Summerside Notes.

SUMMERSIDE, April 24.
During the past week the ice in the harbor disappeared very fast. The channel is open to the mouth of the harbor.

The different schooners laid up during the winter are being put in trim for the season's work. Capt. McFarlane has given the Ferry boat Jennie B. a thorough overhauling, and will be better prepared for the accommodation of passengers than last year.

The lecture delivered by Finlay McNeill, Esq., on Friday night last, in the Reform Club Hall, was very well attended. His subject was "Our County." The lecture was a very interesting one, and well delivered. The order kept was not as good as it might have been.

A vacancy has occurred in the Town Council, owing to Thomas Beattie, Esq., having resigned his seat. The election to fill the vacancy takes place in about two weeks time. As yet no one has been openly named for the position, although there are several aspirants for the honor.

Unlike his right reverend brother of Cape Town, Bishop Colenso does not endorse Sir Bartle Frere's conduct in precipitating the war with the Zulus. In some correspondence recently published, his Lordship says that the course of the High Commissioner made it simply impossible for Cetewayo to avert war. That the Zulu King was prejudiced, he declares, is plainly seen in the light of recent events. The bishop writes very strongly. To his mind, he says, "it is a question which vitally concerns our character as a Christian people whether or not we have determined from the first to subjugate or annex the Zulu country without regard to the right or wrong of the case, but with a view to ulterior objects considered to be desirable for the Zulus as well as for ourselves—doing good that evil may come. I don't question that in what was originally awarded to the Zulus in accordance with the report, they received the very utmost it would have been possible for any just arbitrator to give them. But then this award was emptied of its whole meaning for the Zulus, and reduce to a mere name by the memorandum afterwards published, and which, though 'prematurely published,' had been prepared and signed a fortnight before the award had been formally communicated to Cetewayo. I understand that Cetewayo, who was greatly pleased at first with the award as a proof of English love of justice and right, when he became aware of what was really intended, exclaimed against the mockery of the whole proceeding, and said very emphatically—'They have flung over my head the skin of the beast while they are eating all the meat.'"

Concluding, the bishop declares that, above all, he mourns the loss of England's character among the native tribes of South Africa as an honorable nation, a just and truth-loving people, upon whose plighted word the Zulu King and people have been for so many years implicitly relying.

The most strangely conducted newspaper is probably published in the Island of Cyprus. It is called the Cyprus, and is in charge of two editors, one an Englishman and the other a Greek. The English editor does not understand the Greek language, though the Greek understands the English. They have opposite political opinions. The Englishman writes articles favorable to the English policy, and the Greek editor puts them into Greek, but at the same time he prints his own articles attacking the new English masters of the ancient Greek island.

Mr. Dastan has just received a cablegram from his Nottingham friends, stating that Mr. Myer is coming out to Halifax immediately to give his personal attention to the erection of the Sugar Refinery. Mr. Dastan says that steps will at once be taken for its speedy erection.

Diamond dealers in New York loan dazzling displays of gems to ladies secretly engaged in the trade, that they may wear them at parties and thereby emulate other envious ladies to worry their husbands into buying outfits equally costly.

The low grade of civilization of the Australian aborigines is attributed to the total absence from the continent of ferocious and powerful animals, the ease with which the poor and limited quantity of their food is obtained, and their national isolation.

The ice bridge above Quebec city has given way and navigation with Montreal will likely commence at once.

Why Will You Allow a cold to advance in your system and thus encourage more serious maladies such as Pneumonia, Hemorrhages and Lung troubles, when an immediate relief can be so readily attained. Boschee's German Syrup has gained the largest sale in the world for the cure of Coughs, Colds and the severest Lung Diseases. It is Dr. Boschee's famous German prescription, and is prepared with the greatest care, and no fear need be entertained in administering it to the youngest child, as per directions. The sale of this medicine is unprecedented. Since first introduced there has been a constant increasing demand and without a single report of a failure to do its work in any case. Ask your druggist as to the truth of these remarks. Large size 75 cents. Try it and be convinced.

Appaling Prospect.—First Subaltern (reads):—"Lord Fortescue recommends athletics to increase the physical strength and activity of the officers." Second Subaltern:—"What! Athletics in addition to all our brain work. Good heavens! What is the service coming to?"

Scene—Railway arch, Maxwell street Glasgow; two arabs are quarrelling over a game of pitch-and-toss; an old gent interposes. Old gent—"Come, come, you shouldn't quarrel in that way; what have you done, my lad, that he should strike you?"—First street arab—"Nothing, sir." Second street arab—"Yer a liar! Yer ca'd me a bank director!"

Humorous Selections.

A prisoner, when asked what trade he wanted to learn, said: "If there is no objection, I would like to be a sailor."

A grave-digger buried a man named Button and brought in the following bill to his widow: "To making one Button hole, $5."

"Always pay as you go," said an old man to his nephew. "But, uncle, suppose I haven't anything to pay it with?" "Then don't go."

Life is but a span. Marriage is a double team. Young wedded to old age is a tandem. A cross old bachelor is single and all sulky.

It is merely modesty which prompts people to use opera glasses at a ballet show. They don't want to view limbs with the naked eye.

"How dare you say 'damn' before me?" severely enquired a clergyman of a loafer. "How did I know you wanted to 'damn' first," retorted this bad man.

Opium smoking finds little toleration in Japan. A man was recently sentenced to ten years hard labor in Yokohama for violation of the law against the practice.

"How shall we train our girls?" asks an exchange. Train 'em with about twenty-two yards of black silk, if you want to please your girls. A silk velvet train would also make 'em happy.

A large flock of crows got so drunk over a lot of brandy-steeped wild cherry pits, which were thrown away by a Wilton, Conn., family recently, that about fifty were killed or captured.

Edith—"Now, grandpa, don't the Bible say our hairs are all numbered?" Bald-headed Grandpa—"Yes, child, yes!" Edith—"Well, grandpa, it didn't trouble them much to count yours, did it?"

Arabella (after three months abroad)—"Bridget, je vous prie to use extreme care when dusting the articles of vertu the bric-a-brac, and ceramics." Bridget—"Sure, ma'am, I understand what ye say, but I don't know what ye mane."

"Now, isn't he an angel?" said the fond mother as she seated the little fellow in his high chair at the table for the first time. "A sort of destroying angel," remarked the cynical father as he saw the $5 castor go spinning to the floor with a crash.

It is heartrending to make such corrections, but it is very necessary sometimes. "In speaking of the President of our local bank last week," says a country journal, "for 'he skedaddled,' please read, 'His schedule.'"

Bright little girl—"The robbers can't steal my mamma's diamond earrings, 'cause papa's hid them." Visitor—"Where has he hid them?" Little girl—"Why, I heard him tell mamma he had put them up the spout; and he guessed they would stay there."

A new loan and savings society was organized by some of our leading capitalists last week, says a St. Thomas paper, and before adjourning upwards of 54,000 stock was subscribed. A temporary board of directors was appointed and stock book opened.

Mr. Ragsdale, Treasurer of Jefferson county, Ind., broke his engagement with a poor girl to marry a rich widow, and a jury compelled him to pay $900 damages. "Well," he said, as he handed over the money, "I am still about $20,000 ahead by the change."

A lady desired to communicate by electricity to her husband in the city the size of an illuminated text which she had promised for the Sunday-school room. When the order reached him it read, "Unto us a child is born, nine feet long by two feet wide."

An Englishman arriving in New York last week remarked to a friend that he was never so sick as on the passage over. His friend replied: "What, never!" And he answered: "Ah, now I begin to feel at home you know; we've 'ad that bad for some time."

"Dot 'Pinafore' expression vor a nonsense," remarked a Teutonic gentleman yesterday to a genial coadjutor. "And you tote a veller somethings, he speake noding von blaine English aber he says:—'Vot, hardly, sometimes nefer! Vot kind of language is dose!'"

"Well, how is the spring trade?" said a gentleman to a friend the other day. "Dry goods never brisker," was the reply. "My wife shops all day, every chair in the house is covered with bundles, and I think of sending my pocketbook out of town for a change of air—it's so thin."

Appaling Prospect.—First Subaltern (reads):—"Lord Fortescue recommends athletics to increase the physical strength and activity of the officers." Second Subaltern:—"What! Athletics in addition to all our brain work. Good heavens! What is the service coming to?"
