Torn Between Ike The Man, Ike The Politician

By R. J. ANDERSON
 Canadian Press Staff Writer
 NEW YORK, Oct. 27—(CP)—It's hard to be against the General. He seems like such a nice man. Many an American, with polling data only 10 days away, appeared Friday to be torn between a personal liking for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and the hard facts of the United States presidential election: whether to vote Democrat or Republican Nov. 4.

The voter's choice is difficult. Undoubtedly the personal preference of many of the 50,000,000-odd Americans registered to vote would be the personable administrator who led the Allied armies to victory in Europe in the Second World War, the man who so skillfully guided a multitude of conflicting interests into a cohesive whole.

But Eisenhower today is the Republican candidate for president. He stands opposed to the party that for 20 years a majority of Americans have shown they want to head their government. Many fear that his election will mean a retrogression of social progress.

Against him is Adlai Stevenson who six months ago was scarcely known outside of Illinois, of which he is governor. He offers on behalf of the Democrats a program that all but the well-to-do, the privileged and hereditary Republicans have shown they want: continuation of the "New Deal" started by the late Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1933.

Put simply, campaign invective and election issues aside, the clear-cut issue seemed tonight to be: will the United States vote Nov. 4 for Eisenhower the man, apart from his policies, or continued Democrat policies, apart from the Democrat candidate?

Public-Opinion Polls

Public-opinion polls, which in recent weeks claim to show that the public preference is for the Republicans, now indicate an even split between the parties. Eisenhower personally runs three points ahead of his party but, the polls profess to show, the trend is in favor of Stevenson.

Perhaps unwittingly, Eisenhower, a political neophyte, has become linked in the public mind as the titular head of the party of reaction. He is viewed as irrevocably tied up with Herbert Hoover—the great depression—with Ohio's Senator Robert Taft—who personifies isolation—and "McCarthyism," the symbol to indicate Wisconsin's Senator Joseph McCarthy who sees a Communist behind every cherry tree in Washington.

On the other hand Stevenson has leaped from comparative obscurity to become, in the minds of many, the bastion against reaction, the only hope of labor's millions. He will lead the country forward while cleaning up the rot in Washington which the Republicans claim has set in because the administration has been too long in power.

The old political cliché "It's time for a change," is the slogan of the Republican Party in this election. The polls indicate that it may be effective this time. If it is, it will be because of a man, not a party.

Asbestos Achievements

J-M ASBESTOS TEXTILES
 Modern asbestos "magic" in the form of fireproof asbestos textiles, today wards off many hazards that once took tragic toll of property, wealth and human lives. Thanks to asbestos clothing for the fire fighter, fire departments are better able to cope with scorching, destroying flames. Asbestos oven mitts protect the housewife from burns and even the theatre you attend is made safer thanks to an asbestos curtain.

J-M INDUSTRIAL FRICTION MATERIALS
 When a giant derrick lifts a heavy load and sets it down, safety depends on asbestos friction materials for safe, sure, positive stops. When the office elevator handles rush hour loads smoothly it's asbestos that takes the strain. From raw material to finished product, Johns-Manville controls the quality of J-M Industrial Friction Materials. That's why many leading industrial equipment manufacturers have standardized on Johns-Manville friction materials.
