SHOOTING ALLIGATORS

It Is Fine Sport but Familiarity with the Reptiles Is Dangerous.

Col. Streeter, a Floridian, told the zoological reporter of the Washington Star a good alligator story. One of the Colonel's hands was missing, and knowing the section from which he hailed, the reporter naturally expected to get a first-class war story. But he didn't. The hand was not lost in the fratricidal struggle. It was the work of an alligator, or, as they call them in the land where the reptile builds its nest and rears its young, a 'gaitor. "Well, it happened a long time ago," said Col. Streeter, "and if I had not told the story so often I think I should have forgotten it. When I was a young fellow, chuckful of dazzling dreams and ambitious schemes, I used to hunt 'gators for a living. The hide of one of these brutes is worth all the way from one to four dollars, according to size, condition and age. I had a big, flat-bottomed boat, sort of a compromise between a batteau and a sand-scow, and I used to cruise at night on a lake not far out of Tampa. One dark night I shoved off. After I had reached the most alligatorial part of the lake I lit a fire on one end of the boat. These crafts are arranged especially for this, so there isn't much danger of the whole thing going up in smoke. Well, when my rosin knots began to blaze and sputter and sizzle as rosin knots will, it wasn't long before a big 'gator raised his head out of the lake to see what the illumination meant. To a newcomer there isn't any more horrible sight this side of the other world than a great, long 'gator lying close to you and grinning at you with his rip-saw ivories under the weird glare of pine knots. But I didn't think of this, for I was an old hand at the business. Bang! and a Sharpe gun relieved that 'gator of all earthly care and trouble. I hauled him in and stretched him out in the bottom of my boat. It was a good night for the sport, and the 'gators seemed to be especially inquisitive as to the meaning of that fitful light. That trusty rifle spoke again and again, and one by one I landed the victims in the old boat. The last one came to the top pretty close to daybreak. He was a savage-looking old timer. He was what with propriety we might call a hard shell 'gator. He looked at me in an insulting sort of way, and I resented his impertinence. I brought him into the boat. There is just where I made my mistake. That alligator wasn't all the way dead. He seemed to have lots of energy stored up somewhere, and he turned on me. We had a fight right there in the boat. Before I could pump some pills into him he had me. What a wrestling match it was! Young man, that's what's the matter with the end of that arm."

Origin of the Story of Creation.

In a summary which in its profound thought and fearless integrity does honor not only to himself but to the great position which he holds, the Rev. Dr. Driver, royal professor of Hebrew and Canon of Christ Church at Oxford, has recently stated the case fully and fairly. Having pointed out the fact that the Hebrews were one people out of many who thought upon the origin of the universe, he says that they "framed theories to account for the beginning of the earth and man;" that "of the theories current in Assyria and Phœnicia fragments have been preserved, and these exhibit points of resemblance with the biblical narrative sufficient to warrant the inference that both are derived from the same cycle of tradition.

After giving some extracts from the Chaldean creation tablets, he says "In the light of these facts it is difficult to resist the conclusion that the biblical narrative is drawn from the same source as these other records. The biblical historians, it is plain, derived their material from the best human sources available. * * * The materials, which with other nations were combined into the crudest physical theories or associated with a grotesque polytheism, were vivified and transformed by the inspired genius of the Hebrew historians, and adapted to become the vehicle of profound religious truth."

Not less honorable to the sister university and to himself is the statement recently made by the Rev. Prof. Ryle, Hulsean professor of divinity at Cambridge. He says that to suppose that a Christian "must either renounce his confidence in the achievements of scientific research or abandon his faith in scripture is a monstrous perversion of Christian freedom." He declares: "The old position is no longer tenable; a new position has to be taken up at once, prayerfully chosen, and hopefully held." He then goes on to prepare the Hebrew story of creation with the earlier stories developed among kindred peoples, and especially with the Assyro-Babylonian cosmogony, and shows that they are from the same source.—Andrew D White, in the Popular Science Monthly.

Witch-Craft.

Strange as it may seem to some, the ingredients of the witches' cauldron in "Macbeth," at least a part of them, were once standard remedies among Europeans. In the tenth and eleventh centuries a sovereign cure for ague was the swallowing of a small toad that had been choked to death on St. John's eve, and a splendid remedy for rheumatism was to fasten the bands of clothing with pins that had been stuck into the flesh of either a toad or a frog. Physicians frequently recommended the water from a toad's brain for mental affections, and that a live toad be rubbed over the diseased parts as a cure for the quinsy.

A Sublime Road Truth.

The inhabitants of sparsely populated regions must, of necessity, submit to the inconvenience of poor roads; but as the country becomes more populous, and the area of cultivated land is increased, and the product of human industry multiplied, with the augmented wealth that these conditions induce, the roads can and should be improved and perfected. There is no reason why every thickly settled and productive region in this country should not be supplied with good roads.

About National Airs.

The national airs of great countries are short, while those of little countries are long. "God Save the Queen" is fourteen bars, the Russian hymn is sixteen bars, and "Hail Columbia" has twenty-eight bars. Siam's national hymn has seventy-six bars and that of Uruguay seventy. Chili's forty six and so on. San Marino has the longest national hymn, except China's, which is so long that people take half a day off to listen to it.

ALL THREE CURED.

Neil McKechnie, with his wife and mother-in-law cured of Constipation by Dodd's Kidney Pills—These Pills better Than Ordinary Cathartics.

TORONTO, Feb. 19.—Neil McKechnie, a popular barber of this city, has been a sufferer from chronic constipation for years. He used Dodd's Kidney Pills and not only obtained immediate relief, but a permanent cure. His wife and mother-in-law were similarly afflicted, and used these pills with the same good result. Ordinary cathartics give only temporary relief and leave the patient worse than before using them. While Dodd's Kidney Pills are not cathartics, their peculiar action on the liver and kidneys is such that the causes of constipation are permanently removed. These pills are manufactured by Dr. L. A. Smith & Co., Toronto, and are sold by all dealers, or will be mailed on receipt of price; fifty cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

RAVAGES OF LA GRIPPE.

It is extremely prevalent in the Province. Many fatal cases.

La grippe is very prevalent and in many cases very serious. It is particularly trying upon elderly persons, and the number of fatal cases among old people of late is simply appaling. The sad story that comes from Nova Scotia, of a father and two daughters lying dead of la gripde, all at the same time, is but one of many of the pitiful records of bereavement and sorrow caused by this disease. It is of an epidemic nature and is redily contracted by those in a weak or debilitated condition. One of its worst features is that it leaves its victims, those who survive, in very many cases so prostrated that they easily fall a prey to other forms of diesease. This is true even where a person has had only a slight attack of grippe. Of course much depends upon the care that is taken. Unnecessary exposure and the failure to take proper steps to restore the system to health are chiefly responsible for the ills that follow. There are remedies and remedies, but the experience of hosts of people proves that nothing can surpass a course of Hawker's Nerve and stomach Tonic and Hawker's Liver Pills, either to fortify the system against la grippe, or, if that is neglected, to restore the system to its former vigor after an attack of this dreaed disease. Sufferers from la grippe will notice that the tongue is furred and coated, indicating debility and a disturbed state of the stomach and liver. It is essentially necessary therefore before commencing tonic treatment, in order to obtain its full beneficial results, to regulate the stomach and liver by the use of Hawker's Liver Pills, which are unequalled as a liver or stomach regulator. Hawker's Nerve and Stomach Tonic is a certain cure, when faithfully used, for all diseases arising from nerve exhaustion, weakness or impaired digestion, or an impoverished or impure condition of the blood, such as Nervousness, Weakness, Nervous Headache, Sleeplessness, Neuralgia. Loss of Appetite, Dyspepsia, Hysteria, and the prostrating effects of la grippe or any nerve weakness of heart or brain arising from worry, overstrain of mind or body or excesses of any nature. Hawker's Nerve and Stomach Tonic and Hawker's Liver Pills can be obtained from all druggists and dealers. Tonic 50 cents a bottle or six bottles for $2.50. Pills 25 cents a box.

Too Late for the Train.

It is impossible to "catch a train" when you are a minute too late, while on the other hand "catching a cold" is almost impossible to avoid. If you have "caught a cold" obtain at once a bottle of Hawker's Tolu and Wild Cherry Balsam; it will quickly put it to flight. It is a certain cure for Coughs Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Hoarseness and all throat and lung troubles. Safe and pleasant to take, sure to cure. Sold everywhere, 25 and 50 cents a bottle.
