Literature And Life

When we use the word "attitude" as applied to a man's life we mean the way he looked at it, and how he regarded it.

If I have faltered more or less in my great task of happiness; if I have moved among my race and shown no glorious morning face;

His message was very opportune at a time described by R.H. Hutton as "the spiritual fatigue of the world."

That is just what Stevenson did. In his essay on "Walking Tours" he puts in a plea for a simpler life.

He jocularly says a man may love beef, a woman, or hunting but not a permanent possibility of sensation!

W.C.T.U. NOTES

YOUTH AND ALCOHOL

I found in the Toronto Daily Star of February 12, a clipping that just shows what alcohol is doing.

For the third successive Friday, holdups, fights, brawls and attacks on police and private citizens kept Toronto squad car crews busy last night until the early hours of the morning.

Police blamed drink for many of the incidents. In Dundas St. E. station where 14 prisoners were locked up during the night, Insp. Sam Johnston said his officers could find no reasonable excuse for the arguments that precipitated fights and attacks.

That's a pretty terrible story, but on the other hand let's not feel too cast down. I wonder how many thousands of young folk in Toronto went happily and sober home from Friday night choir practice and from innocent sports and entertainments.

British Scientist Blasts Potato As Blight On Progress

BIRMINGHAM, England, Sept. 5—(AP)—A British scientist today condemned the potato as a blight on human progress.

Dr. Redcliffe Salaman told the British Association for the Advancement of Science that the lowly tuber has even outblighted the relations between Britain and the United States.

Dr. Salaman, now 75, is the retired director of the Potato Virus Station at Cambridge University.

"It needs only the additional ingestion of a daily pint of milk to make the potato a complete food," he said.

"That influence delayed social progress in Britain generally and in Ireland particularly. The potato fitted well into the 'lazy-bed' system of crop growing which Irishmen developed to avoid the draining of wet land.

"To the peasant who could feed his family and his stock on the proceeds of a few months work each year in the potato field, laziness became an inevitable characteristic."

Dr. Salaman said the plant also encouraged drunkenness, because it was easy to make from potatoes the high-voltage Irish whisky known as "poten." He added:

"The evil influence of the potato's food monopoly in Ireland reached a tragic climax in the failure and famine of 1845-46. Two million people either died or left the country in the next four years."

"Those who emigrated to the U. S. A. sowed the seed of Anglophobia which after 100 years is still alive and often active."

"Free Drugs" Fails To Bring Rush — CANBERRA, Sept. 4 — (Reuters) — A "free drugs" scheme came into operation throughout Australia today.

Medical drugs now are available to all on prescription. Sir Earl Page, Minister of Health, said 6,000 doctors could prescribe the drugs. There were no forms to fill out, no questions to be asked, and no means test.

Reports from doctors today indicated no rush on the new service.
