Epigrams From Recent Books.

Life is not an impromptu performance, but a devilish serious rehearsal.—Ashes of Empire.

The quality called tact is highly developed in the selfish.—Ashes of Empire.

A maid is always a child until knowledge of sorrow comes to make her a woman. Ashes of Empire.

Is the voice of man's puny reason clothed with such authority that it dares to answer his heart which knows nothing but that it bleeds?—Aylwin.

The meeting of the man and the woman it is to this that every story in the world goes back for its beginning.—Gloria Mundi.

A man has a good many sides to his life, but the sides that is most vital to him is that of the work he wants to do in the world. If the wife fits perfectly on that side, the discrepancies elsewhere are of small account by comparison.—Gloria Mundi.

To be consistently cheerful may be in itself a misfortune.—The Adventures of Francois.

The man who has no woman friend is unfortunate and lacks a part of that breadth of relation to his kind which liberal-minded men instinctively crave.—Far in the Forest.

If plain speaking be a sign of friendship, then women are assuredly capable of higher flights than men.—Roden's Corner.

In a multitude of counsellors there may be safety, but it is assuredly the counsellors who are safe.—Roden's Corner.

The feeling of satisfaction at seeing one's first book on sale can only be fully appreciated by the man to whom it is the crowning result of years and years of trials and tribulations, of disappointment and despair.—Scribes and Pharisees.

Men who stand much upon their dignity have not as a rule, much else to stand upon.—Roden's Corner.

It is always pleasant and gratifying to any man to be regarded as better than he knows he is, and as long as the gratification does not last too long, nothing goes him more good.—Father and Son.

Nothing is so tranquilizing to the mind as good resolutions, made, as they usually are, at a time when it is impossible to but them into practice.—Father and Son.

Reputation is but the bitter fruit of labour, for it only makes a man vain, discontented, and egotistical.—Scribes and Pharisees.

It is a strange fact that intimacy with anyone who has made for himself a great name leads to the inevitable conclusion that he is worthy of it.—Roden's Corner.

A man's friendship is apparently based upon a knowledge of another's redeeming qualities. A woman's dearest friend is she whose faults will bear the closest investigation.—Roden's Corner.

Never feel that you are alone or that anything can harm you in the dark. I heard of a little boy who had great reason to feel lonely and afraid, but was brave because he knew that God was with him. He lived alone with his mother in a tiny attic in London. Then his mother died, but before doing so she told him not to be afraid, because the same God who was going to take her to Himself, would come and be with him to help him. After her funeral the poor little chap had nowhere to go, and no one helped him. He lived for some days on what he could pick up in the dust-heaps and gutters, and slept wherever he could find a quiet corner. He was very nearly despairing, but kept on saying to himself that he was sure God was near because his mother told him so. At last a gentleman passing by at night caught sight of his little white face as he lay half asleep, under an archway. The gentleman stopped and asked him if he had no friends. The little lad said, "only God! Mother said he would help me." And then came a burst of sobbing which showed how nearly hopeless he had become. The gentleman was very much touched by what he heard, and said: "Well, I am the help God has sent you. Come with me." The boy jumped up at once, a smile breaking through his tears, and, as he started to accompany his new friend, he said: "Oh, Sir, you have been a long time on the way! You have probably never had as much reason to feel lonely and frightened as that little boy had, so you ought to find it even easier than he did to remember that God is near you.—F. D. Hew, in Sunday Magazine.

Keep Well

Easy to say, but how shall I do it?

In the only common sense way—keep your head cool, your feet warm and your blood rich and pure by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Then all your nerves, muscles, tissues and organs will be properly nourished. Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the system, creates an appetite, tones the stomach and gives strength. It is the people's Spring Medicine, has a larger sale and effects more cures than all others.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Is the One True Blood Purifier. C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills are the favorite family cathartic. Price 25c.

Mr. Cole Discovers the Power of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Windsor, Feb. 20.—The following statement, which Mr. F. H. Cole of this place requests us to publish, is worthy of attention from every victim of Rheumatism in Canada.

Mr. Cole's experience fully warrants him in making this statement.

"Words cannot describe how I suffered from Rheumatism and Kidney Complaint. I tried every cure that was recommended but got no benefit until I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"Thank God I did use Dodd's Kidney Pills, for they cured me—made me sound and well, in every joint and limb."

Those who suffer the agonies of Rheumatism or Lumbago need do so no longer. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure them.

Supper is to Many Indispensible

And the question arises, What should we eat, drink and avoid? Supper being a late refreshment

We Should Avoid Anything and everything that does not comply with the the following, simple Hygienic rules.

We Should Eat That which readily assimilates, and does not overtax the digestive powers during the night.

We Should Drink Only that which induces healthy sleep, without any reactionary depression in the morning.
