

THE FAIR GOD.

BOOK TWO.

Xoli rested his elbow on the counter, and listened eagerly.

"It has been agreed on all sides for years," continued Maxtia, in his modulated voice, "that the 'tzin an' Talu were to be married upon her coming of age. No one else has presumed to pay her court, but it might be an interference. Now, the whole thing is at an end. 'Lattil', and not the 'tzin, is the fortunate man."

"Lattil! And to-morrow night?" "The palace was alive last evening as with a swarming of bees. Some were indignant—all astonished. In fact, Xoli, I believe the 'tzin had as many friends as the king. Several courtiers openly defended him, notwithstanding his fall—something that, to my knowledge, never happened before. The upshot was that a herald went in state to Itzapalapan with a decree prohibiting the 'tzin from visiting a decree prohibiting the 'tzin from teaching beginners as well as advanced players."

envy, I also intended should make you superior to misfortunes and kings. Understand you now? What matters that you are married? What is banishment? They only liken you the more to Quetzal, whose coming triumph—heed me well, O 'tzin—whose coming triumph shall be your triumph."

Your wasted cheeks may have all the plumpness and bloom of health through your use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This time honored remedy still leads the van. It improves disordered digestion, purifies the blood, and invigorates the system. Give it a trial.

PIANO, ORGAN, SINGING Choir Training, Taxidermy.

M. R. EARLE desires to inform the Musical Public that he has opened up a correspondence with some of the leading Musicians in England, United States and Canada, for the purpose of ascertaining for himself if there is anything "new" in Piano and Organ Playing, Teaching and Singing. Should there be, his pupils will receive the benefit.

He gives lessons at his own house as well as at the residence of the pupil, and makes a specialty of teaching beginners as well as advanced players.

He is Agent for the celebrated NEWCOMBE PIANOS. The following testimonial speaks for itself:—

"I, the undersigned, preferring the Newcombe Pianos, have much pleasure in testifying that those we have bought from Mr. Earle have given complete satisfaction.

There was a pause, during which the Chalcans hung his head.

"Ah, Xoli! The king has changed; he used to be a warrior loving warriors as the eagle loves its young. Now—alas! I dare not speak. Time was when no envious-hearted knave could have made him believe that Guatamozin was hatching treason in his garden at Itzapalapan. Now, surrounded by jeweling priests, he sits in the depths of his palace and trembles, and, like a credulous child, believes everything. 'Woe is Tenochtitlan!' said Maxlox; and the days strengthen the prophecy. But enough—more than enough! Hist, Chalcans! What I have said and you listened to—yes, the mere listening—would suffice, if told in the right ears, to send us both straightway to the tigers. I have paid you for your snuff and the divine sneeze. In retailing, recollect, I am not the manufacturer. Farewell."

"Stay a moment, most noble chief—but a moment," said the Chalcans. "I have invented a drink which I desire you to inaugurate. If I may be counted a judge, it is fit for a god."

"A judge? You? Where is the man who would deny you that excellence? Your days have been spent in the practice; nay, your whole life has been one long, long drink. Make haste. I will wager pulque is chief in the compound."

The broker went out, and directly returned, bearing on a waiter a Chalcans goblet full of cool liquor, exquisitely colored with the rich blood of the cactus apple. Maxtia sipped, drank, then swore the drink was without a rival.

"Look you, Chalcans. They say we are indebted to our heroes, our minstrels and our priests, and I believe so; but hereafter I shall go farther in the faith. This drink is worth a victory, is pleasant as a song, and has all the virtues of a prayer. Do not laugh. I am in earnest. You shall be canonized with the best of them. To show that I am no vain boaster, you shall come to the banquet to-morrow, and the king shall thank you. Put on your best tilmatli, and above all else, beware that the vase holding this liquor is not empty when I call for it. Farewell."
