On Sunday night, April 2nd, the Almont Y.P.U. of Montague United Church, met in the classroom. The worship service was conducted by Paul Dewar, after which Dr. MacKenzie talked on "The Communion Service". It was decided to cancel the meeting for Easter Sunday night. The Pro and Con sides on "whether to have the meeting shifted to Monday night" were discussed. As there was no further business the meeting adjourned with the Mizpah Benediction.

The April meeting of the Young Women's Guild of the Presbyterian Church, Montague, was held in the Church vestry Monday evening with the president, Mrs. Percy Myers, presiding. The meeting opened with the hymn "Go to Dark Gethsemane", followed by the scripture read by Mrs. Leland Nelson, and prayer by Miss Thelma Larter. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Roll call was answered by ten members. Several pieces of fancy work were turned in, and more material for aprons given out to the members. Mrs. Myers and Mrs. Nelson were appointed to the sick committee for April. At the close of the meeting lunch was served by Mrs. Wellington Campbell and Mrs. Byron Stewart.

The citizens of the community of Montague will have the opportunity next week of participating in the opening of the new hall when a supper sponsored by the Beaver Club, the Ladies Auxiliary of the King's County Hospital and the nursery club of the Hospital will be held. Financed by the Beaver Club, the hall has been decided to the Hospital, and will be used for raising funds for the hospital. The hall is located about one hundred yards up the Queen's Road at the corner of Fraser Street, a point easily accessible since a new board walk will be built from the main street to the hall. Eighty-feet long by thirty-feet wide, the hall is equipped with a kitchen, canteen, and checking room, and is modern in every respect, finished with gyproc and completely insulated. It is to be used for suppers, large meetings, dances and other entertainments, the returns of which will be used for the Hospital. It is also understood that the hall may be let to other groups for entertainment purposes. For several years the Beaver Club has utilized the Curling Rink for dance purposes having provided the floor, and a great deal of money has been raised for the Hospital. Now, through their industry these same ladies have been able to finance the erection of a new hall which will add greatly to the further progress of the community, and will be instrumental in providing much needed monies for the support of the hospital.

On Palm Sunday morning the congregation in the United Church, Montague, was led in singing by the Junior Choir of thirty-two boys and girls ranging in age from seven to sixteen years. These boys and girls were a very pleasing looking group as they marched into the church from the classroom, around the back of the church, and up the front aisle to take their places in the choir loft. In their new white gowns these children were an inspiration for the large crowd gathered for worship. As special numbers the choir sang very effectively, "Children of Jerusalem" and "It is the Joyful Easter Time". Dr. MacKenzie, during his sermon said that it was through the children that Jesus was hoping and working to build a better world and even if the older ones were discouraging, the children acted as a pull against defeat for they were always ready to listen and learn.

After the benediction, the children marched down and out to the classroom. Much credit is due their Choir Director, Mr. Malcolm Patterson, for the splendid work he has done with this group. It is hoped that this Junior Choir will again take the service some future Sunday.

JACOBY ON Canasta

JACOBY ON CANASTA

For Beginners - 15

We have just observed that it becomes easier to pick up the discard pile after your side has melded. This case sometimes gives you a tremendous advantage.

Suppose, for example, that your side has begun to pick up the discard pile fairly early and that you have melded a few each of kings, queens, jacks, tens, and nines. Whenever an opponent throws one of those cards, you or your partner (whoever is next in turn to play) can pick up that discard-together, as always, with the rest of the discard pile.

This puts the opponents in trouble. If they discard any king, queen, jack, ten, or nine, you side gets the discard pile. If they save those cards, their hands become cluttered up.

Those who have other types of rummy game are familiar with this kind of problem. In gin rummy, for example, you often save a card or two for defensive reasons. The differences is that in gin rummy your opponent can have only two or three melds; he can't have everything. In Canasta your opponents can meld every possible denomination (although this is, fortunately, rare).

There is a special defensive weapon in Canasta, made to order for this situation. It is called "freezing the pack." When the pack is frozen, it becomes more difficult to pick up the discard pile, as we shall see when we discuss this important feature in our next column.

Save these simple installments. If you're a beginner, you'll soon be able to profit from the tip given in the second part of each article. If you're an experienced player, save the first half to teach the game to others.

For Experienced Players - 15

"Please settle an argument about the correct play," writes a Chicago reader. "I hold the following cards: A-A-A K-10-7-7-6-6-5-5 'Out side needed only 50 points for the first meld, while the opponents needed 90 points. The turn-up card was a five, and it was my first play.

"I put down the three aces and the pair of fives, thus making the first meld for our side. Later on, my partner said I should have waited instead of melding in such a hurry. Who is right?"

Your partner is right. The point of waiting is that you are practically certain to get a much juicier discard pile if you merely wait a round or two. The opponents will surely discard low cards fairly soon, and then you will be able to take the pile.

When you take a discard pile of nine cards, you can well afford to meld six cards. You will still have a goodly number of cards in your hand after you have melded. When you actually took a pile of only one card, you had only five cards left after your meld and your discard. That is not enough cards for best results.
