

ATLANTIC CENTRE TO BE INCLUDED IN "SIGHTS UNSEEN" A SERIES OF PUBLIC SCREENINGS OF FILMS ABOUT CANADIAN ARTISTS

KWA'NU'TE': Micmac and Malicite Artists, a production from the National Film Board's Atlantic Centre, will be among the films showing across the country in February during SIGHTS UNSEEN, a Canada-wide showcase of new films about the artistic imagination.

SIGHTS UNSEEN will visit over a dozen cities, giving Canadians a chance to attend free public screenings of seven provocative and dazzling new works and to meet with some of the filmmakers.

Named for a peace chant that evokes the power of creation, KWA'NU'TE' profiles a number of Micmac and Malicite artists, who reflect both the traditional and modern values of native culture. Directed by Catherine Martin and Kimberlee McTaggart, this award-winning film combines interviews with beautifully photographed images to illustrate contemporary Atlantic native art.
