

Interesting Copy Of Old Alberton Newspaper

An early copy of the Alberton Pioneer was recently found by one of the town's residents, Mrs. J.W. Waugh. The Pioneer, later published in Summerside and now merged with the Summerside Journal, was established July 4, 1876 and published at Alberton every Saturday morning. The editor and proprietor, John L. McKinnon, is still remembered by a few of the older residents.

The old paper found by Mrs. Waugh, dated September 2, 1876, is the ninth issue of volume 1, and it was interesting to discover if any one of the previous eight issues is still in existence. Each of the paper's four pages has six columns, and a large proportion of space is devoted to advertising.

Unlike present days newspapers it carries no world news on the front page. Besides two columns of "Business Cards", there is a description of some of his adventures in Africa by Henry M. Stanley, two short articles, "The Moon and the Weather" and "Scotland in the Early Times", and a list of religious denominations (11) of the town.

The sixth column, entitled "The Farm", gives advice to farmers on the raising of cloverseed, treatment for black tooth in pigs, how to prevent rump fighting, and how to train a horse to take his place between the shafts of a carriage. On page two, an advertisement for the "Encourage Home Industry" has a number of provincial news items. They are all of interest either for their style content. During the preceding week the P.E.I. Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons held its second quarterly meeting at Port George.

RAILWAYS NEWS

Another item records "On Saturday, the 26th ult., as the train from Summerside was within two miles of Dock Road Station four box cars ran off the track. Fortunately the coupling between the engine and cars gave way, or the engine would likely have been dragged off also, when the consequences would, in all probability, be more serious. As it was, no one got hurt in speak of, although Senator Howland received a rather unfriendly punch on some part of his person. The passengers afterwards enjoyed the novel sensation of riding the remainder of the way (some five miles) on the tender sitting on blocks of coal, and holding on wherever they could. There were on board, besides Mr. Howland, the Revs. Fathers Dougald and A. E. McDonald, Rev. Mr. Dyer and lady, and several others."

Mention is made of a visit to Alberton during the week of His Lordship Bishop McIntyre in connection with the erection of the Roman Catholic Church and another item says that "The Catholic Church at Alberton is now completely boarded in. We understand that the Ladies of the Congregation have decided on having a tea in the building on 20th Sept. A regatta is also to come off in connection with the tea." The advertisement for this tea, which appears on the same page, informs the public that a special train will run from Charlottetown and Summerside with regular tickets for the price of a regular single fare and that "the tables will be laid in the new Church, and ladies guarantee a spread that will tempt the most fastidious."

"La. Telegraphic News" bears date lines a week old. One from Halifax tells that a Miss Dwyer, daughter of a grocer, while attending her father's store, set fire to her clothes by going too close to a candle.

ADVERTISEMENTS

The advertisements are most interesting. The P.E.I. Island Railway advertises second class tickets to Boston from Charlottetown $7.00 and from Summerside $6.45.

Among merchandise advertised one finds listed such articles as Two Freighters Go Aground In Magdalens

HALIFAX, (CP)—Reports reaching here say the ore carrier Grandford floated free of a cluster of reefs in the Gulf of St. Lawrence Sunday night and the British freighter Loradore is expected to be refloated by ocean-going tugs today.

The 5,200-ton Loradore ripped a gaping hole in her bow when she went aground on the reefs north of the Magdalen Islands Saturday. She was followed a few hours by the 7,200-ton greek ore carrier. A heavy fog has been blamed for the mishaps.

Capt. R. Featherston of Foundation Maritime Ltd. said here that the Foundation Vera was expected to arrive at the scene about midnight and the foundation Josephine early tomorrow. They will attempt to pull free the Loradore. The Josephine was dispatched from St. John's and the Vera from Seven Islands, Que.

NONE INJURED No injuries were reported in the groundings. Each vessel carries a crew of about 25 men.

The Loradore issued a distress call when she hit the reefs and the Navy sped the auxiliary vessel Sackville and destroyer Algonquin to the scene. She was later reported out of danger and damage is believed to have been above the waterline.

Waterloo stoves, "uckeye combined mower and reaper, carriages, milk basins, preserve crocks, ladies' cloth dresses, and sleeveless basques (very latest), and parasols.

Among the advertisers are the names of Vere Beck, Wm Reid, (merchant), T. MacKinley (drug-gist), J.P. Fielding (harness maker), J. R. Larkin (carriage shop), Dr. Bealste (physician and surgeon), John "rd (cooper), A. McBeth (palsterer), B. Rogers (merchant), J. A. L. and Co (merchants), R. Gladney (hotel), R.A. Clark (merchant), Wm. McIntosh (tailor), James Wiggins and Son (sawmill), Geo. Fowlan (merchant), David Hunter (carriage shop).

Robert Tuplin gives notice that for the convenience of the travelling public he will keep on hand, at the arrival and departure of all regular trains, carriages to convey passengers and luggage between Alberton and the station; also that "a stage will run to Killdare Capes on Tuesdays and Fridays, returning same day."
