Acadia Produces Operetta "Mod At Grand Pre"

"The Mod at Grand Pre", produced at Acadia University March 2 and 3, as its title implies, is a truly Nova Scotian operetta both in theme and setting. Written by Dr. Watson Krikconell and Mr. Edwin A. Collins, both of Acadia University, "The Mod at Grand Pre" portrays historic Grand Pre at apple blossom time during the Acadian Bicentennial.

The French and Scottish traditions of Nova Scotia blend as a family of Louisiana French Acadians, meet a group of university engineering students from Scottish Cape Breton, Nova Scotian legend, folklore, and pageant names are cleverly woven into both song and story, and scenes alternate between reality and charming fantasy. The Acadia School of Music orchestra provides the accompaniment for "The Mod at Grand Pre". The orchestra and chorus are conducted by the composer, Mr. Edwin A. Collins.

"The Mod at Grand Pre" is produced under the direction of Mr. Rex Lucas. Mr. Lucas will be remembered as director of last year's successful production of "Patience" at Acadia University.

Baptist Y.P.U. The weekly meeting of the B. Y. P. U. was held in the church hall when guests, St. Paul's A. Y. P. U., were present. The meeting began with a sing song.

Devotional was conducted by Iris Lewis and Joan Boulter. Opening Scripture reading was taken from John 11; verses 17-29, which was followed by meditation entitled "The Master Is Come, and Callest For Thee."

After this the group was led in prayer. Everyone joined in playing games conducted by Joan Boulter and Iris Lewis. A delicious lunch was then served by the committee, Wilma Ledner, Doreen Hughes, and Alma Lewis.

A fellowship circle was formed and Mr. Milton closed the meeting with prayer.

TRICKY LADDER No Problem Here HALIFAX (CP)—The navy here Thursday uncovered the story of a helpful sailor aboard a British ship in the Antarctic.

Spotting a guest coming aboard a particularly tricky ladder from a whaler, he asked, "Do you think you can climb it, sir?"

Sir Edmund Hillary, conqueror of Mount Everest, didn't have a bit of trouble.

Continued from page 1 DISSATISFACTION would involve an investment of $20,000 and I can hardly imagine any young man with capital of $20,000 going into farming."

Mr. Rossiter advocated long term loans at low rates of interest as a means of getting young men started in agriculture. He said that such plans were being operated successfully in Nova Scotia, Quebec and Ontario.

Mr. Rossiter commented the Minister of Highways on his snow removal program. "He is doing a good job but I know he realizes that in Kings County he has the best operators on his staff", he said.

Mr. Rossiter said that in spite of the number of Ministers from Kings County in the Cabinet, the Trans Canada Highway did not come into the County. He felt that there should be a paved road running from the North side of the County connecting at Poole's Corner.

R.R. CURTAILMENT That drastic inconvenience resulting in loss to potato producers and dealers was occasioned by the curtailed service of the railroad, was reported by Mr. Rossiter who said that when a dealer contracted for a carload of potatoes, he was never sure when he was going to get the car, with the result that the price often dropped in the meantime.

He spoke of the high freight rates which the people of Kings County had to pay in comparison to other points in the Province. He said that the rates to Maritime destinations were on the basis of 41 cents from Morell while they were 34 cents from Albany or Borden. He noted that zone rates had been established for shipments to Quebec and Ontario points and felt that the same should apply for points in the Maritimes.

TARIFFS Mr. Rossiter felt that the 37 cents tariff on Canadian potatoes entering the United States was unfair. "It is not so much the number of potatoes that come into Canada without duty but rather the threat of their coming in which tends to have a depressing effect on our markets", he said.

The speaker said that he was glad to see that a Department of Fisheries was to be established. He thought it was long overdue. He emphasized the need of two boat harbours along the North side. He said that the fishermen now are obliged to pull their boats up on the shore with capstans.

Aid for rural telephone lines was asked by Mr. Rossiter. He said that a great many of the lines had been broken down in the road widening process and the companies were put to considerable expense in restoring them.

Formal Report Slave Trade In Saudi Arabia

LONDON (Reuters)—The secretary of the Anti-Slavery Society Thursday told an open slaver market in Saudi Arabia where slaves—yoked like cattle, six or seven together—followed their masters around.

Cmdr. Thomas Fox-Pitt told a press conference that slavery was not regarded as a crime in Saudi Arabia, and was patronized by the leading families. He said there were recognized centres for collection at Mecca and Riyadh, the royal capital.

Fox-Pitt said the slaves were captured by raiding parties on villages in the British-protected part of Arabia and in Muscat and Oman. The Buraimi oasis had been a centre of the trade.

OIL BROUGHT SLAVE BOOM He said the great wealth that had come with the oil brought a boom in the slave trade, with higher prices and bolder methods of getting the slaves. Today's price for a girl sold in the Saudi Arabian slave markets is between $500 and $1,120; for a strong, healthy young man about $1,000 and for an old woman $112. Fox-Pitt reported.

Britain's influence in some of her protectorates is not strong enough to get slaves returned from Saudi Arabia. The sale of slaves is going on close to the colony of Aden, Fox-Pitt said.

The anti-slavery society was founded by William Wilberforce, the great emancipator of slaves, in 1825. Its honorary director, C. W. W. Greenidge, will go to the United Nations soon in connection with the discussions by the Economic and Social Council on new measures to stop the modern slave trade.

The council will have before it a supplementary convention to the slavery convention of 1926. This provides for the right of search by warships or planes of any vessels suspected of carrying slaves in any part of the Indian Ocean, the Red sea or the Persian gulf.

Meanwhile, the anti-slavery society is asking the foreign office to receive a delegation.

MEETING The meeting was held at the University of Alabama's trustees "permanently expelled" Negro co-ed Lutherine Lucy on disciplinary grounds at a secret meeting Wednesday night.

The action, which leaked out early Thursday, came within hours of the federal district court Judge H. Hobart Grooms ordered the 26-year-old former teacher readmitted to the Tuscaloosa campus by Monday.

Miss Lucy, first Negro ever enrolled at the 125-year-old school, was suspended Feb. 6 after three days of rioting by students and "outsiders" over her presence.

In Montgomery, the House of Representatives adopted a resolution to determine whether the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is Communist-controlled.

Under the terms of the resolution, which now goes to the Senate, Miss Lucy would be subpoenaed as a witness. Her legal battle to enter the university has been backed by the NAACP.

NEEDS REST, QUIET In expelling Miss Lucy from the university, the trustees accused her of making "false, defamatory charges" against university officials in court and through newspapers, radio and television stations.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian labor income reached a new peak of $12,861,000 in 1955, the bureau of statistics estimated Thursday.

The figure, showing increases in all categories, was up by 7.5 per cent from the previous record of $11,989,000 in 1954. The December total was $11,250,000 compared with $10,320,000 for December, 1954.

The 1955 increase continued an upward succession of rises since 1939, when the total was $2,580,000.

The construction industry showed the largest percentage rise, income going to $933,000,000 from $822,000,000 for a boost of more than 13 per cent.

The bureau also reported that at mid-January farm wages averaged higher than at the same time last year.

Continued from page 1 SENATOR JONES in this province was one-sided and should have vocational education to round it out. After a long and able discussion, the Federal authorities agreed to our providing temporary quarters for the veterans until this vocational wing could be constructed. Consequently, four rooms in Prince of Wales College, an H - Hut on the Ordinance Grounds, and later the veterans were accommodated and the veterans began their training thus. Work was immediately begun on the Vocational School and it was completed in 1946.

Up to February 1, 1948 the wing was used exclusively for veterans. On that date it was taken over by the Provincial government, and thereafter operated as a joint project of Federal and Provincial Governments under two agreements: First the Vocational School's assistance Agreement, and secondly, the Vocational Training Agreement.

751 veterans received education or training under the direction of this school. After the school was taken over by the Provincial Government, the Federal authorities paid $2.50 per day for the veterans remaining to be trained. In 1948-49 an addition was built and opened for classes in January 1950. The enrolment has continued to grow until for this year, counting all students receiving instruction in the building, we have a total of 558.

This includes the teacher training classes in Prince of Wales College and the commercial classes, as well as the trades classes and the shop courses.

"For all this development and activity I wish to pay tribute to the late Hon. J. Walter Jones who at the time was Premier and Minister of Education. He was fully in accord with the need for a roomy programme of education, which would include vocational courses, and he gave time, thought and great effort to this project to balance our educational offerings. It is, I consider fitting, that this plaque should be placed on the walls of this school commemorating his wisdom, foresight and effort in the construction of this building."

TRIBUTE BY COLLEAGUE "20 years of close association with the late Senator Jones in the political life of the Province is a golden leaf in my book of memories," Hon. Dougald MacKinnon, Minister of Public Works, Industry and Natural Resources said in tribute to his colleague whose memory was being honoured.

"Premier Jones was more interested in Education than Agriculture, but it was his firm conviction that every youth in the province should be given an opportunity to receive a higher education, marry and settle down in the province under reasonably profitable conditions", Mr. MacKinnon said.

OPPOSITION LEADER R.R. Bell, Q.C., leader of the Opposition was grateful for the privilege of participating in the ceremony of doing honour to the memory of the late Senator Jones. "He was wrapped up in the idea

Boy Is Hero In Chase And Gun Battle With Killer-Kidnapper

WAYNESBORO, Ga. (AP)—Police bullets chopped the life from a Massachusetts killer-kidnapper Thursday seconds after an 11-year-old boy hostage broke away from him in climax to a running gunfight along a Georgia highway.

Wanted for killing a Louisville, Ga., policeman Wednesday night and kidnapping the boy and his mother Thursday, the slain man was identified as Gerald Peter Beaucaire, 24, of Dorchester, Mass.

Police said Beaucaire, hunted all night by a large posse for killing the policeman, entered the home of Mrs. John Herrington at Parkside. He beat Mrs. Herrington over the head with a wrench and was shot and wounded in the hand by her son Johnny who grabbed a .22-calibre rifle from a closet.

Mother and son were forced into the Herrington car by Beaucaire and ordered to drive toward Augusta.

SHOOT REAR TIRE Shortly after the car left Millen it ran through one of several potholes, it ran into another roadblock at Waynesboro, 20 miles from Millen.

Beaucaire fired on officers from the car window. The patrolmen were unable to return the fire because of the woman and boy. Eight miles from Augusta, the right rear tire of the Herrington car was shot by pursuing officers.

"The man made Mother drive as fast as she could and we went 70 with the tire flat," Johnny said.

"We had to go around a car and Mother rammed in the side of it and we went into a ditch."

"He grabbed me and ran backwards, holding me around the neck. He had the gun up to my head and the safety was on but he didn't notice it. We got about 10 yards into a field when he tripped and fell. I fell on top of his stomach. I grabbed the gun and ran and they shot him."

Party battle lines for the oncoming campaign formed swiftly around the health issue.

Democrats drummed on the "part-time president" theme and set up Eisenhower's health as a key issue on grounds that the president already had done so himself. Adlai Stevenson said in New York the presidency "cannot be conducted on a part-time basis."

Republicans predicted that such tactics would backfire and cost the Democrats votes.

NIXON MAY GO Eisenhower backed up his big decision to try for another term with assurances to the American people Wednesday night that in spite of his September heart attack he is able to handle his presidential duties as well as ever—now and "indefinitely."

So, he said, "I shall accept" the presidential renomination he is sure to get at the same time, he said, he will be a man operating under "restrictions," doctors' orders, and a lighter working schedule.

Vice-president Richard Nixon has strong and important vice-presidential support among Republicans in Congress and among state chairmen and national committee members. But there was also some sentiment within the party for ditching Nixon.

In announcing Wednesday that the answer is "yes" on second term, Eisenhower did no more than praise Nixon again as "a loyal and dedicated associate, and a successful one." He wouldn't say whether he wanted Nixon by his side once more in the 1956 campaign.

DEMOCRATIC TARGET That opened the gate for any Republicans who consider Nixon something of a political albatross to make a move to dump the vice president or ease him into some other administration job—possibly the cabinet.

Top Democrats have singled out Nixon rather than Eisenhower for attack over the last 3 1/2 years, especially for his Communist government charges against Democratic regimes. They worked him over, too, for labelling Earl Warren a Republican chief justice in a recent speech that bore down on the Supreme Court's ruling that racial segregation in public schools is unconstitutional.

The members concluded the evening with a Communist tour of the school under the direction of Dr. Loyd Shaw, P.O. Cameron and David MacLean, the latter two being Staff members.

Buffet refreshments were served by a group of 12 girl students who are presently taking a course in home making under the direction of Miss Doris Anderson, M.S.C., Provincial Supervisor of Home Economics, assisted by Mrs. LeBaron Tait.

Retired S.A. Brigadier Dies TORONTO (CP)—Henry Ellsworth, 75, a retired Salvation Army brigadier, died Thursday.

A native of Newfoundland, he was in the army nearly 50 years, serving in Hamilton, London, Ottawa, Halifax, Saint John, N. B., and Newfoundland before his retirement nine years ago. Survivors include his widow; two sons, Lloyd of Toronto, and Harry of Montreal.
