

Jail Sentences Imposed On Charges Of Assault

Jail sentences were given to all three young men on assault charges and to one of them and another man who were convicted of causing a disturbance. The sentences were handed out by Stipendiary Magistrate Gilbert Gaudet who flatly refused to entertain a plea for clemency.

The magistrate stated "This has got to be stopped for the sake of law and order and a taste of jail seems to be the only answer. If any of them ever come before me again and are convicted I will give them the limit."

The group, all from the Albany area, were charged yesterday on five counts, one disturbance, one mischief and three assault. They were convicted or pleaded guilty on each. One member of the group James Dawson, charged with disturbance at Crapaud again had his case adjourned till Wednesday, September 30, at 9:30 in the morning.

All the cases were investigated by the R.C.M.P. with Cpl. W. M. Beatty, Borden Detachment, and Const. Brian Gallagher, Charlottetown Detachment, placed on the job.

David MacLeod, who was charged with assault on James Hector Kinch, Alberton taxi driver, pleaded not guilty. The charge arose when young men from Albany allegedly beat and kicked Kinch and his brother last Monday night near New Haven.

When he was talking to them, he said, they told nothing of having been kicked. They did remark to him "the boys are rough customers."

After a brief summation by Mr. Gillis during which his principal argument was based on the time element, he closed his address.

The verdict of the magistrate was convicted as charged.

Other Charges

Earl MacKay charged with assault on Phillip John Kinch pleaded guilty, as did Douglas MacLeod. David MacLeod, on the same charge, again pleaded not guilty. Once more evidence previously given was accepted by the defence and after Magistrate Gaudet read the testimony involved he convicted MacLeod as charged.

Douglas MacLeod and Earl MacKay, charged with assault on Kenneth MacDougall, Argyle Shore, near Bonshaw last Monday night, again pleaded guilty.

Crown counsel asked Mr. MacDougall, not as a witness, to simply give the circumstances of the attack so the Court would know the background. Mr. MacDougall said he was driving a half-ton truck near Bonshaw about 9 o'clock that night. It was foggy and he was driving with dimmers only as he could not see in the fog with high lights.

He stated a car hit the truck head on and he was afraid he was going over a high bank. MacLeod and MacKay got out of their car and said he was driving with high lights on. Mr. MacDougall said MacKay grabbed him by the shirt and hit him twice over the head. They tussled a bit and MacKay got out of the truck.

Mr. J. O. C. Campbell then moved for sentencing and Magistrate Gaudet pronounced them as follows:

Testimony Given

The first witness called yesterday by Mr. J. O. C. Campbell, Q.C., Deputy Attorney General, was Phillip John Kinch, the brother of James. He stated he had been in the car with his brother on the night in question on the way from Charlottetown to Borden. He said he saw another car parked with its parking lights on; it was not moving.

The witness testified he saw a hand waving them down and his brother stopped the car, opened the door and said "What's the trouble boys?" Mr. Kinch said he did not see people get out of the car but he knew they were not on the road when they stopped.

He told the Court that a couple of fellows caught his brother by the shoulder but James put the car in gear and "took off". Witness stated his brother turned the car around and passed the other car with the intention of calling the Mounties. He saw the other car start coming behind them. Mr. Kinch said "they passed us down the road and we passed them again and got to Newman's Garage. My brother got out and ran into the garage; I stayed in the car."

Kicked In Struggle

Continuing his testimony he stated "a big fellow opened the door and hit me over the head. He did not know the name of the person who hit him but identified Earl MacKay sitting in Court. I got out the door on my side and met MacLeod coming around the back of the car. He cracked at me but missed and I hit him. His brother came over and clinched with me and we went down. MacKay and Douglas MacLeod pulled me off the other and put the boots to me. The accused kicked me on the head."

He said he then yelled for his brother who came out and in the mixup witness got away and ran for a telephone accompanied by Mr. Newman. When they reached the telephone the call was put through by Newman with the witness stating he ran back to the garage to see MacKay and accused coming out of garage. Douglas MacLeod was at the door of the garage and when he saw witness started for him. "But my brother hit him. He then added that the other crowd got into their car and drove off while he and his brother waited for the police to come."

Cross-Examined

In his cross examination of the witness Mr. Allison Gillis appearing for the defence, made much of the time element as he questioned the witness as to the probability of the boys in the car getting out, going into the garage and fighting with James all in the space of a minute and a half. He argued that if the witness were on the ground with one of the men holding him in a headlock he would not be able to see who kicked. However, the witness could not be shaken in his statement "I saw him do it".

Previous testimony of the accused given in another case the day previously was accepted by Mr. Gillis even though the Magistrate pointed out that it had been given in cross examination.

The next witness called by the defence was Mr. E. Vernon MacLeod, merchant of Albany and father of the two MacLeods who were convicted. He said the night the Police came for the boys they left the impression that they had beaten someone badly. About two o'clock Tuesday morning he saw lights down at the corner and said he went to investigate. The witness stated the Police were there with the Kinch brothers.

Mr. MacLeod testified he talked to the victims and the only mark he saw was on the nose of one of

"Scare Methods" Are Being Used to Sell Cooking Ware

SOME people scare easily and regrettably, some salesmen have no scruples about employing "scare methods" to further their own ends in the sale of cooking ware products.

Every now and then, a disturbed housewife will report to the Bureau representations made by this un-informed or unscrupulous salesman, against the use of aluminum utensils for the preparation of food. Some are so shaken by these bogus revelations that they often fear to use any metal utensil in their cooking, which poses quite a problem.

After years of acceptance of aluminum in millions of Canadian homes, it seems rather odd that old myths concerning its use are still aired by some salesmen of competitive products. In the U.S., the Federal Trade Commission has issued complaints and cease and desist orders against some manufacturers whose sales force persisted in such unfair competitive tactics and deception of the public.

The American Medical Association advises, "We know of no danger to foods that are cooked in aluminum cooking utensils, and we believe that the propaganda against aluminum comes from quacks, cranks and faddists, or from those who put out cooking utensils made of wares other than aluminum."

Housewives or others who meet with this type of sales misrepresentation are urged to report the facts in writing to:—
