QUEBEC (CP)—A dozen Social Credit members of Parliament from a Quebec province trotted into a hotel-province caucus here Wednesday night for what apparently was another round in the power struggle between Robert Thompson, national party leader, and his deputy, Paul Casquette.

Hon. Andrew MacIvor, provincial minister of agriculture, commented on the quality of the exhibits and especially potatoes. Other speakers at the opening were John Mulhally, M.P. for the province; James MacDonnell, M.L.A., First Kings; Dr. A.A. MacDonnell, Souris; and Rev. Elton Adams, Souris.

Lesage Feels Atmosphere Grows Better For Provinces

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Lesage said Wednesday night he is confident a more favorable atmosphere towards the autonomous development of the provinces is developing within the Canadian federal system.

Mr. Lesage said the government wants to help the family farm adapt itself to the evolution in progress. To accomplish this, we must plan our agriculture in three areas: the family farm, the farm and the farm. The provincial government must carry out the role of the provincial government in these circumstances.

No Decision Reached On Use Breton Plant

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister MacEachen said Wednesday night the federal government and Nova Scotia have not reached a decision on the construction of a heavy water plant in the Breton area, but no decision has been reached.

The federal government will certainly not help in reaching the decision, MacEachen said in a prepared statement. He said consideration is still being given to the complex matter involved in the construction of a heavy water plant but that every possible factor will be carefully examined before a decision is made.

Cabinet Struggles With Fair Problems

By JAMES NELSON
OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet struggled with 1967 world's fair problems Wednesday. Prime Minister Pearson tentatively scheduled a press conference for today to announce the results of the cabinet's decision on the question of appointing a new commissioner-general and deputy commissioner-general for the fair administration.

Complicating the question was a Montreal report that a group of experts are advising the government that the site on St. Helen's Island may be impossible to complete in time for the fair in 1967, centenary of confederation, and suggesting it might have to be postponed two years.

Federal Minister Visits Province

FEDERAL MINISTER
The Federal Minister of Public Works, Hon. Jean Paul Deschamps, arrived in Charlottetown by Department of Transport plane last night. He will pay a routine visit to the local office this morning and call on several officials of the provincial government.

Mr. Pearson and Justice Minister Chevrier, senior Quebec cabinet member said they had no knowledge of such a report. Asked whether there is a possibility the fair might have to be postponed, Mr. Chevrier said, "Well, I couldn't say. That is a matter, I think, for the expert to determine whether or not work of this character and this importance can be done before 1967."
