THE DAILY EXAMINER.

AUGUST 24, 1892.

Hon. John Goff.

THE death of the Hon. John Goff, of Cardigan, King's County, removes from that county one of its leading farmers and most courteous gentlemen. For nearly fifty years the late Mr. Goff resided in King's County, and during that long period occupied many important public positions. In conjunction with the late Thomas Owen he located and opened up many of the roads through leading settlements; and shortly after the introduction of Responsible Government, was returned by the Cardigan District as one of its representatives. For many years a Justice of the Peace, in 1861 Mr. Goff was appointed one of the Commissioners for King's County under the act relating to the recovery of small debts, which important office he filled for some time, until he was elected for the Second Legislative Council district of Queen's County. Retiring from public life, after his term in the Council was ended, Mr. Goff devoted the following years to cultivating and improving his magnificent farm of some six hundred acres situated at Woodville, Lot 54, and as a result of his efforts, to-day the visitor to that place can look upon one of the most complete homesteads in the Island.

In politics Mr. Goff was moderate, yet firm in his support of those measures that he considered were for the benefit of the people. True, he opposed the construction of the Railway; but it was more from dissatisfaction with the manner in which that measure was introduced and carried through Pasliament, than from any lack of faith in the material advantages of railway development. By nature and education, Mr. Goff was strongly Conservative and for many years,—especially since the adoption of the National Policy—gave the Liberal-Conservative party of the Government of Sir John A. Macdonald a hearty support. A strong supporter of evangelical Christianity, Mr. Goff always was an active member of the Protestant church. In early life, the Anglican Church at Georgetown, and in later years the Presbyterian Church at Cardigan Bridge, received numerous and substantial tokens of his generosity; and to all schemes for the propagation of the gospel he invariably contributed without stint. In fact, through all the course of his long and useful life, the deceased "lived as a man ought to live," and when at last Death called on him to pay the last obligation that humanity has to render, it found him with his house set in order, and his lions girt about, ready for the coming change. Mr. Goff was married in 1850 to a daughter of the late Alexander Hayden, of Hillsborough River, and was most fortunate in his choice of a helpmeet. Their family of six sons and three daughters are all living, and are highly esteemed members of the communities in which they reside.

The funeral from his late residence to Cardigan Station, notwithstanding the busy season of the year, was attended by a large number of the most influential farmers and business men of Three Rivers; and many expressions of respect and esteem were uttered by those who had known Mr. Goff for long years.

The remains, accompanied by the pallbearers—who were named by Mr. Goff previous to his decease—and the only surviving brother and sons of the departed, were taken to Sherwood Cemetery, where many relatives and friends attended from Charlottetown to pay the last sad rites. The services at Woodville were conducted by the Rev. Messrs. Gunn and Mason, and at the cemetery by Rev. Mr. Hamlyn, of St. Paul's. G. F. O.

OBITUARY.—We regret to hear of the death of Mr. James N. McGregor, farmer, which occurred at Kingston, Lot 31, on Sunday morning last. Mr. McGregor, who was in the 56th year of his age, had only been ill four days He was in the city on the Tuesday previous to his death, apparently in his usual health, and transacted some business. On the following night he was taken ill, and although everything possible was done for him he grew worse and died on Sunday, as stated above. Mr. McGregor was a very enterprising and industrious member of the community, and being honest and straightforward in all his dealings won the respect and esteem of all who knew him. He leaves a widow and eight daughters to mourn their loss. THE EXAMINER extends its sympathy.

AN ELOPEMENT.—An elopement case that is making considerable talk occurred at Canterbury Station on Monday evening last. A young man belonging to the village ran away with his brother's wife. She left four children, telling them when she went out that if she was not back in the evening to go to bed. They boarded the night express, and it is said have gone to New Hampshire. The village is very much excited and all sorts of talk are rife. It will be rather warm for the pair if either of them return. The husband will take no steps to retard their movements.—St. John Gazette.

Marquis Guiccioli, the new Italian ambassador at Berlin, is a grand-nephew of the beautiful Countess Guiccioli whom Byron loved, and who proved to be the last of the English bard's romantic conquests. The marquis was formerly mayor of Rome, and is said to have inherited a fair share of his great-aunt's good looks.

News From Summerside.

THE RACES ON THE DRIVING PARK.

SUMMERSIDE is gay with bunting to-day in honor of the High Court of Foresters which is sitting here. About 200 members of the order are in attendance.

The Prohibition Commission is also sitting here and the evils of the liquor traffic are being discussed at the street corners and in the bar-rooms. But the centre of attraction is the Driving Park. There is a large gathering from the town and country.

The judges are: T. B. Grady, (starter,) Geo. W. Hibbett and Edward Gorril; Distance Judge, Fred. Schurman.

The day is fine and the track in excellent order. The first class, the free-for-all, was called at 2 p. m.

In this class were six entries, viz: S W Dawson, Tryon, b g Loafer; W A Brennan, S'side, b s Parkside; Rogers & Farrow, do, b m Dot; Newton Lee, do, b m Lucy Derrick; J H Henry, do, bk g Onward; H C Connolly, Ch'town, b s Harry C. Lucy Derrick had the pole, with Dot second position, Onward third, Parkside fourth, Loafer fifth and Harry C. sixth. The horses got away on the fifth score. Parkside was evidently out of condition and his driver crippled with rheumatism. He broke badly shortly after the start and fell to the rear. There was a very pretty struggle between Onward and Dot, both horses trotting well. At the three-quarter pole Dot obtained a slight lead which she maintained to the finish. Onward was a good second, Loafer third, Lucy Derrick fourth, Harry C fifth, and Parkside sixth. Time, 2 33.

The 2 45 class was next called. This class was composed of Loot S, Little Joker, John C. and Jules Robin. Little Joker had the pole, Loot S. second, Jules Robin third, John C. fourth. The horses soon got away, and there was a lively struggle between Loot S. and John C. Loot S came in first, John C. second, Jules Robin third, and Little Joker fourth. Time, 2 45½.

Sad Death of an Islander.

Mr. James Hughes, of the Census Department, who fell out of a second-storey window in his boarding house at 293 Queen Street, Thursday night, while laboring under somnambulism, is recovering from the effects of his fall. One of his broken arms was set by Drs. Hanna and Kidd, and he is now resting comfortably at the Water street hospital. In consequence of the similarity of names, Mr. James W. Hughes, of the Department of Justice, who is also a native of Prince Edward Island, found it necessary to inform his friends yesterday by telegraph that he was not the victim of the accident.—Ottawa Daily Citizen, Aug. 20.

[Mr. Hughes died at the hospital on Monday night from blood poisoning, the result of the injuries received by him. His remains leave Ottawa this morning, accompanied by Mr. John Stringer, and will arrive here on Friday night. The deceased was a brother of John and Henry Hughes, of this city, and was one of the Island's most promising young men. He was a resident of Ottawa for the last five years, where he made many friends. THE EXAMINER sympathizes with his mother and the other members of the family in their great bereavement.]

The Baptist Convention.

BRIDGEPORT, N. S, Aug. 22.—The Saturday morning's session was opened at 9 30 by devotional exercise, followed by Bible reading.

The business taken up during the forenoon was of an interesting character, including an encouraging report from Alice Gray, of Bimlipitam, India, and a stirring address from Mr. St. Delmas, delegate from the Grand Ligne mission, Quebec. The dire needs of that mission were forcibly presented by the speaker, who stated there was but one Baptist missionary to a present population of about 200,000. Thirty conversions are reported this year.

The remainder of the session was occupied considering the disposition of funds and to The Link, the organ of the union.

At 2.30 in the afternoon a large number of delegates and friends gathered for the platform meeting, which was a grand gathering of the session. Marked interest was maintained throughout the session.

Mrs. J. W. Manning, president of the union, in an opening address spoke of this centennial year of missions as a depository into which the past is pouring its treasure, and urged strongly the duty of enlargement, increased benevolence, circulation of missionary literature, and enthusiasm, dwelling with earnestness upon the duty of faith in God and reliance upon the Holy Spirit.

Addresses were given by missionaries seated upon the platform.

Mrs. Sanford, recently returned from Bimlipitam, India, expressed her great pleasure in meeting the sisters at home, and contrasted feelingly the civil and religious privileges of our Christian lands with the condition of life in the far east.

Mrs. Burdette, of the American B. mission, also recently returned from work, spoke on Women's Work for Women in that land, giving a vivid description of Indian home-life.

Farewell addresses by Miss Wright and Mrs. Archibald, who are about to return to India, were listened to with the deepest interest. These women go forth again, notwithstanding the shadows of missionary work.

The claims of the Northwest were presented with earnestness and power by Mr. Grant of Manitoba. The vastness of the field and the varied nationalities of the rapidly increasing population render the spiritual needs of the territory difficult to meet. Mr. Grant applied the policy of the education of the young to the work of the Northwest, pleading for the youthful country the fullest consideration of its claims for sympathy and support.

In view of the valuable contributions of the young people during the past year, it was resolved that the mission bands, Sunday schools and young people's societies be requested to undertake this year the raising of the amount of Mr. Morse's salary, he being already in constant communication with the young people.

The next convention meets at St Martins, N.B., by request.

PROPERTY SOLD.—The Quirk property, on Prince Street, was sold at auction to day by Mr. Bearisto, and brought $3.850. The purchasers were Dr. S. R. Jenkins and Mr. A. J. Quirk Dr. Jenkins bought the northern half of the house, which is at present occupied by him, for $1,600, and Mr. Quirk bought the southern half, with the shop and bakery, for $2,250.

We will exchange our property in the city for property in the country—W P Colwill.

Mr. Gladstone's Troubles.

DISSATISFIED RADICALS AND THE WELSH TO DEAL WITH.

A London despatch of the 19th says: Mr. Gladstone's selection of some minor members of the Radical section for minor posts in the Government has not remedied the tactical mistake made in the exclusion of Radical representives in the Cabinet. Thorough Radicals further declare that there is not a man amongst the whole of the latest appointments who is genuinely attached to progressive opinions, Sidney Buxton, perhaps, excepted. The three whips, Messrs. Canston, McArthur and Ellis, though nominal Radicals, have never shown that sympathy with democratic movements which is now recognized as the leading inspiration of the left wing of the Liberal party. The fact is now universally recognized that Mr. Gladstone has carefully avoided admitting to office men who are in any wise identified with independent radicalism. Pseudo-Radicals like Mr Burt, the miners' delegate, who is a submissive Gladstonite, and Mr. Ellis, who is called a radical because he is strongly in favor of church disestablishment, were admissable because they have never made a covenant with the progressive evangelists, while those tainted with democratic notions, men of the Labouchere stamp, have been ignored. The exclusion of Mr. Stansfield is explained by Gladstonian papers as due to his expressed desire not to hold office, but Mr. Stansfield himself says that it must have been due to other causes. Mr. Stansfield was ready to accept office and seemed to expect his former Cabinet post, but Mr. Gladstone never communicated with him.

MUTTERINGS OF THE STORM.

Mutterings of the storm that will now assuredly burst from Radical regions are already distinctly heard. An article in the Star to-night, after attacking the Government for refusing to hold a winter session of parliament, and delaying radical legislation, concludes: "Let us keep our powder dry, hoping for the best. Londoners cannot disguise from themselves the fact that though they have given Mr. Gladstone one half of his majority London is practically without any voice in the Government." The note which the Star strikes indicates the drift of the Radical opposition. They will refuse to support Mr. Gladstone in subordinating everything to home rule and will take independent action on social reforms. Another danger menaces the Government in the attitude of the Welsh members, some of whom have given assurance to their constituencies that they will not vote for home rule unless a bill to disestablish the church in Wales be introduced concurrently. Mr. Gladstone's plans to meet some of the danger threatening an early overthrow of the Government are already seen in the formation of Cabinet committees.

THE MONETARY CONFERENCE.

With masterly promptitude the Grand Old Man has already cut out work for his colleagues that will make the coming session fruitful. The Associated Press has high authority to state that the new Government will not interfere with completed arrangements for the international monetary conference. No powers were vested in the delegates appointed by the Government to assent to anything that might be proposed at the conference without prior consultation with the Treasury. The instructions given the delegates are exactly similar to those given the British delegates to the Paris conference in 1881. They are charged to decline to discuss any proposals entailing an alteration of the monetary system of England, but they are authorized to consider proposals whereby India might join an influential league of states for fixing the rates of silver. In official circles here the question is asked whether these instructions are likely to lead to any such practical results as will induce the United States Government to proceed with the conference. Sir William Vernon Harcourt, the new chancellor of the exchequer, does not interest himself in the matter, and if the Washington authorities want to enlarge the basis open to the British delegates for discussion they ought to try to influence Mr. Gladstone, who has en open mind on the subject somewhat modified by views formed since 1881.

Letter From Mr. J. H. Reddin.

SIR,—In the Guardian's report of my evidence given before the Royal Commission I am made to say: "I prefer the new law to a license law if properly carried out." This is incorrect. THE EXAMINER and Patriot have reported me correctly when they give as my testimony: "I consider the late police regulation good, but high license the best of all." While not imputing to the Guardian any desire to mislead, will you permit me to place my views on this matter briefly before the public; in the first place, why with many others I consider the Canada Temperance Act bad and in the next place high license good. The Act is considered by many to be bad, because it tends to contravention of trade, permitting the importation of an article, imposing a duty and then prohibiting as far as possible its sale; because it throws the selling into the hands of a few privileged persons; because it encourages perjury, bribery and deceit of all kines; and finally because under its operation the sale of intoxicants is not diminished to any appreciable extent and municipal revenue, by the non-granting of licenses, materially reduced. Under these circumstances, would not a law embodying high license (from which the city might derive a revenue), a clause to the effect that the vendor should be held responsible for crimes committed by any one whom he supplied with liquor knowing him to be intoxicated, and also a clause providing for the most thorough police supervision, be infinitely preferable.

The idea of Rev. Mr. Simpson doubtless will appear to many an excellent one, namely, that drunkenness must be treated like every other sin—by an appeal to the heart and conscience of the individual.
