Local Student Injured At Antigonish Rink

Roger (Buddy) Clark was among the nine persons who entered hospital as a result of injuries received during a hockey match on Monday night. Buddy, who is a first year student in Geology at Mt. Allison University, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Clark, St. Peter's Road, was bunched with several other players when the crash came in which 21 spectators were hurled from the collapsing balcony on top of the players.

Many severe bruises and several broken bones resulted among the spectators. While most of the injured persons are still in hospital at Antigonish, Buddy, who was the only player injured, expects to return to Mt. Allison this evening and hopes to come home for a long week-end to rest up after his unusual experience.

Buddy has the distinction of being the only Island boy on the Mount Allison hockey team, which was playing a league game with Antigonish at the time of the accident. He is well-known here, especially among the students at Prince of Wales for his athletic prowess, and at times proved himself better than "fair" on the golf links.

Others taking part in the discussions were Mrs. H. L. Palmer, Secretary, Mrs. W. J. P. MacMillan, Lt. Col. Leo MacDonald and Mr. Clarence McGuigan, representative in the Hunter River area.

Toronto Baby Purchase Case

TORONTO, (CP) - Jack Shinder of Brooklyn, N.Y., who tried to buy his wife a baby in Toronto, Tuesday was fined $150 on a charge of falsifying statements on a birth registration. A similar charge against his wife, Edith, was dismissed.

As soon as he arranged to pay the fine, Shinder moved to another court where he took the stand as a crown witness against Dr. Joseph Chaikoff of Toronto, also charged with making a false statement.

The Shinders started an international rumpus last month when they were halted at nearby Malton airport while en route to New York with the baby. A United States immigration official became suspicious of Mrs. Shinder's claim that she was travelling with a baby only five days after its birth.

Reports at the time said an international baby-smuggling ring was sending Toronto babies across the border and selling them in the U. S. Toronto police denied the reports.

There was no indication that the Shinders would get the baby in the case. Authorities are caring for the child.

ous vocal ones. Mr. Tom Isthian also gave a brief talk concerning the film "Life of Christ" to be shown later this month. The business meeting followed with vice-president Mary Morrison in charge. See No Breach Of Security In Story

OTTAWA, (CP) - Defence production and R.C.A.F. officials say they have received no inquiry from the United States Air Force regarding the possibility of a breach of security in publication of material on the P-86E Sabre jet's "flying tail".

They were commenting on a Washington dispatch Monday night reporting the U. S. Air Force as saying it is looking into the possibility of a security breach as the result of an article on the "flying tail" in the British trade periodical, Flight.

The dispatch said inquiries were being made in Canada because the article contained extensive reference to aircraft built under licence in Canada.

Wonders Why Large Centres Not Represented In Cabinet

"It is strange that the two largest Districts in Prince and Queen's Counties, Summerside and Charlottetown have no representation in the Cabinet," stated Mr. W. F. A. Stewart, Liberal Member for the First District during his speech on the Draft Address last night.

He noted that junior member for Charlottetown is eligible for a Cabinet post and that he would receive one at some future date. However, Mr. Stewart thought that the Charlottetown representative was better off out of the Cabinet at the present time as he like some ex-ministers were too strong in their opinions to hold a post for a long period.

During his address Mr. Stewart pointed out that the First District Queen's was entitled to a larger grant for road construction and maintenance. "We have one of the biggest districts and we have more unimproved roads," he stated as he sought more attention for road work.

He said he didn't know whether or not the farmer should be classed as a prosperous man. "I have been farming for a good many years and I still can't answer it," he stated.

He said that the farmers over head, which keeps increasing year after year, makes it impossible for the farmer to make much money. However, he added that if the farmer were prosperous he certainly deserved it because he worked hard and for long hours.

Mr. Stewart recalled that when he was appointed Minister of Agriculture several years ago the expenses at Falconwood Farm were far in excess of the income and that this matter had been rectified during his term as Minister.

But, he added, it hasn't remained that way. "The other day I was speaking with one of the patients and I asked him if he designed the new barn. No, 'replied the patient', I'm not that foolish."

In his speech Mr. Stewart suggested that the Department of Health and Welfare reports might be condensed so that members would have time to read them fully.

Business Women's Club Meeting

The regular monthly dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club was held at the Charlottetown, Monday, March 9th.

Miss Helen Yeo, President, turned the meeting over to Mrs. Emma Bruce, chairman of the Programme Committee. The topic, "Citizenship and Immigration," took the form of a carefully prepared panel discussion, which the members found very interesting and informative.

The discussion showed that new stimulus was given to industry through immigration. The tables were artistically decorated with green ribbons, shamrocks, hats and harps.

Reports were heard from the various committees. Radio broadcasts were to be given by women in office. Dame Caroline Haslett of London, Eng., International President, was to broadcast May 18th.

Miss Lillian Duchemin read a second questionnaire on the "Set-up and Work of the United Nations". After the adjournment of the meeting, a number of the members remained for a sing-song.

Fine B.I.S. Quarters In Whelan Bldg.

What might have been a dank and routine type of basement under the new Whelan Building has been transformed into an attractive and well organized set-up of club facilities by the Benevolent Irish Society, designed for constant use with a maximum of convenience for members and friends.

A new departure, which is an added incentive for the ladies to attend frequent functions, is a ladies' lounge and cloak-room at the foot of the entrance stairs, with a powder room and wash-room conveniently nearby.

The main room is 32 by 22 feet, painted in green and gray-blue with a terra-cotta mottled floor finish which matches nicely with the side-wall and ceiling finish, producing a restful and pleasing atmosphere. The lighting requirements are provided for by 15 recessed lights. The snack bar is placed at the rear right of the main room, with a service opening thereon. This part of the layout is finished throughout, side-walls and ceiling, in mahogany with a freework over-counter trim. The brightness and balance of this area is enhanced by chromium trim where required.

A card room directly off the main room makes ample provision for those who wish a measure of seclusion. This is finished in blue-gray. An office finished in Douglas fir plywood in natural colors is placed next to the men's wash-room and is finished in rose and white tile.

The spacious kitchen at the rear of the main set-up, along with the necessary storage space, adjoins the boiler room and will be fully equipped with every convenience to look after the requirements from that department. The quarters throughout are finished soundproof with test.

While willing hands on the part of the members contributed to a considerable extent in the rougher construction of the club quarters, Mr. Urias Carragher was in charge of the carpenter work throughout, and personally applied the finishing touches. The painting was supervised and in the main, completed by Mr. Bernard Callaghan, while the over-all design and follow-through with the work was done by Mr. V. E. King.

Messrs. Frank Gaudet, Glen Ramsay, Warren Burns, Robert Cameron, J. D. MacAskill, Edwin Cooke, Gerald Lewis, Peter Coles, Charles Snow, Wilfred Oatway, Orvid Dolan, Furness Matheson and Allison West.
