Domestic Issues Dominate In Australian Vote Drive

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Millions of Australians will go to the polls Saturday to elect a new federal House of Representatives now dominated by a precarious one-man majority of the ruling Liberal - Country Party coalition.

The coalition leader, Prime Minister Sir Robert Menzies, called the election a year ahead of schedule to enable Australia to adopt foreign and defence policies "managed by a government which has a clear mandate from the Australian people."

House elections are held every three years and voting is compulsory.

The three main issues Menzies was reported to have in mind were the newly-formed Federation of Malaysia, a United States navy signals base to be set up in Western Australia and a proposed nuclear-free zone in the Southern Hemisphere.

VOTE-CATCHING BARRAGE

However, the final stages of the election campaign have been dominated by a vote-catching barrage of promises on the domestic front, which has cast a virtual smokescreen over foreign policy issues.

On only one of the issues of foreign policy — Malaysia—do Menzies and Labor Opposition Leader Arthur Calwell see more or less eye to eye.

The Australian government has pledged to fight beside Britain should Malaysia be attacked. Malaysia—made up of Singapore, Malaya, Sarawak and Sabah (formerly North Borneo)—is strongly opposed to Indonesia.

On the subject of the planned U.S. naval base, Calwell hopes to substitute joint Australian-American control in place of the sole U.S. control of the base provided under the existing agreement.

The Labor leader also plans to seek a nuclear-free zone for the Southern Hemisphere, despite statements by Menzies that this would disastrously handicap the U.S. and Australia's other allies in over - all global defence.

On domestic matters rival party policies include different proposals for government aid to home builders and for increasing social welfare benefits.

The Labor party also favors the creation of a federal ministry of education and an emergency grant of federal aid to state schools. The government proposes a similar grant, but one which would at the same time limit the number of secondary school scholarships.

The latest poll of voters showing that 49 per cent favored the Liberal - Country coalition, 43 per cent the Australian Labor party, seven per cent the Democratic Labor party and one per cent the Independents.

Of the 122 House seats at stake Saturday, the Liberal-Country party holds 62 as against 60 for the Labor party. The fact that the Speaker, a member of the coalition, has no vote, leaves the government with a majority of only one.

FORMER CAMEL DRIVER IS JOHNSON'S FRIEND

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—Bashir Ahmad, former camel cart driver, raised his hands in a Moslem gesture of reverence and prayed that President Lyndon B. Johnson will live long and happily.

"May Allah give my friend Johnson Saheb (master) the courage and will to lead not only Americans, but others," he said.

Ahmad, who now owns an American pickup truck and deals in camel fodder, said Johnson is his closest friend.

"I can claim today to be a better personal friend of President Johnson than my own president, (Field Marshal Mohammed Ayub Khan)," he said Tuesday.

Johnson and Ahmad first met when Johnson visited Pakistan in 1961 as vice-president.

The Texan ordered his car stopped and greeted the camel driver.

"How do you do?" he said.

Ahmad was taken aback.

They talked for a bit and Johnson invited him to the United States. Bashir accepted the invitation without understanding its importance.

He toured the United States for two weeks as the guest of Johnson. He also met former president Truman and President Kennedy.

Although now comparatively well off, Ahmad still lives in his clay hut.

"I belong to my clan," he explained. "And how could I leave my people?"

He has been leader of the clan since his return from the United States.

Vandalism Seen Involved In Raid On CIL Magazine

MONTREAL (CP)—Ammunition magazines at nearby McMasterville were broken into during the weekend and FLQ terrorists slogans liberally splashed over buildings and trucks.

A spokesman for Canadian Industries Limited, owner of the plant where the magazines are located, said an inventory has shown there was nothing stolen.

"Whoever did this just created a general mess," he said. "It appears to be only vandalism."

Quebec Provincial Police had reported, prior to the inventory, that 800 sticks of dynamite were stolen from the magazines, 15 miles east of Montreal.

Doors to two dynamite magazines were broken open and a box containing 100 sticks of dynamite removed. The box, with the dynamite untouched, was found in a dieth 200 yards away.

Buildings and trucks in the area were smeared with the letters of le Front de Liberation Quebecois, a terrorist group dedicated to Quebec independence through violence. In addition, the letters FQ and XQ —both unexplained—were used.

Police had feared earlier that the incident indicated a new wave of violence by the FLQ. The theft of 600 sticks of dynamite from a construction camp on the Laurentian highway north of St. Jerome last August has been attributed to the terrorist group.

Provincial police said it appears certain that if the FLQ had been involved at McMasterville "they would have taken the dynamite."

The last incident attributed to the FLQ took place May 30 when dynamite was exploded outside a Montreal armory. This ended three months of terrorist explosions during which one man was killed and another maimed by bomb explosions.

Salvation Army Exchanging Tambourines For Guitars

LONDON (AP) — The Salvation Army is exchanging its traditional tambourines for electric guitars and, in the words of its new leader, is going to "get with it."

Gen. Frederick Coutts, 64, who took over the international evangelical movement Monday, met the press and sketched out a picture that is not too far from the picture in Damon Runyon's Guys and Dolls. He said:

"The whole church of Christ must speak to our own day and our own time.

"If I am to replace the 'firstly, secondly and thirdly' of Victorian speech and speak to the beardies and weirdies, then I will do so. You can certainly say that I am going to get with it.

"We have to go where the young folk are. If they won't go to church and Salvation Army places of worship, we have to go to them. The coffee bar or their other haunts are the places where in an informal way the gospel will be taken. The War Cry (the army's publication) will be sold in the coffee bars as well as in pubs."

Coutts, who has spent the past six years in gaustralia, said the army's street-corner trumpets and drums were not altogether on the way out, but jazz also could attract the faithful. Small groups now are experimenting with electric guitars, he noted, and he saw no reason why their use could not be broadened.

The bidding:

Opening lead — nine of hearts.

It is easy enough to defeat four spades if you look at all 52 cards. West leads his singleton heart and East take the ace and returns a heart which he and puts East in the lead with a diamond, and East then gives West another heart ruff to defeat the contract one trick.

As a matter of fact, this is the proper line of defense even if East - West do not see each other's cards. It is true that there are several stumbling blocks along the way, but they are not really difficult to negotiate.

First comes West's choice of an opening lead. Having such a poor hand, West should reason that there is little chance of defeating the contract with four high - card tricks, and he should therefore base his defensive hopes on obtaining one, or possibly two, heart ruffs. He should therefore lead the nine of hearts.

Second, when East takes the ace of hearts, he should resist the temptation to cash the kin, of diamonds before returning a heart for West to ruff. If he fails into this error, South makes the contract.

Furthermore, in returning a heart at trick two, East should be careful not to lead any old heart — he should specifically return the ten. In selecting the ten, his highest heart, he makes use of the suit direction convention in order to guide West to a diamond rather than a club return.

The high card, the ten, requests West to return the high suit, as between diamonds and clubs. If East had the ace of clubs instead of the ace of diamonds, he would return the two of hearts to ask for the low suit, clubs.

Third, when West ruffs the heart at trick two, he must read the ten of hearts as a signal to lead a diamond so that he can obtain another heart ruff and thus defeat the contract.

If East-West work in unison, there is no need for them to see all 52 cards.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
