Presentation at Court.
 A morning journal much given to romancing announces that "the precautions taken by the lord chamberlain to preclude the possibility of any one appearing at a drawing room whose past will not bear the closest scrutiny are yearly becoming more rigorous." This is a farago of the purest fiction. As a matter of fact, the lord chamberlain takes no "precautions" whatever, and it is difficult to conceive how this official could possibly investigate the antecedents of the hordes of nonentities who now go to court unless he were provided with a large staff of detectives. All the responsibility of a presentation is now thrown upon the (presumably) "unimpeachable female" who undertakes it.

If an "improper person" is presented, the immediate result is the arrival of a shoal of anonymous letters at the lord chamberlain's office. The lady who has made the presentation is then communicated with, and if the ultimate result is unsatisfactory, she is punished by being herself excluded from court for a year or two, or if it is a bad case she receives sentence of permanent banishment. Moreover, if a lady on the state ball or concert invitation list has been so indiscreet as to make an undesirable presentation, her name is struck off forever. It is only in very aggravated cases that presentations are publicly canceled in The Gazette. The usual course is for the lord chamberlain to inform the offender that her presentation took place "by mistake" and that she is to consider it as canceled. Episodes of this description are of frequent occurrence, but they are kept as secret as possible for obvious reasons.—London Truth.

The Proper Fees on Shipboard.

Fees are too indefinite to be regulated by rule, but certain amounts are customary at sea. The voyager, if he is not seasick, is dependent for comfort first on the table steward. To this man it seems to be the rule to give $2.50 for one, or $5 for two or three persons in party, whether one is served in regular courses or orders what he pleases from the bill. Late suppers might increase the fee. One's next best friend is the deck steward, if he is attentive and has followed out suggestions about the steamer-chair and rugs. Sometimes one can eat on deck when it is fatal to go below, and then, if the deck steward is obliging, he deserves the larger part of what would go to the table steward in regular course. If the weather is at all fair it is most agreeable to find one's chair well placed, and the rugs dry every morning, especially if one is inclined to sea-sickness. Moreover, this steward is the one who continuously brings sandwiches and broth on deck, and, as he is obliged himself to fee the cook's assistant to get these articles prepared, it is clear that he should be well remembered at parting, if any one is. On many lines his pay, like that of most of the stewards, is not higher than $12 a month, and the company, on general principles, keeps back one-third to pay for breakage. Another third goes to the cooks in fees. Where, therefore, would he be without his tips?—From "The Art of Travel—Ocean Crossings," by Lewis Morris Iddings, in Scribner's.

Search the Wardrobes and Closets.

In almost every home half-worn garments and goods are stowed away in wardrobe and closets that can be made as good as new and fitted for months of wear.

The operation of recreating and beautifying is simple, the cost is trifling, and the general result beyond the comprehension of those who are acquainted with the work of home dyeing.

Dresses, jackets, capes, vests, pants, ribbons, silks, feather, and a score of other things worn and faded can be transformed into things of beauty and fashion at a cost of from ten to twenty cents.

Thousands of Canadian families use Diamond Dyes every year and save a great deal of money. All users of Diamond Dyes say it is easy to use them. The directions are so explicit and simple that a child can do good work.

As there are many imitations and worthless dyes sold, see that your dealer gives you the Diamond Dyes when you ask for them. Common dyes ruin your goods; Diamond Dyes bring success in color and beauty.
