

SPY RING UNCOVERED IN UPEI FACULTY

by Yon Yonson

EXCLUSIVE: Friday night, past twelve, this reporter was sipping java at the Cedar's Eatery, when in walked Peter Meincke with Roger Black. With my ace reporter's deductive mind, I realized a big story could be in the works; but I didn't want to blow my cover, I shrunk back into my seat so they wouldn't recognize my all too familiar face. They sat, casually enough for co-conspirators, at the table across from mine. The waitress came and they informed her that another was coming. "Who could it be?" this reporter thought. It must be Frank Ledwell. What could their secret purpose be, to meet secretly in this all-night cafe? And how was Frank Ledwell involved? Could they be brewing some new guarded secret for the downfall of the university? But my thoughts were interrupted by the creak of the door and a menacing shadow falling over the entrance. Could it be Frank Ledwell at last, to complete this evil triad? No, loyal readers, this reporter with his own eyes witnessed the fearful countenance that entered: Gary Webster. Interesting, thought this reporter: Gary Webster, Roger Black, and.... Peter Meincke,

They seemed an odd group. And then, a sudden inexplicable fear overcame this reporter. Could each man have his own secret motives in this unholy gathering? I listened with triphammering heart, as the waitress came for their order: Gary Webster wanted the same as Roger Black, plus... a roll, and... a salad. Meincke demurred and ordered only a light brew. What did Roger Black order that evening that he and Gary Webster supped on? And what were Peter Meincke's thoughts as he looked smugly over the rim of his Molson's Golden Light? Or could it have been Labatt's Blue? Was he in fact in league with the waitress, and to what end? And what of Frank Ledwell? Did he mistakenly go to another all night cafe? Or was he purposefully mislead? Could he still be there? Perhaps a key to the evening's true meaning could be found in a cryptic phrase spoken by Gary

MAIN EVENT INFO

There seems to be some confusion among the students in regards to Main Events. The following are some answers to help clear up the confusion.

1. Tickets for main events go on sale at the Student Union Centre, one week prior to the date of the event.
2. When you hear an event is sold out, please phone the Student Union to be sure, and so you won't be disappointed by not getting a ticket.
3. No one can purchase more than 6 tickets to any main event. This is done so students have a chance to get their tickets.
4. Student Union does not hold or reserve tickets for anybody. So please don't ask us to.

5. No tickets are held for rush sale at the door for the events. If all tickets can be sold before the event, then no others will be sold. Hopefully this clears up the confusion about our Main Events. If you have any questions, please call the Barn.
