

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JUNE 5, 1891.

Agricultural Education.

THAT this Province will suffer a loss by reason of the promotion of Professor Shuttleworth to the vacant chair of Chemistry in the Agricultural College of Ontario, will be admitted.

The Park Roadway.

SURELY measures will now, at once, be taken to prevent any further undignified disputes between the Lieutenant-Governor and the public in respect to the Park roadway by the shore.

A Merited Encomium.

At a meeting of the Quarterly Board of the Methodist Brick Church, held last evening, the following resolution was unanimously passed:—

Resolved,—As this is the last meeting of the official Quarterly Board at which we will be associated with our highly esteemed and beloved Pastor, the Rev. John Read, in his capacity of Chairman of the Board, we cannot let the opportunity pass without giving expression to our appreciation of the able and courteous manner in which he has invariably presided at our meetings.

We fully recognize the deep interest and care he has manifested in the work of the Church, in all its branches. We have ever appreciated the marked ability and sound judgment he has displayed in all matters connected with the business of the Church.

We acknowledge our deep and lasting obligation to him for the watchful care he has manifested in the spiritual interests of the congregation. His thoughtful and impressive sermons were calculated to elevate and benefit his hearers, and the impression produced should not soon pass away from the minds and hearts of those who listened to them.

As he goes from us to labor in another field we pray that the blessing of the Lord may go with him and his family, and that he may be abundantly blessed in the new sphere of labor to which he may be appointed.

HILLSBOROUGH PARK.—It is pleasing to note the improvements made on these beautiful grounds during the past month. The committee in charge, under the authority of the City Council, planted 35 fine additional trees, among them 12 horse chestnuts, presented by the Honorable the Master of the Rolls. The remainder are lime, mountain ash, maple and birch.

The younger ones are well protected by suitable boxes, and the wire fence around them has been put in good repair. To meet the required expenditure, the committee have subscribed as follows: Judge Hodgson, $10; Thomas Caseley, $5; Benjamin Rogers, $5; Neil McLeod, $5; Charles Palmer, $5; Lemuel Philips, $5; A. MacNeill, $8, making a total for the year 1891, of $43. Others in the vicinity of the park have signified their desire to help and subscriptions will appear later on.

The committee now appeal to the City Council for a sum sufficient to whitewash the fence around the square, and they also appeal to His Honor the Stipendiary Magistrate for police protection against the wanton destruction of those trees. An occasional walk through the park by civic officers would render good service in the direction indicated.

A good story is told of the Duke of Wellington in church.—An old lady in humble circumstances chanced to be next the Duke both in a kneeling attitude, and arising from her position, recognizing the Duke, attempts in an apologetic manner to vacate the seat. The Duke very graciously forces her to be seated by him, remarking "we are all alike here." This reminds us of how alike people are in their fancies of flowers. The pansy, for instance, is a universal favorite with all, and we can say with the Duke of Wellington, "we are all alike here"—especially with such beautiful delicate colored ones as Gay & Son are selling in the Market and at home. See their ad. of flowers and vegetable plants.

POLICE COURT.—This morning a man was fined five cents and costs for allowing a horse to run at large.

The Philharmonic Concert.

The greatest regret called forth by the fact that but a fair audience attended the fourth concert of the Philharmonic Society last night is that so many of our citizens have missed a rare musical treat. The beautiful cantata of "The Golden Legend" abounds in exquisitely sweet passages, thrilling, effective harmonies, and rich vocal accompaniments to solo and duet. Moreover, because it involves such a diversity of theme, it cannot but be devoid of monotony: the charming variety of recitative, solo, duet, chorus, quartette, drinking song, love passage, prayer and hymn, renders this a rare treat more readily enjoyed than any similar composition. It was probably not on this consideration which led Mr. Lloyd, the capable conductor, to choose this prize composition of Mr. Dudley Buck as the attraction of last night, for no work that we know of is better suited to the soloists and the chorus under his charge. Mrs. Malcolm Macleod's flexible voice, so rich in expression, found congenial scope in such passages as Elsie's prayer, "My Redeemer, and her solo in Scene 9, "The night is calm." In passing, we may say that in this gem—its beauty enhanced by the sweetly-melodized, evenly-balanced vocal accompaniment—the lack of an organ to enrich the harmony in the Kyrie eleison made it fall short of much it might have been. As it was, it was, in our opinion, one of the finest selections ever heard in Charlottetown. The last remark may be extended to include the dear old Greek Evensong on the lighting of the lamps—"O, Gladsome Light"—the rendition of which thrilled the audience. No class of music suits Mr. Lloyd's rich voice so well as sacred and devotional themes. In his various parts last night he excelled, and in the duet in scene 13, in which Prince Henry and Elsie pledge each other their vows, the reverend gentleman and Mrs. Malcolm Macleod delighted the audience by the perfect blending of their voices and the wealth of expression bestowed upon "Behold the hills," that they had to respond to an imperative encore. Professor Caven was never in better voice—never had a part better suited to its depth and richness. In all scenes he did fullest justice to the part of Lucifer. The chorus did excellently well in many parts, as, for instance, in "The Bells," in scene 1, the closing strains of which were delightful, although some parts of the number marked (p) were sung rather lustily. But the chorus of sailors, (as also the drinking song—scene 7), was a feeble number—words not articulated, parts confused, effect weak. Indeed, to be a duet, we are not conscious of any vast improvement in the singing of the Society as a whole, except that there is more confidence displayed. There is a great need of toning down and blending, which, of course, is due to irregular attendance at practice. The greatest drawback was the limited number of instruments in the orchestra. It is needless to say that Mr. Hertz scarcely requires any assistance. As an accompanist he has few peers. His playing last night was faultless—often brilliant, as for instance, in scenes 2 and 8. No difficulties embarrassed him, faithful, watchful, sustaining and sympathetic. Mr. Sharp rendered excellent service with the bass violin. Without it, in the absence of the organ, there would have been but weak support to the vocalists. The wind instruments came out well in scene 9. Considering the small number in the orchestra the work done was creditable, but the absence of other instrumentalists prevented full justice being done to this cantata which depends more than ordinarily upon the orchestra for its finest effects. We were robbed of much pleasure in having to pass over "The Pilgrimage to Sejerø" and the "Barcarole" (scenes 6 and 10), both of which could have been enjoyed had the orchestra been as efficient as heretofore. We must not forget to commend the solos for their subdued but effective interpretation of their parts. The only number calling for comment in the former part of the programme was Miss Moore's song "Nightfall," in which this lady proved herself possessor of a sweet voice, well managed. It will be a pleasure to hear Miss Moore frequently in our concerts, and we congratulate her upon the good impression she left upon the audience. As a whole, the concert was the best yet given by the society. Were the Philharmonic not as it were a semi-professional society, we would only mete out the praise due the many good points in the exceptionally enjoyable concert of last night. The faults and weaknesses apparent were few and far between. They were principally due to the small number of performers. The society is to be encouraged, the conductor congratulated: they combined to delight the audience last night—there was not one who did not leave the hall reluctantly.

Personal.

Rev. Thomas Lloyd arrived yesterday to take charge of the English Churches at Kensington and New London.

We hear that the Rev. Frederic E. J. Lloyd, Rector of Georgetown and Chery Valley, and Co-conductor of the Philharmonic Society, has been appointed to the permanent Professorship of Music in Prince of Wales College.

Dr. Kier, jr., son of Dr. Kier, of Malpeque, who graduated at Toronto University recently, leaves for Murray River, where he intends practicing his profession early next week. THE EXAMINER wishes him success.

Mr. Nathan J. Lockhart, of Cavendish, read a very well written essay on "Pluck," at the closing exercises of Horton Academy, Wolfville, N. S., on Wednesday last. Mr. Lockhart is a member of this year's matriculating class.

The arrivals at the Hotel Davies yesterday were D E Clarke, Orwell; J S Perry, Tignish; Master B L Perry, do; Geo L Montgomery, Alberton; W W Wickham, Kensington; M Wright, Bequete; Miss M Wright, do; S B Richards, Montreal; Frank B Street, do; John Richards, Bequete. This morning there arrived James E Macdonald, Carlizog; Mrs M Macdonald, Georgetown; G G Watt, Montreal.

Creescents vs. St. Dunstan's College

The representative fifteen of the Crescent Football Club made their debut at Victoria Park last evening in a match with St. Dunstan's College team. An unusually large number of spectators assembled on the grounds long before "time" was called. The game had been scheduled for the Queen's Birthday, but owing to the fact that several of the players were on the Abegweit team to play against New Glasgow, it was set down for Wednesday evening, which, however, at the request of the collegians, was postponed to last evening. It was just the evening for football. As the teams lined out for the kick off, St. Dunstan's forwards seemed far heavier than their opponents. Both teams presented a very neat appearance. The teams are as follows:—

CRESCENTS. Goal—E Trainor. Half Backs—J Rundle (Capt), J McLean and N Rundle. Quarter Backs—A Leigh, D Robinson. Forwards—R P Gaudet, W Edmunds, A Miller, D Riley, J Lafferty, L McDonald, S McLeod, F Handraban, J McQuillan.

ST. DUNSTAN'S. Goal—T Gallant. Half Backs—J A McDonald (Capt), St C Gallant, N Casault, P Gaudet. Quarter Backs—W McKenna, S McKenna.

Forwards—J J McDonald, W Daly, J Gilis, J F McGillvey, D A McAnuly, J S McDonald, J C McKinnon, P D McGaigan.

The Crescent Captain won the toss, and chose to take advantage of the strong sun, defending the western goal. The ball was kicked off by St. Dunstan's full back, and promptly returned by the opposing goalkeeper. The ball was "held" and scrimmaging commenced. The Crescent forwards played well, but there was no material advantage on either side. The quarters on each side made some good passes back, but the backs were invariably tackled and little gained. Still the scrimmaging raged, both sides working with a will. At last by good quarter back play the ball was passed to J. Rundle. By a brilliant dash he succeeded in passing St. Dunstan's half backs and made a touchdown directly behind the goal. Miller tried for a goal but missed. The ball was kicked off at the 25-yard line, but was stopped and sent back over the College goal line and roused. It was again kicked off and St. Dunstan's followed up well. They worked the ball down, and soon had it dangerously near the Crescents' goal. Several fierce scrimmages took place here, but the Crescents gradually gained ground. Time was called during a scrimmage near centre. Crescents, 2; St. Dunstan's, 0.

After an interval of ten minutes the teams changed goals. Miller made a fine kick off for the Crescents, and the latter's forwards rushing up prevented a return. Scrimmaging was the order, and there was nothing to choose between them. The ball was worked out, however, and sent over the collegians' goal line forcing them to touch for safety. They quickly kicked off, and got the ball up to centre. Gallant, one of the half backs of the College team, and McLean, half back of the Crescents, made some good runs for their sides. J J McDonald secured the ball and made a wild run, but was downed near the northern touchline. J. Rundle got the ball in touch, quickly bounded it and by a fine run secured another touchdown. The ball however, was ordered to be taken back. The latter part of this half was taken up with scrimmages near St. Dunstan's goal line. Time. Crescents, 2; St. Dunstan's, 0. The play throughout was nearly all in the forwards. There was altogether too much loud talk on the part of the forwards, and little courtesy towards the referee and umpires. Two halves of thirty minutes each were played.

St. Dunstan's umpire—Frank Murphy. Crescents' umpire—D H Robinson. Referee—Jas M Sullivan.

Arrival of the Fastnet.

THE Fastnet, the steamer purchased by Messrs. Pickford & Black, to take the place of the Princess Beatrice on the route between Halifax and Charlottetown, arrived here yesterday afternoon about half-past two, bringing a full general cargo and one passenger—Rev. Thomas Lloyd. She sailed on return to Halifax this forenoon with a cargo of lobsters, pork, etc. Captain Kelly, formerly of the Princess Beatrice is in command, with Mr. E. N. Crews, also formerly of the Beatrice as first officer, and Mr. Peter LeBlanc as third in command. Mr. Morris is the purser, Mr. Crayden, of the Princess Beatrice, who was to have filled that position having been appointed to a similar one on the steamer Harlowe. Mr. Dease is Chief Engineer and Mr. Hopkins, Chief Steward. It is understood that Captain Kelly is soon to be given the command of a West India steamer, when Mr. Crews will likely be put in charge of the Fastnet. All the officers speak highly of the steamer's sea-going qualities.

The Fastnet is a steel steamer, schooner-rigged, 274.73 tons gross and 154 tons net. She was built by Thomas Wingate & Co., of Glasgow; is 145.4 feet in length, 23.5 feet in width with 11.3 feet depth of hold. She has direct acting compound inverted engines, 20x40 inch cylinder, 30 inch length of stroke. Her cargo and passenger accommodation is good. She has two hatches and steam winches. Her cabin accommodation is aft, and 40 first-class passengers can be comfortably looked after. Her state rooms are all on deck, and are tastefully fitted up and furnished. The saloon, which is directly underneath the state-rooms is fitted up in splendid style. The ladies cabin, which is also well furnished and fitted up adjoins the main saloon. The vessel is fitted with steam throughout. The captain's room is amidships, and forward of it is a bridge for passengers. The forecastle is large, and under it are six rooms for the accommodation of people travelling second-class, as well as mess-room, seamen's quarters, etc.

The Fastnet is compactly built throughout, and no space is wasted. She made the trip out to Halifax in twelve days, although she experienced much heavy weather. We trust that both steamer and officers will have a pleasant and prosperous season.

THE COILA.—The steamer Coila will sail from Charlottetown for Boston on Thursday next, taking freight at reasonable rates. Advertisement elsewhere.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Letter from "An Observer."

SIR,—I read with great pleasure the letter of Hon. B. Davies in THE EXAMINER of yesterday. It is wonderful to me that THE EXAMINER itself has not come out to defend the good name of Charlottetown against the slanders of the Patriot. So far as my observation goes, there is not quite as much drunkenness in Charlottetown now as there was when the Scott Act was in force. That more liquor may have been imported lately is possible, but it must be remembered that we have had a series of elections, and the gift canvasser has been at work, and the Scott Act is still in force throughout the country. OBSERVER.

Dr. McGlynn and the Guardian.

SIR,—Yesterday's Guardian contains the following remarks in reference to the lectures given here by Dr. McGlynn:—

"We have certainly had an unenviable spectacle here in Charlottetown—a priest of the Roman Catholic Church, one who although driven from his communion still reverences its sacraments and accepts its doctrines, standing before audiences both Protestant and Catholic recognizing all as brethren, as fellow Christians, speaking of religion as distinct from dogma, from sacraments, from ritual, and summed up in the words—'the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man.' Surely this is Christianity. And how the bigot, the exclusivist, the man whose tongue is quick to cry 'heretic,' shrivels up in the light of such teaching."

It might be thought from the above that the Guardian would extend to all other Christians the same charity which Dr. McGlynn extends to all. But it is not so. In the same issue of the Guardian there is a long article, which it endorses, on the "Kilburn Sisterhood" (a society of ladies in the English Church) who devote all their time to works of love and mercy. This article attacks these good sisters and all who hold similar views, in a very lively manner. It calls the service which Dr. McGlynn and all Catholics regard as the highest act of Christian worship, the "blasphemous sacrifice of the Mass, and the idolatrous worship of the Host."

I must say, that much as I knew of the "liberality and charity" of the Guardian, I was startled to find so audacious a contradiction in terms, so fearful an instance of giving the lie direct to its words.
