Letter From a Father to a Son.

I see by your picture that you have got one of them pleated coats, with a belt around it, and short pants. They make you look as you did when I used to spank you in years gone by, and I feel the same old desire to do it now that I did then. Old and feeble as I am, it seems to me as though I could spank a boy that wears knickerbocker pants buttoned onto a Garabaldy waist and a pleated jacket.

If it wasn't for them cute little camel's hair whiskers of yours I would not believe that you had grown up to be a large, expensive boy, with grown-up thoughts. Some of the thoughts you express in your letters are far beyond your years. Do you think them yourself, or is there some boy in the school that thinks all the thoughts for the rest?

Some of your letters are so deep that your mother and I can hardly grapple with them. One of them especially was so full of foreign stuff that you had got out of a bill of fare, that we will have to wait till you come home before we can take it in. I can talk a little Chippewa, but that is all the foreign language I am familiar with. When I was young we had to get our foreign languages the best we could, so I studied Chippewa with a master. A Chippewa chief took me into his camp and kept me there for some time, while I acquired his language. He became so much attached to me that I had great difficulty in coming away.

I wish you would write in United States dialect as much as possible, and not try to paralyze your parents with imported expressions that come to high for poor people.

Remember that you are the only boy we've got, and we are only going through the motions of living here for your sake. For us the day is wearing out, and it is now way along into the shank of the evening. All we ask of you is to improve on the old people. You can see where I fooled myself, and you can do better. Read and write and sifer and polo and get nolledge, and try not to be ashamed of your uncultivated parents.

When you get that checkered little sawed-off coat on and that pair of knee panties and that poker-lot necktie, and the sassy little boys holler "rat" when you pass by and your heart is bowed down, remember that, no matter how foolish you may look, your parents will never sour on you.

Care of the Hands.

There are some simple means by which the hands may be kept in a presentable condition, as the use of glycerine or honey after washing them, and a little bran or oatmeal to be used sometimes instead of soap. Wearing gloves when the work is rough or dirty is quite admissible. Ladies who have rough, coarse hands should rub them with cold cream at night and may wear loose gloves. Should the hands become hard or horny, treat them with pumice-stone and lemon. Lemon is always good for the hands; it cleanses them as well as soap and makes them soft.

You should clean the nails with a brush, if necessary, but it is better to rub the fingers and nails with the half of a lemon, thrusting the fingers into it and turning until the nails are perfectly clean. Lemon will likewise prevent the skin at the roof of the nails from growing upward. Use of cold cream and gloves at night will keep the nails soft and prevent them from cracking.

Call a Little Louder.

Deacon Jones (from out of town)—"I am deputed to learn, Mr. Goodman, if a 'call' from our church would likely be favorably entertained by you?"

Minister—"H'm. It would depend somewhat, I think, Mr. Jones upon—er—circumstances."

Deacon—"Ah, yes; I see! We discussed the matter in rather an informal way, and the sense of the majority seemed to be that—er—about $900——"

"Minister—H'm! Yes. I am afraid, Mr. Jones, that the good people whom you represent will have to 'call' a little louder than that."—N. Y. Times.

NOTES.

Not the promissory, but facts about WELCOME SOAP, an article that does not contain one particle of the adulterations used to reduce the cost of "Pure Goods," but does possess the value of legitimate Washing Qualities, the demand for which proves the advantage gained by the use of the genuine over Soaps of doubtful character. None should be deceived even by Red and Yellow Wrappers, or any of the imitations of the WELCOME, as a pair of clasped hands is stamped on every bar. Made by CURTIS, DAVIS & Co.
