Georgetown-Built Trawler Completes Final Sea Trials

GEORGETOWN — The steel trawler Gulf Guard, built by Bathurst Marine Ltd., underwent official sea trials in the waters of the Gulf of Georgetown harbor yesterday between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Last week the trawler had compass adjustment trials in Georgetown then sailed to Port Hawkesbury, N.S., where launching cleats were removed and some final painting done.

Official acceptance of the trawler by her new owners, Gulf Garden Foods Ltd., will likely take place today.

With Captain J. B. Vienneau in command, the Gulf Guard sailed in her trials with the following people on board: W. Glonek, first engineer; G. Vienneau, second engineer; E. Butler, mate; C. Rail and T. Gionet, seamen; L. Fiskerstrand and J. Skarpathoaktis, shipyard engineers.

O. Henriksen, shipyard pipe-fitter; J. DeGraff, shipyard electrician; H. Galloway, shipyard draughtsman; W. Will, shipyard representative; and W. MacKenzie, representing Marconi Company.

The Gulf Guard will presently join the fleet of Gulf Garden Foods Ltd. steel trawlers now engaged in fishing operations and landing large quantities of fish at the Souris plants while awaiting the start of operations at the Gulf Garden Foods plant in Georgetown.

Ford Company Sets Record

DETROIT (AP)—Ford Motor Co. Thursday reported record profits and net sales for the second quarter and first six months of 1965. Ford's profit for the April-June quarter was $237,300,000 and for the first six months totalled $431,100,000.

The record 1965 second-quarter earnings were $36,500,000 above the company's previous high earnings for a three-month period set in the first quarter of 1965 when profits totalled $200,800,000.

Earnings in the second quarter of this year equalled $2.14 a share and compared with per-share earnings of $1.63 in the April-June period of 1964 when profits totalled $179,700,000.

that it would contain references to that whole situation." The power rebate will also apply to other private power utilities on the island of Newfoundland. Mr. Smallwood said that the federal rebate will be passed on to the companies but he declined to say how much or to what companies.

Premier Stanfield was likewise non-committal about rebates in Nova Scotia. His government would have to consider the matter. Premier Robichaud said only one small gas company is affected in New Brunswick.

The need for greater federal aid for university education was an important subject for all the Atlantic leaders. Mr. Robichaud revealed he has asked for immediate help beginning with the term that starts this fall.

Mr. Stanfield pleaded for a change in the formula by which federal grants are paid, to base them on student enrolment rather than over-all population. He was disappointed that Prime Minister Pearson wanted to wait until the Bladen commission on university education reports later this year.

The Nova Scotia premier left the conference still dubious about Ottawa's cost estimates for a medical plan. Nova Scotia figures, based on costs of a doctor-administered plan now in effect there, were much higher—about $35 per person compared to Ottawa's figure of $23.

Both he and Mr. Shaw maintained that a higher ratio of elderly people in the Maritimes population will make the plan relatively more costly for them. He felt this could result in Nova Scotians having to accept a second-rate scheme to fit their ability to pay.

the least possible disruption in reference to redistribution." It recalled the plan for a guaranteed representation (for this province in Parliament) was worked out by Premier J. A. Matheson in 1914 and embodied in amendments to the B.N.A. Act and asked "why disrupt the familiar pattern of the political areas in a dual riding would mean little necessary change in present major political organizations 'those very essential parts of any political apparatus'."

Other points brought out by the brief included a suggestion that a constitutional protection from loss of seats eliminated the necessity of application of the national constituency population quotient in this province. It noted that never in history have "we had an exclusively urban riding" and the Commission had obviously recognized the undesirability of this by giving Charlottetown and Royal a small rural hinterland in their proposed Hillsboro district.

Sitting with chairman Mr. Justice George J. Tweedy were Commission members J. F. MacMillan and Wendall MacKay.

ONLY BRIEF HEARD

The Progressive Conservative brief was the only one heard and Jack Kenny, P.C. Association president, told the Commission it was thought fitting it should be presented by a Kings County resident.

Attending the hearing in an unofficial capacity was John Mullally, MP Kings, who later expressed appreciation of Kings County people to the Commission for holding the hearing in Souris and for the work it had done on the job. He also informally welcomed them to the county.

Kiddies Hold Spotlight On 2nd Festival Day

BLACKIE, the longest-tailed dog of the Montague Strawberry Festival mutt show, is pictured amidst the three judges who had considerable trouble to get an accurate measurement. Blackie was not anxious to have strangers hold his tail. From the left are: owner Hal MacHerron, judges Betty Bears, Eva Bears and Maureen Sullivan. The three queen contestants eventually accomplished the job.

The program was judged by the nine beautiful queen contestants and several classes gave them a difficult task.

The winner of the doll carriage parade was Janice Anner, second was Maureen Anner and third was a tie between Susan Nelson and Eileen Nicholson.

The best decorated tricycle was Joan Shaw. Heather MacPhee was second and third was a tie between John Anner and Bruce Rourke.

The bicycle parade was won by Cathy Shaw, second Donald Nelson and third Pat McHerron.

Prizes were awarded in the mutt show for dog with longest tail, shortest tail, biggest dog, and smallest dog.

Dog furthest away from home was won by Mrs. Lloyd King's entry from Toronto, which also won best-groomed dog.

The go-kart races last evening attracted a large crowd. The noise and speed of the karts apparently thrilled and amazed the crowd, some of whom obviously expected a spill at any moment.

Nine karts of the Covehead go kart club were in the races and one entry from Wood Islands also took part.

The winner of the stock class was Blythe Rodd of Brackley Point. The winner of the super A class was George Scantlebury of Sherwood.

The Montague fire brigade assisted the town police in roping the track for the race which took place around the Montague Regional High School.

The festival concludes today with a large float parade, and the grand ball in the evening at the regional high-school auditorium where the queen of the carnival will be selected.

MORE TO CONFIRM

Eight Bands, 25 Floats Enter Gold Cup Parade

Music from at least eight bands will resound through city streets the morning of Friday, Aug. 20, when the big Gold Cup and Saucer parade gets underway.

Eight bands have confirmed their participation and several more replies are being awaited. The latest to signify its intention of taking part is the famous Balmoral Girls Pipe Band of Stellarton, N.S. The girls will be supported in the piping department by two local bands, the Lovat Scots and Burke's Lads and Lassies.

Adding a military flavor to the parade will be the P.E.I. Regiment (Reece) Band, the Fredrickton, N.B. Air Cadets Band, the famed Katakhdin Rangers from Maine, the RCAF Band from Summerside and the Queen Charlotte High School Band.

At least two more important bands are strong possibilities, but their names will not be known until present negotiations are concluded.

But the bands will do much more than just take part in the parade. The Katakhdin Rangers will be seen in real action on Thursday night prior to the big day. They will be heard in front of the grandstand at the race track and then will thrill the crowd with a big centrefield presentation similar to those seen at half-time during the TV showing of football games. They will also play at a downtown site on Friday afternoon.

Other bands taking part in the big show will also be heard in downtown locations with three of them being assigned to play at specific sites for hospital patients at the P.E.I. Charlottetown and the Sanitorium.

MANY FLOATS

Always one of the more interesting features of any parade are the floats, and this year promises one of the best showings yet. At least 25 entries have already been confirmed and more are coming in daily to the committee in charge. This end of the show is under direction of Guy Fichaud and he is expecting one of the largest float representations seen here in many years.

The parade is part of the build-up for the greatest harness racing event of the year, and as such, will contain horses of many varieties and sizes. Virginia Putnam is busy arranging for the saddle horse entries and is looking for a great turnout this year. With them will be trotters and pacers with drivers in their riding silks.

For the first time since the parade was organized a driver, who was also a driving force in organizing the show the late B. Earle MacDonald, will be missing. He had been chairman of committee in charge since its inception, and also took an active part as he drove one of his own horses in the parade.

There will be a large turnout of ponies to please the small fry, and the children are expected to take an even more active part this year in the rest of the parade.

A really interesting feature in this year will be the special section for old car enthusiasts. Blair MacDonald is heading the sub-committee in charge of this part of the program and promises some of the cars on parade that day will be true collectors' items. These old cars are just that. They are not jalopies, but old models maintained by their owners in fine condition and ready to take to the streets even though several decades have passed since they rolled off assembly lines.

In the limelight again will be the beautiful Gold Cup and Saucer girls who will be seen riding in their new open cars and wearing the now traditional racing silks.

Following the race that night, one of them will become Miss Gold Cup and Saucer.
