ELLEN'S DIARY

Harvesting Is Furthered By Help Of Mack And Gage

Now our patches of grainland are being steadily cleared of stalks as the threshing continues and the hauling of straw.

"Anything new?" we questioned the pair of lads who came to dinner with James.

"Nothing, only work," Mack replied with a chuckle.

"And where's Shandy?" we asked, missing the sleek-haired little dog who shadows the footsteps of Gage when about.

"He's in disgrace today—poor fellow," Gage said. "You see, he came too near a pole-kitty last night," he grinned.

"That's new, isn't it?" Mack observed. "Not exactly news now" he laughed, "it's smelly history, I'd say!"

"They're great fellows," James commented. "Food them well, Ellen Mack—there's no better anywhere to drive a tractor. And Gage—he's a great harvest-hand—always in good spirits and thoughtful for the others around. I actually don't know how we're going to do without them through the school-week ahead."

"They'll be harvesting new day afternoon when they entertained at a supper bridge."

In fourteen hundred and ninety two Columbus sailed the ocean blue... "It's a kind of pity he ever did" Mack chuckled. "It's both-ered school - children forever since!" Good, we could appreciate the meal-tasted, the foods sweetened with that healthy hunger gained from a morning in the field, though today's threshing scene we remembered was set close by an orchard where Duchess apples now reddened. "An now, Ellen," James said presently, "do us up a few cakes, like a good woman—any kind will do. It's a long afternoon for lads in the field." "Alex'll come too!" the youngster said, just come from the house across the lane, "to the field" he nodded. "Alex'll come home to his afternoon sleep" Gage countered kindly. "Some day, Alex'll come, won't he?" James smiled patting the young head fondly. "Some day" the child said happily. So the days pass—the clear bright September days. Busyly they go on island farms where now folks attend to the sowing of their crops.

ALBERTON P. W. L. The regular monthly meeting of the Sacred Heart Parish Council was held on Wednesday evening, Sept. 2nd, at the home of Mrs. Martin Foley, with twelve members and six visitors present. The president, Mrs. Ivan Smith, presided and opened the meeting by reciting the League prayer. Mrs. Everett Shea gave the treasurer's report. There were a total of twenty-eight sick calls reported by members present, and eight new members were welcomed. "Better" James smiled a bit wearily this evening "to wear out than rust out" was a blessing to be able to work. How long the day would be if one had to idle it away—never-ending it would be! Lines from a loved hymn sung in a little church in the hush of a Sabbath evening in the remembered young years come to mind—how deeply imprinted such things remain! "Labor is sweet, for Thou hast tolled; And care is light, for Thou hast cared; Let not our works with self be soiled; Nor in unskillful ways ensnared."

Correspondence consisted of acknowledgement cards, and the minutes of the provincial convention, also a letter from the Canadian Red Cross. Plans were made to have a pantry sale in the Library. Following the regular business of the meeting the guest speaker for the evening, Mrs. J. A. MacDonald, the Diocesan president spoke to the meeting on the theme of the C. W. L. Convention "The return of lapsed Catholics to the faith." In a very interesting and gracious manner, Mrs. MacDonald spoke on the importance of being a C. W. L. member and how to encourage membership, she also gave many helpful suggestions on how to conduct C. W. L. meetings properly, so that they will be interesting as well as enjoyable. She also mentioned how important the duty of each convenor is and suggested that a magazine convenor be appointed and as many members subscribe to the League Magazine as possible. Following Mrs. MacDonald's talk, a vote of thanks was extended to her by the president. On motion the meeting was closed with the act of consecration to the Blessed Virgin Mary.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN FREDERICK GAUDET St. Paul's Church, S'side. Scene Of Pretty Wedding

St. Paul's Church, Summerside, was the scene of a pretty wedding recently, when Agnes Edith Arlene, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius P. Bolger, became the bride of John Frederick Gaudet, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gaudet, Summerside. Rev. Gerald Steele performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her ballerina length wedding gown of Chantilly lace and nylon chiffon, featuring a lace bodice with short sleeves. The full skirt was made of tier on tier of Chantilly lace and nylon chiffon, ever taffeta. The shoulder length veil was held in place with a tiara with rhinestone and pearl trim and she carried deep pink sweetheart roses on a nylon Chantilly lace covered prayer book with streamers.

Miss Patricia Bolger, her sister's bridesmaid, was gowned in green gold taffeta made on princess lines, a bandeau of white taffeta and white short gloves edged in gold. She carried a semi-crescent of white shasta mums. Mr. Everett Joseph Campbell was best man.

A reception for the wedding party and immediate families was held at the home of the bride, where the lace covered table was centred with a wedding cake, topped with two love birds holding wedding rings. An attractive arrangement of deep pink sweetheart roses and white shasta mums decorated the table.

For the honeymoon trip the bride travelled in a white print linen dress under a black linen duster, with a small white hat and a corsage of deep sweetheart roses. Mr. and Mrs. Gaudet will re-
