ELLEN'S DIARY

Sunny Morning Inspires A Visit to Corner Store

This was a clean, sunny morning — altogether enchanting. A promise of the morning breeze, brewed from many a far-flung flower, was in the air, which I treasured, delighting along the hazy farmsteads. It was just such a morning as we had wished for, when winter was being hissed and heart-warming on our outing. In a machine would one have stopped to see winter being disposed of in a turbulent flow at the bridge? Or turned aside to look for a stroll as far as the corner store. We skirted the affairs of our household, and then, fittingly, "bonneted and shaded" slipped quietly away from our customers' morning round.

The family was busily engaged at the time. When at length, we chimed in loud from the summit of the road hill, Scamper, old, a dark dog, at the gateway, was aware of our going.

Beyond the hilltop where narrow broods to take in a wide reach of countryside, a few pretty parlours of village and farmsteads, a blue haze shimmered in a slice between the far bounds.

"But, Ellen" James would be sure to say on our return "why did you choose to walk?"

If we had been driven, we should have missed so much that was interesting and heart-warming on our outing. SCENES FROM FESTIVAL PLAY

Centennial Concert Held At Bunbury

The pupils of Bunbury School presented an interesting and most enjoyable Centennial Concert March 6, for an audience of 100 people. Roy Murnaghan was master of ceremonies. Kevin Power and Donald Stewart were in charge of ticket sales at the door.

The theme of the concert was "Away Back Then in 1864." A skit "School Days," written by the pupils in the senior grades, received a good response. The intermediate grades presented a street scene in 1864 complete with Centennial dresses and bonnets.

A play "Mothers of Confederation" was performed by the primary and senior grades. This related a lot of historical information concerning Confederation.

Special numbers were performed by Jane Farquharson, Bruce Stewart, Lynne Young, Brian Mason, and Slavica and Mollan Easton-Smith.

Carl Good, with his puppet, delighted the audience with his skill as a ventriloquist. A song and dance routine "School Days" was presented by grades one, two, and three. The hall was decorated in blue and gold school colors with various scenes dating back to 1864.

The concert was closed with the 83 school children in grades one to eight singing "Now is the Hour" and "Hey Look Us Over."

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Earl Moore and her committee.

It was announced that $26.00 had been raised with the February C. Beck, reporting for welfare stated that 44 pairs of mitts, four pairs of socks and two pairs of foot socks had been donated by several generous Montserrat women and distributed to needy families.

Many other boxes had been sent out in February and Mrs. Beck expressed gratitude to the Uggz-Kinross Institute for donations which included excellent used clothing, nine newly-made crib quilts and children's wear.

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

Montague Institute Reports Generous Welfare Response

Details of tonight's reception at Montague of the Provincial Drama plays, and visiting dignitaries were discussed at Tuesday evening Women's Institute dinner party meeting held at the home of Mrs. Garner Moore, Main St., Montague.

Mrs. Lester MacLeod is the club representative for this function which is being convened by Mrs. Beecher Hickox. With Mrs. Kerr Clark presiding, executive reports were given by Mrs. Cecil Beck and Mrs. George Nicholson, and committee reports by previous conveners.

It was announced that $26.00 had been raised with the February C. Beck, reporting for welfare stated that 44 pairs of mitts, four pairs of socks and two pairs of foot socks had been donated by several generous Montserrat women and distributed to needy families.

Many other boxes had been sent out in February and Mrs. Beck expressed gratitude to the Uggz-Kinross Institute for donations which included excellent used clothing, nine newly-made crib quilts and children's wear.

Appreciation of the Handicraft Course was also noted and since a storm had interfered with the course, the instructors are to be asked to return if possible to be worked out later.

An appeal from Mrs. E. E. MacKewen, the United Nations Provincial convener, regarding the Institute's adopted Korean boy, led to the donation of $2.00 to this fund.

A report from the Mental Health Assoc. received a ready response and books for the Riverside Library are to be left at the Montague RCMP barracks.

Members also voted $100.00 a year for three years toward a new skating rink in Montague.
