along a farm-lane where to look ahead was to see the distant blue of wondering horizon, and to follow was to come by way of an opening of cliff to the charm of a wave-washed beach.

It is a gift of ours, this being able to take in at a glance the presence of a talisman clover, king . . . queen among her fellows — a gift we have noticed some have been denied. We think some fairy godmother at our birth doubtless knowing well there was comfort in being able to substitute fancy for substance, bestowed it in lieu of other things.

"Yes" she said, "we'll do this for the child. It will make up for those knowledges and graces she will lack."

"And perhaps" another grandmotherly and fat fairy looking over her glasses at the other, there where a love of a July zephyr blew in our varied blessings on us, "we'd better throw in something else."

"But what else is there?" If she can find four-leaf clovers easily . . . isn't that enough?" The first must have protested testily "To her, the wish then will be as good as the realization." "To like the other's eyes must have been most kind "to give her too a laughing heart."

"Oh well", did the first fairy shrug, and draw her fairy-shawl closer about her shoulders?" "have it your own way! But I think that's a silly gift. But after all it's neither her nor there to me."

"The gift then of a laughing heart — never, never to be used against others, but only to amuse and encourage herself — that I shall give her. And "seriously" I'm thinking it will often be of use to her, po' little thing."

And did we feel the gracious touch on a babe's forehead? And have we lived to bless her since!

We found a four-leaf clover this morning, down by the hutch near the garden where at present a pair of bunnies "out of grass."

A white one with pinkish crystal eyes, and a gray rabbit one, both attractive and interesting.

"See!" we smiled to James at the doorstep.

"What is it?" "A four-leaf clover!" "Oh" absently. . . "I wish this damp would scatter so we could get at the harvest, Ellen. Every field will be ready at the same time, and that's not good. I like them to "turn" in a succession — it's nicer too for the thrashing!" he said, and he turned away to his day.

We chuckled. The damp would disperse. Right behind the gray over the near hilltop, the sun would sooner or later shine through. There would be sapphire of September sky. And anyway, everything would be lovely today — lives flowing along smooth channels. We slipped the clover in a pocket. . . chuckled again and came indoors to our cares.

Until tomorrow . . . — Diary — Goodnight. . .
