

Fine Historical Exhibition At P.W.C. Under Way

Shillallahs, firearms, household equipment, and pieces of fine jewellery are but a few of the many historical items at present on display in the auditorium of the Prince of Wales College.

Arranged by the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, much thought and preparation has been put into the gathering of a display which will be of great interest to visitors to this city during the week of festivities, and also to many localities who are interested in the history of this Province.

A group of articles taken from the "Marco Polo", after it was wrecked in 1880, include its compass, sextant, and an ancient carved wooden chest. Near this group are pieces of ancient household equipment which include spinning wheels, yarn winders, carders, candle moulds, pewter ware, and various items of furniture.

One of the more unusual pieces on display is a hair wreath table. The beautifully carved piece has a glass top under which is placed an elaborate wreath, entirely made from strands of various colored human hair.

The shillallah on display is one which was used in the Belfast Riot, and near it is a Blackthorn stick which was brought to the island in 1781. Against the south wall of the auditorium is a display case containing an excellent collection of old jewellery, china, silverware, and pieces of fragile old lace.

Many maps of various parts of the Province are shown around the walls, and paintings of former island scenes have also been loaned for the occasion. One of the more outstanding of these latter is of Government House, painted in 1877.

The display will be open to the public until the end of the week and is one of the features which should be included on everyone's program of places to visit.

Special Speakers At Trinity United Church

Church services at Trinity United Church Sunday morning had a slightly unusual flavor as two former ministers were in the pulpit with Rev. H. E. D. Ashford. They were Rev. Dr. Hugh Miller, Campbellton, N.B., who left the pastorate here in 1943, and Rev. Dr. E. H. Ramsay, Saint John, who left the church here in 1930. In the evening the service was taken by Rev. J. S. Bonnell, minister of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York.

Rev. Dr. Ramsay offered his congratulations to the congregation for the strides the church had made in the years since he left. He called it a "unique" development, and expressed the wish that the successes of the future might be compatible with the achievements of the past. The morning sermon was preached by Dr. Miller who took as his text, "My House shall be called a House of Prayer, but Ye have made it a den of thieves". Dr. Miller pointed out that even the aspirations of God can be thwarted by the designs of man. He said that "We, and we alone, can make the church a house of prayer or otherwise".

During the evening service Dr. Bonnell said that "Dominion Day is an appropriate time at which to examine the moral foundations of Canadian Life". He noted that forces are at work in this country seeking the triumph of materialism and remarked that moral standards cannot remain in the life of a nation unless they are supported by a vigorous spiritual life.

Returns Home From Study In England

Mr. Leo McIsaac

Mr. Leo McIsaac, former Secretary of the Provincial Federation of Agriculture, and Mrs. McIsaac arrived home yesterday evening from a year's study in England and the European continent. Mr. McIsaac was studying on a scholarship awarded in 1950 as the result of the recommendation from the Canadian Association for Adult Education.

His course dealt with agricultural marketing and production problems as well as farm organizations, co-operatives, labor unions, and agricultural economics.

During most of the first six months of the course Mr. McIsaac studied at the International Co-operative College at Loughborough near London. He spent a week in each of Scotland, Ireland and Wales viewing the economic conditions and movements in these countries.

After Easter he went to the European continent and spent a week in most of the free countries from Italy to Finland. Countries he visited were: Italy, France, Holland, Belgium, West Germany, Denmark, Sweden, Norway and Finland.

Following his return to England he spent a couple of weeks at Oxford University studying agricultural economics.

Mr. McIsaac was the only Canadian selected to take the course. Representatives from most of the other British Dominions also took the same course.

Queries Minister Re Meaning Of Unusual Word

OTTAWA, June 29 — (Special) — Jean Lesage, parliamentary assistant to External Affairs Minister Pearson was temporarily caught off base in the Commons today by W. Chester S. McLure, Conservative member for Queen's. Just prior to the opening of the House at 11 o'clock this morning, Mr. McLure found an External Affairs press release in his stack of mail. The release advertised a UNESCO scholarship and set forth that candidates should be musicologists.

A quick check in the two-volume Oxford dictionary for the word "musicologist" revealed to Mr. McLure that the Oxford dictionary authorities did not recognize it as an English word in 1950.

During the question period in the chamber, he asked Mr. Lesage what the meaning of the word was. The Parliamentary assistant replied that he has no memory of the definition but promised a definition later in the day. In the afternoon, he turned up with a definition culled from Webster's International Dictionary. A musicologist is a person who has investigated the history and science of music and musical documents.

"I would say that my friend the honorable member for Queen's could be classified as a musician but not as a musicologist. He could be classified as a musician because of his musical voice," said Mr. Lesage.

"The honorable member does not know whether he, (Mr. McLure) is a musicologist or not," interposed Gordon Graydon, Conservative member for Peel. "He might be."

Mr. McLure, whose interest in music of years' standing stems from the intensive musical training of his daughter, Miss Lena McLure, of Toronto, told The Guardian that he had come across the word somewhere before, but was not sure whether it was an established word in the English language or whether it was some sort of "officialese" or what is known in Washington as "gobbledygook." Since it is not listed in the Oxford Dictionary which has 2,494 pages and about a quarter of a million words, he questioned whether it is widely accepted.

mittie was appointed. Place of next meeting was undecided. Christian Stewardship secretary gave an interesting reading. Devotional period was led by devotional committee in charge. Refreshments were served by the hostess and committee in charge. Benediction closed a very interesting meeting.

Exhibit Shows Early Methods Of Communication

In the Legislative Chamber of the Provincial Building in Charlottetown is an historical exhibit of the early methods of communication between Prince Edward Island and the mainland which has been arranged in connection with the festivities of Festive Week.

Displayed on tables in the Legislative Chamber are some of the early telegraph instruments used for the transmission of telegrams at the time of the laying of the first submarine cable in North America between Cape Tormentine in New Brunswick and Carleton Head on Prince Edward Island in 1852, as well as those of subsequent dates. The instruments were kindly loaned for the occasion by the Canadian National Telegraphs.

A unique feature of the display is a tape recording machine of 1846 with the latest counterpart, a teleprinter carrying the latest Canadian Press news bulletins.

Also on display are photographic enlargements of the earliest methods of crossing the Strait of Northumberland between Prince Edward Island and the mainland. These depict the ice boats used between Cape Tormentine and Cape Traverse; the world's first ice breaker, which ran between Picoua and Georgetown in 1877-78, known as the "Northern Light." This experiment proved that it was possible to establish winter passage across the Strait. Also shown is a photographic enlargement of the world's largest ice-breaking carrier, the "Abegweit", now in service between Cape Tormentine and Borden which, in addition to carrying railway cars, also transports motor vehicles across the Strait, and is operated by the Canadian National Railways.

Another photographic enlargement shows the laying of the first submarine cable at Carleton Head.

Tied in with this exhibit are motion pictures in colour showing views of Prince Edward Island, also a sound color film entitled "Canadian Heritage" depicting the folklore and customs of the nationalities that make up the people of Canada. This motion picture has received wide acclaim and was given an academy award. It was produced under the auspices of the Public Relations Department of the Canadian National Railways and is on loan from the railways' motion picture film library.

The exhibit is well worth seeing and forms a fitting part of the programme of events for Festive Week. The motion pictures are being shown on the hour between ten o'clock and noon in the morning and between two and five o'clock in the afternoon.

Mr. F. R. Sayer, public relations officer with the Canadian National Railways, Moncton, was here during the weekend and arranged the display in co-operation with Messrs. Bramwell Chandler of the National Film Board and George V. Fraser, director of the P.E.I. Tourist and Information Branch.

Deplore Policy Re Maritime Potatoes

OTTAWA, June 30 — The dumping of "thousands of bushels" of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island potatoes because the Government had not taken steps early enough to look after the 1950 crop with floor prices, was deplored in the House of Commons by H. H. Hatfield (P.C.—Victoria) and W. Chester S. McLure (P.C.—Queen's). The Maritime spokesmen received strong support from John H. Blackmore (S.C.—Lethbridge), who declared: "I do not know when the time is going to come when the members of the House of Commons are going to realize that the welfare of Ontario and Quebec depends on the welfare of the Maritime Provinces."

"We certainly should have some over-all policy under which we will say to the producers in the Maritime Provinces that when the price of potatoes falls below a certain point we are going to support them with assistance," Mr. Blackmore said.

Mr. Hatfield and Mr. McLure said potato growers in P.E.I., Nova Scotia and New Brunswick should have received immediate Federal price support last fall when prices fell to as low as 20 cents a bushel. Those who could hold their potatoes until Spring received some aid through a Federal arrangement with starch factories to handle them at a guaranteed price but these factories could not handle all the surplus. Those remaining now were being dumped, they said.

Robert McBurnin, parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner, speaking in his minister's absence, said price support was provided to help any industry that was in difficulty. However, "potatoes are a difficult product to support because they are grown everywhere and anywhere," he said. "The United States tried price support for them and had a formula in respect to price support but they had to stop after spending a few hundred million dollars."

LOWER FREETOWN W. I.

Lower Freetown's Women's Institute held its June meeting at the home of Mrs. Fentao Simmons with the President in the chair, and fifteen members present. Following the adoption of minutes and roll call, the treasurer reported $5.00 sent to Salvation Army, and two boxes of fruit sent to the sick. There was no report from school committee.

It was decided to provide the officer with the Canadian National Railways, Moncton, was here during the weekend and arranged the display in co-operation with Messrs. Bramwell Chandler of the National Film Board and George V. Fraser, director of the P.E.I. Tourist and Information Branch.

same treat as last year for the children at the school picnic. A bill of 60 cents was paid to secretary. After discussion, it was decided to give a donation to Birch Grove Institute to help out the work being done on the Freetown hall. An ice cream social was planned to be held at the school. Two dozen spoons and an ice cream dip will be bought for the institute.

The July meeting will be held in the new school and program committee will be Mrs. E. Burns and Mrs. Scott Cairns. Mrs. Walter Bernard and Mrs. Lloyd Burns then put on the program for the day, consisting of several games of Bingo, with a small prize for the winner of each. Meeting adjourned and the hostesses served a delicious lunch.
