MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM STANLEY

Young Couple Plight Troth At Ceremony Held In Hamilton

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Holy Family Church, Toronto on December 29 when Fern Winnifred, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mayers, Hamilton, became the bride of William Stanley, son of Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Stanley of Charlottetown, P.E.I.

Rev. S.J. Stinson performed the double ring ceremony and celebrated the nuptial mass.

The wedding music was provided by Mrs. W.G. Reding with Mr. Cleo Rossi as soloist. The church was decorated for the occasion with bouquets of mixed flowers.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of white peau-de-soie with silk embroidered roses, styled with a sweetheart neckline and tucked bell skirt. Her waist length veil was held in place by a tiara and she carried a bouquet of red roses with ivy streamers.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Frank Mayers, Jr., sister-in-law of the bride, and the bridesmaids, Miss Nancy Mayers, sister of the bride, Miss Shirley Wakelin, cousin of the groom, Miss Haron Reaume and Mrs. Alex Grotto wore identical gowns of red velvet styled with sweetheart necklines and bell skirts. They wore matching headdresses of rosebud clusters and carried nosegays of white chrysanthemums with a heart of red carnations.

Mr. Frank Mayers, Jr., brother of the bride, was the best man. The ushers were Mr. Bruce Wakelin and Mrs. Alex Grotto, cousins of the groom and Mr. Benjamin Cournoyer and Mr. Terrance Freethy.

Mrs. Mayers, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of royal blue velvet with matching hat and pink accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses. Mrs. Stanley, mother of the groom, wore a cherry red wool suit with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at the home of the bride's parents. Later a reception for 160 guests was held at the Center Restaurant.

Mr. Frank Mayers, Jr., proposed the toast to the bride and Mr. Robert Spencer, uncle of the groom, also proposed a toast in absence of the groom's father.

Telegrams were read from Mr. J. Stanley and family; Mr. and Mrs. L. Spencer and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. Spencer and family and Mr. and Mrs. E. Gauthier and family, all of Charlottetown.

On returning from a honeymoon trip to New York, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley will reside at 99 Murtle Avenue in Hamilton.

MARY HAWORTH

Unmarried Mother-To-Be Is Afraid To Tell Parents

Dear Mary Haworth: I am going to have a baby and I am not married as yet. I say as yet, because my fiance and I are hoping to get married soon.

The trouble is, we both are juniors in high school. . . As of now, no one knows of our problem.

My mother feels very strongly about such things. She told me once that if anything of the sort ever happened to me she never would want me to come home again.

My parents are prominent. They own a store and if I should appeal to either of them I'd be kicked out of their home and abused. My fiance's parents are a little easier but everyone is going to be hurt.

I've been going with Gene for two years now and I love him very much. Just where can we go to be married? About how much will it cost? I've saved about $100 and can manage for a while.

In the event his parents won't let us get married, where can I go? Is there any way in which we could get married without their signature or permission? We are planning to see our pastor next week and get his advice. Your comment will be deeply appreciated also. E.C.

Dear E.C.: By the time this appears in print, you will, if you adhere to your plan, have consulted your pastor. In this case, I believe he will have encouraged you to take the problem up with your respective parents. He may, indeed, have acted as spokesman and go-between in helping you confide in them.

Confronted with teenage problems of illegitimate pregnancy, the clergy often lends a hand in promoting a spirit of family unity between the errant young and their outraged parents, as a necessary start towards sensibly rectifying the wrong insofar as possible.

You and your fiance, as juniors in high school, probably aren't more than 16 years old, if that. Thus you probably aren't eligible to marry without parental consent. But your pastor would be informed on that point, so ask him.

In the event your parents won't cooperate in solving the problem, and the pastor seems stymied, there are two organizations of national scope that offer emergency refuge and medical care to unmarried mothers and their babies.

These are the Florence Crittenton Homes Association and the Salvation Army Hospital and Maternity Homes.

As you write from Pennsylvania, here are four listings of Crittenton facilities in the state: 501 Holland Street, Erie, Pa.; 6323-25 Burbridge Street, Philadelphia 44, Pa.; 535 South Aiken Avenue, Pittsburgh 32, Pa., and 673 Campbell Street, Williamsport, Pa.

Pennsylvania addresses for Salvation Army services are: Booth Memorial Hospital, 2214 Pauline Street, Pittsburgh, Pa. and Booth Memorial Hospital, 238 Sixth Street, Upland, Pa.

Write or telephone the director of the home (or hospital) you decide upon to ask for immediate interview and admittance. M. H.

Dear Mary Haworth: Please tell that woman who has a son with a weakness for "horse" that the Graymoor Friars have a house in Waverly Place, N.Y.C., where they care for and treat junkies of all creeds and colors for free. And with considerable success.

Their work is directed by Fr. Egan, aided, I would suppose, by psychiatrists from nearby St. Vincent's Hospital, as needed.

Congratulations on the unfailing sanity and humor of your column! C. R.

Dear Mary Haworth: I wonder why you failed to include in your correspondence concerning the engaged girl's fear of childbirth some mention of the fact that most obstetricians give full anaesthesia and there is no pain whatever.

I enjoy your column very much although I don't always fully agree with you. But that's the spice of life! K.C.

Dear K.C.: Yours is the first bit of mail on the subject that gives assurance of full anaesthesia and no pain whatever. The latterday trend amongst mothers is to reject that mechanical "out." They prefer to brave some pain and retain awareness, rather than be "dead to the world" while giving life. M.H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Guardian.

ELLEN'S DIARY

A Sunny Cloudless Sky Calls For A Winter Outing

A sunny cloudless sky, a small wind in the trees, a rising glass - this was a winter - day which invited, nay, begged housewives to roam; to put by, at least for a time, the seasonal sewing, the quilting or rug-making, or whatever was the interest of the moment, and hie off to fresh scenes. There would come, of a surety, those days when they would wish to keep close to the hearthfire, but would there, this January, come another perfect day like this?

We put on jacket and cap-or is it a hat? that cover, which could very well have been fashioned from the pelt of our long-haired black cat, who met an untimely doom in the branches of an apple tree at Rob's last spring, when mistaken for a coon, yet we are assured is "modish. Indeed, just what they're wearing!" And then joined the younger farmer on a trip, which was to deliver one of the cow-kind to "a plant" in town.

"I'm sorry to see her go," James commented taking a last lingering survey of her, when the little truck was about to ease down the driveway. "She's . . . in fair - good shape. Should kill out a nice per cent! I guess by rights we should have kept her. She would have made a good cow. But," he sighed "we can't keep all of them, can we?"

Mark, maybe not altogether, "Glad in the freedom of school let out," but obviously well pleased with the prospect of the outing, added another to our list of passengers at this road's end. The machine picked up there the scent of the trail, and before long we were welcomed on a sign at the city's western edge.

And what now do we recall most of our afternoon? Not our brief spell of shopping, pleasant and stimulating as it was. But an engaging picture, gained in moments of idleness, comes now to mind.

At the time set, we had come to our proposed point of meeting with our companions of the trip, at a grocery, where, after gathering up odd purchases we stopped by a window, anxious now to catch a glimpse of the little truck's arrival, to return us to our duties at home. It was an extremely busy time in that store, with a steady stream of customers, from city and country calling there. Among these, a man of particularly nice bearing came by, it may have been to pick up the evening paper, or perhaps he awaited an ebb in the flow to make his purchases there. In any event, without any sign of impatience, or demand of deference, he stood waiting, as it happened, not far from the door. And not un-noticed, for he was greeted warmly by many a one in passing.

Presently we glimpsed the little truck ease into "mooring," and Mark came in to plod up on his own account, a container of ice-cream for the family, and favorite "Funnies" for himself and the small fry, Alex and Peter. Then he came to join us, and for a moment to take stock of the other folks there.

"That," he whispered smiling, indicating the man near the door, "is the Colonel!"

"Notice what he's doing," we whispered back, knowing well that all fine lessons are not learned in school.

"He opens the door for those going out whose arms are full of parcels," he said softly. "See that little girl, with the two loaves of bread, almost as big as herself! He's opening the door for her," he nodded.

"That's why he is a Colonel-because all up the years he could picture himself in other folks' places, could understand their concerns," we said.

Once upon a time, as is recorded in the old Book, One great, yet of a lowly heart, "washed feet"; "And likewise" in this day and age, another opened a door.

Until tomorrow — — Diary—Good-night. . .

IODE Brief Is Presented To Government

TORONTO — The IODE brief to the minister of citizenship and immigration, presented recently to the Honourable Richard A. Bell, Q.C., M.P. urged his Department to extend its work with Indians by immediately initiating a research programme of from three to five years, in co-operation with some interested Canadian university or universities.

The IODE brief stated that such a research programme is necessary, not only in the field of education and teacher training, but should cover all aspects of the life of Indian citizens.

The national president, Mrs. Peter L. Robinson said "the IODE realizes its proposal is not the immediate answer to the wide variety of problems confronting our Indian citizens and those who work with them. As for many decades, today there is no unanimity among informed individuals and organizations actively working with Indians, as to the most effective means of assisting them to adapt themselves to a rapidly changing Canada."

"This is why," she continued, "that if the IODE proposal is adopted, it should ultimately assist the Indian to achieve equality of opportunity and give him a sporting chance to change with the times, and become a full participating member of Canadian society - which he is not today. The IODE also feels a comprehensive research programme would ensure that the most effective use is made of the efforts and funds expended on trying to provide equal opportunities for our native citizens.
