TWO WIVES TOO MANY.

Miss Sarah Baer, a Jewess, on the 5th inst. married a young man of her own race, known to her as Caesar Bloch, a native of Alsace. She had known him but a few weeks, and had entrusted him with her earnings, amounting to $186, with which he was to go into business. He had previously to the marriage been employed as a waiter at Gilmore's Garden and at the Tivoli Theatre. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rabbi Kaiser. A day or two after the wedding a male relative of the bride's received a hint that all was not right, and in the course of a few hours found that on the 26th of January, 1876, Bloch, then known by the name of Lehman Groy, was married to Miss Ernestina Braun by Rabbi Krauskopf, and that they had but recently separated, Ernestina going to the Charity Hospital, where she now is. Further inquiry revealed the fact that Groy has a wife in Alsace. His last dupe was informed of his previous matrimonial ventures, and she caused his arrest. To Justice Flammer, at the Fifty-seventh Street Police Court, Groy yesterday exhibited a "general release," signed by Ernestina Braun, and for which Groy said he had paid $5 to a lawyer named S. Levy, of Second street, who had, he said, assured him that it was a legal divorce. He was committed for examination in default of $2,000 bail.—New York World.

A BASHI-BAZOUK COWED.

(Varna Correspondent London Daily News.)
An amusing incident occurred the other day between Rustchuk and Tchernavoda. An Englishman was proceeding to the town when he was arrested by a Bashi-Bazouk, beautifully mounted. The ruffian drew his horse across the road, unsheathing his yataghan, and menaced instant death if the traveller advanced. The latter coolly drew his revolver and pointed it at the head of the Bashi-Bazouk, much to his astonishment. He had got hold of the wrong man, and it did not take him long to convince himself on that point, for he sheathed his yataghan, smiled endless apologies, to the Englishman, and would have sneaked off had he been allowed to do so. He was conducted—the revolver remaining all the time in close proximity to his brain—to the guard, and there in the crowd he managed to effect his escape. These fellows commit no end of depredations. The same Englishman on the same day heard a shot near him, walking up in the direction of the sound, he found a shepherd who had been shot by a Bashi-Bazouk for no offence whatever. He was quietly drinking at a fountain. It appears that the ruffian had only wanted to try a new rifle that had been given him.

ENGLAND'S QUEEN.

At the Centennial banquet, held at Bennington, Vermont, after a toast to President Hayes had been responded to, President Phelps, of Centennial Commission, said, "We are celebrating the anniversary of a great victory over the troops of Great Britain, but we can rejoice in the fact that it is more than sixty-five years that peace has reigned between us and the mother country. Long may it continue. I am happy to state that courteous and gratifying correspondence has taken place in reference to this celebration between Gov. Fairbanks, and that excellent nobleman Lord Dufferin, Governor-General of Canada, who was invited to be present on this occasion. He writes to say that if it were not that his duties called him out West, he would have been happy to have responded appropriately in his official capacity." Mr. Phelps then read a letter from his Excellency Lord Dufferin, excusing himself from attendance. Mr. Phelps continued, "We should not be doing our full duty if we forgot that illustrious lady who, through so many years of blameless life, has been more than Queen of Great Britain. She has been Queen in the virtues and Queen in the hearts of all her people. I therefore propose the health of Her Most Gracious Majesty Victoria, Queen of Great Britain. God bless her." The band then played the English national anthem. Mr. Phelps then called upon Hon. Wm. M. Everts to speak. Mr. Everts, in response, said: "Touching the might of that nation of that gracious lady the Queen, is it not the best token of the great and Christian character of the nation and of herself, that on the celebration of a battle so fatal to the power of her ancestry, and so glorious for the prosperity of this country, that we should receive such a letter from the Governor-General of Canada, the representative of the British Crown? It is fitting that we should respond to our festival with royal homage with the martial and loyal airs of England. Let us, in looking back upon the mother country, yield to Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen our homage to her as a woman which we deny to a Queen. I believe, Mr. President, that had Queen Victoria been on the throne instead of George III., or if we had postponed our rebellion until Queen Victoria reigned, it would not have been necessary, and if there had been any rebellion at all it would have been on the part of England."

No less than seven expeditions are now being organized in England, under the auspices of the Royal Geographical Society, for the scientific examination of Africa, its physical features and resources, and the best routes to its interior.

News of the World.

UNITED STATES.

Since the arrival of the volunteers to attend General Lee's monument benefit ball last night, the negro servants and waiters have been insubordinate. Last night they became so demonstrative that the soldiers charged bayonets upon them. They retreated and resolved to wait on no soldier's to-day.

On a California ranche recently wheat which was standing in the ear at a quarter before five in the morning was eaten as biscuit at a quarter before seven, having been cut, threshed, ground and baked in two hours.

The strike cost New Jersey $180,000.

The Mexican forces opposite Ringgold Barracks is being augmented. This looks as if the Mexicans either intended or expected invasion.

The annual report of the National Association of the Mexican war survivors shows 8,780 living. The Congress will be again petitioned for a pension.

Official reports shows only nine killed during the riots, but it is rumored a number of rioters were buried at Jefferson, were forty-five new graves have been noticed. It is also rumored a number of dead rioters were cremated at the lime kilns, and others thrown into a slough near the kilns.

Thomas G. and Frank Levalley, aged ten and seven years, have been burned to death near River Head House. Their father was lighting a fire with kerosene when the can exploded.

The auditor of Vanderbilt's road says he is busy dividing Vanderbilt's $100,000 gift. It will be distributed early in September, to men connected with the running of the trains on all branches of the New York Central road, except the Harlem division, and not including the station masters and freight house workmen. About 8,000 will share in the money, which is Wm. H.'s personal gift. It will about make up the last reduction for three months to each man.

It is asserted that the Portuguese African exploration expedition, under the direction of Major Pinto and captain Capello, which has left for Loando, is the best that has ever been organized, from a scientific point of view, and most valuable results are expected from it.

CANADIAN.

In Montreal a married woman, Mrs. Began, was almost frightened to death by a boy about seventeen years of age, who put a buffalo robe around him, and then went about hopping about on all fours in Ottawa street. She was passing at the time, and was so terribly alarmed as to faint away. When she returned to consciousness about 200 people had gathered, and a number of them lost their presence of mind, which rendered the affair even worse.

A Winnipeg correspondent of the Ottawa Citizen says: The Premier of the Province of Manitoba, Mr. Davis, is a hotel keeper, and it is not an uncommon sight to see the honorable members of the Assembly adjourning to the First Minister's hostelry, and the first Minister himself going into Committee of Supply behind the bar.

Quebec shipbuilders complain that they can only obtain £7 per ton for their new vessels in the English market, and they prefer to run the vessels themselves than to sell at such a price. It is feared that the shipbuilding interest here will be injured by the fire, as our people will not have the money to put into vessels just now. Shipping has not been very good paying property for sometime past.—St. John paper.

GREAT BRITAIN.

THE LIFE COST OF WAR.—The London Medical Examiner says:—"A statistical account of the Prussians killed and wounded during the Franco-German war has been published at Berlin by Fischer & Co. The total number of combatants either killed or wounded amounted to 88,867, comprising 3,658 officers and 84,209 men. Of the officers, 879, or 18.8 per cent., were killed on the spot; 1,447, or 31 per cent., were slightly wounded, and 353 or 7.8 per cent. were returned simply as wounded. Of the 3,979 wounded officers, 485 died subsequently from the effects of their wounds. The wounds, taken in connection with the instrument producing them, were—56,062 from gun-shots, 5,084 from shells, 218 from sabres, 595 from bayonets, 236 from fragments of stone, earth, &c (thrown up by shells); in 2,598 the nature of the cause was not returned. The following numbers give a good idea of the parts most exposed to injury from gun-shots. It seems strange that the head should have been struck more frequently than the chest.—Head, 17.3 per cent.; arm, 13.7; thigh, 10.6; chest, 8.8; hand, 8.1; knee, 2.7; back, 2.3. The fact that the cases of sabre-wound did not exceed 218 would seem to indicate a sparing use of cavalry during the war.

The Times of August 7th, in a review of the Eastern Campaign, admits that the events of the campaign have been unfavorable to the Russians, and that the Turks have been favored with a decided tide of success. This renders the neutral position of Her Majesty's Government more easy to maintain.
