

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

MAY 25, 1883.

The Queen's Birthday.

This Royal Holiday was very generally observed by the citizens of Charlottetown. Nearly all the mercantile establishments, factories, and other business places were closed, and employees were off enjoying themselves—some to the country, others went boating, and a large number enjoyed the beautiful sea breeze from Victoria Park. Whatever may be our national prosperity or adversity, there is one element in our existence as a new nationality which remains immutable, and that element is our unwavering loyalty to the British Crown, and our loving devotion to the person of our gracious Queen. On the 24th of May, we observe a day which has a hallowed and glorious significance, not only for the Saxon, the Celt, and the Gaul, but for every member of that great confederation of states which we call the British Empire—an Empire which, in extent, in prestige, in wealth, in influence, in solidity and permanency, far excels every other nation in the world.

From this American Continent, yesterday, regardless of political distinctions and regardless of the boundaries which make us two nations instead of one, there ascended many a fervent prayer that the noblest of women, and the best of Queens, may long reign over her people.

Nothing about the Fishery Award.

Our observations on the bad faith which Mr. Davies has exhibited in not bringing forward a motion on the Fishery Award, according to the solemn promise made by him before the election, ruffles the temper of our amiable friend of the Patriot. When we call on Mr. Davies to perform his promises like a man, table his resolution, and test the Commons upon it, Mr. Laird cries out that our "utterances" are "poisonous" and that THE EXAMINER is addressing itself to an "iniquitous task." No doubt Mr. Davies regards any allusion to his connection with the Fishery Award as "poisonous," and we do not wonder much at it. That circumstance will not, however, prevent THE EXAMINER from returning to the subject again and again until Mr. Davies has received from the electors of Queen's County the full reward of his promise breaking.

The Conservative members from the Island are not bound by any promise or obligation to bring the question of the Fishery Award before the House of Commons. They brought it up in the last House, and advocated the claim of Prince Edward Island with great ability. But the Commons, on the 8th of April, 1880, adopted a resolution declaring—

"THAT PORTION OF THE FISHERY AWARD PAID OVER TO CANADA, CONSTITUTIONALLY, AND OF RIGHT, BELONGS TO THE DOMINION OF CANADA."

This resolution was carried by a vote of 126 to 30. Sir John McDonald and Mr. McKenzie standing side by side in the majority. Every honest man who read this resolution, knew that it was a plain and emphatic rejection of the claim of Prince Edward Island. The declaration that all the money paid to Canada constitutionally and of right belonged to Canada, was so plain, that it could not be misunderstood or misconstrued, except by one who deliberately wished to deceive. In the face of this resolution, Mr. Davies contended that Parliament had not passed any opinion adverse to the claim of this Island, and that we did not receive the money because our representatives had neither the pluck nor the ability to submit another resolution setting forth the separate and distinct claim of Prince Edward Island. He further solemnly promised that if he were returned he would bring the matter before the Commons, where he said he would, in all probability, have the support of Mr. McKenzie and Mr. Blake.

There is no doubt that Mr. Davies owes his seat in the Commons to the promises he made and the hopes he excited on this question, for the two years previous to the last Dominion election. We knew at the time that these promises were made only to be broken. We knew that, with all his faults, Mr. McKenzie would not swerve from the opinion which he had decidedly expressed and acted on. We knew further that Mr. Blake would not thank Mr. Davies for bringing the question up anew, as he would not be able to shirk a vote upon it a second time. We were also satisfied that if a resolution such as Mr. Davies promised to submit were brought forward, it would not, in all probability, receive the support of one member apart from the representatives of Prince Edward Island. In short, we knew right well that Mr. Davies was only humbugging and deceiving the electors of Queen's County; and the event abundantly verifies our opinion. The session is now about closed, but Mr. Davies has not moved his promised resolution. Heading the telegrams from Ottawa in the Patriot for weeks past, the words "NOTHING FOR PIERS" have appeared in type of sensational dimension. We advise our contemporary, for variety's sake, to change the heading and adopt the words "Nothing about the Fishery Award."

Big Shooting.—Messrs H. A. Leslie and Havelock Mills have been doing quite an extensive business at their brand shooting quarters on Hog Island this spring. On one occasion, lately, they mowed down twelve in one volley.—Journal.

Prince of Wales College and Normal School.

CLOSING EXERCISES—THE PRIZE LIST.

THE Prince of Wales College and Normal School closed to-day with the usual exercises. Among the large number of visitors present were: The Superintendent of Education, Principal Mellish, of Prince Street School, Principal Miller of Kent Street School, Charles Palmer, Esq., Rev. K. MacLennan, Hon. David Laird, W. E. Dawson, Esq., A. A. McDonald, Esq., R. R. Fitzgerald, Esq., and William Rayden, Esq. Many lady visitors graced the occasion with their presence, and added much to the interest of the proceedings.

The exercises were commenced with exhibition teaching by three of the Students; Messrs. Lane, McNeill and Brehaut. These young gentlemen displayed considerable ability, putting their questions very aptly and without any restraint. Mr. McLeod then gave an interesting lesson in Arithmetic to the pupils attending his department, and elicited answers very readily and correctly. Mr. L. Page followed with a difficult lesson in Trigonometry. Professor Caven took up the "Stuart Period" in English History, and gave a very interesting lesson of this interesting period in his usual happy manner. Agricultural Chemistry is a new feature in the Prince of Wales College, and we were not a little gratified at the ready answers of the students to Professor Anderson's examination. The importance of this subject in an Institution like the Prince of Wales College, need not be discussed here. Professor Anderson deserves no little credit for taking it in hand and presenting it to his classes. Professor Anderson also gave a lesson in Latin taken from Livy Book 1st, 18 Chap. The Rev. Mr. MacLennan then examined the class and expressed himself well satisfied with the answers given. Professor Anderson asked a few of the students to read some selections from Shakespeare. He explained that the knowledge which the students possessed about Elocution was acquired independently of the Class Room, because they had little or no time to take up this branch as it should be taken up. Mr. Curran, Miss Hunter, Miss Ramsay and Miss McNeill, all read very nicely and very correctly.

The Prizes were then distributed by Hon. David Laird in the absence of Governor Haveland. Before the presentation, however, Professor Anderson, in the course of a few remarks, said that the number of students was too large for the capacity of the building. But he and his colleagues had spent an agreeable nine months, though they had plenty of hard work to do. A good standard, he thought, of what constitutes real hard work in students, was their worn out appearance as the session draws to a close; and, on looking at the faces before him, he felt, that it was about time we had some vacation. The Professor referred to the sad death of Mr. Charles Beer, who conducted a class in Physiology last year with much acceptance and success. As regards the prizes, he said it was difficult to determine as to the relative merits of the different students; but there were three, viz: Mr. Brehaut, Miss McMurray and Miss McNeill, who were certainly far ahead of all the others.

Ex-Governor Laird said that it was a satisfactory duty for him to present the prizes; but it would be more satisfactory doubtless to the students if he would curtail his remarks as much as possible. He expressed himself well pleased with the day's proceedings, though an examination of this kind did not test real merit. He was glad to see the interest so many visitors took in the Institution which augured well for its success. He would like to have seen Geo. Haveland in his place to-day, and was sorry that other business kept him away.

Rev. K. MacLennan and R. R. Fitzgerald, Esq., also made a few remarks.

The following is the Shooting Match.

The competition for the silver cup of No. 3 Co. came off yesterday, at Kensington range. This cup has to be won three times in succession before it becomes the private property of any body. Capt. D. Stewart has already taken it twice successively, and had he succeeded in carrying it off yesterday, he would be able to retain it in his possession. Lieut. Vernon Longworth and Lieut. McGregor have also won it twice. As will be seen by the score, Lieut. Longworth was the successful man yesterday, though he was closely pushed by Sergt. Allan. The following is the score:

	200 yds.	500 yds.	600 yds.	Total
Longworth,	31	26	23	80
Allan,	28	29	22	79
Stewart,	23	27	14	64

THE St. John Telegraph says:—"Mr. James Coleman enters upon his duties as Superintendent of the P. E. I. Railroad immediately. Though the new position means promotion and increased salary, on account of which Mr. Coleman is to be congratulated, yet his long connection with the Intercolonial Railroad, and the many friends and acquaintances which he has in that service, and in the Province, must make it a matter of some regret to him to be sent into a new field, in another Province. Mr. Coleman's many friends will follow him with their good wishes, and their ardent desire is for his welfare and success in his new sphere."

Obituary.

We announce with regret to-day the death of Mr. Charles Beer. Mr. Beer was a young man of very great promise. He had completed with unusual merit two years of the Medical course at McGill, but during his third year he was struck down by an illness of which his death is the direct, though slow result. After his first rally he spent a winter in the Southern States, and all that care could do was done to bring about recovery. But the marvel was that he held on to life so long. During the past summer, Mr. Beer wrote out a course of five lectures in Physiology, and at Christmas he offered to deliver them to the students of the Prince of Wales College. The offer was gladly accepted, and on Wednesday morning of each week he lectured for one hour. The five lectures expanded to eight. It is hardly necessary to say that they were listened to eagerly and with profit. This was almost the last work he did, but it was work well done. What he knew, he knew thoroughly. He saw at once the practical bearing of any physiological fact, and he aimed in his lectures to state clearly the fact and impress strongly its meaning and message. Concise language, apt illustrations, and an earnest though cheerful manner, won for him close attention and deep respect. Mr. Beer was one of the very few to whom knowledge is but the door to usefulness, and to whom usefulness is a passion. Baffled here, he is ready for service yonder.
