

US Gen. Wedemeyer Joins Battle Of War Memoirs

NEW YORK (AP) — Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer joined the battle of war memoirs Saturday with a heavy salvo at Sir Winston Churchill, Britain, the Chinese Communists and a long string of U. S. leaders of the Second World War era.

The general, who in 1944 was sent to replace Gen. Joseph (Vinegar Joe) Stilwell as U. S. commander in the China theatre, said he was examining "how and why the United States became involved in a war which was to result in the extension of totalitarian tyranny over vast regions of the world than Hitler ever dreamed of conquering."

Wedemeyer, retired, set forth his views in his book "Wedemeyer Reports."

Wedemeyer contended the United States and Britain should have kept out of the war "at least until Soviet Russia and Nazi Germany had exhausted each other . . . and if, after we became involved in the war, Roosevelt and Churchill had not sought to obliterate Germany, which was tantamount to destroying power equilibrium on the continent, we might not have fought in vain."

SECRET COMMITMENTS
The late president Franklin D. Roosevelt "deliberately overlooking the Japanese into attacking the U. S. so he could carry out his secret commitments to Churchill — commitments which flouted the will and wishes of the voters who had re-elected him only after he had assured them he would keep us out of war," Wedemeyer said.

As for Churchill, Wedemeyer added: "It is indeed one of the great ironies of history that Winston Churchill, who had proclaimed that he had not become the King's first minister in order to preside over the liquidation of the British Empire, pursued policies which hastened Britain's decline to her present status of a second rate power. In none of his books has he ever recognized either his own or Roosevelt's responsibility for the disastrous outcome of the war."

Churchill indeed seems to lack either the wisdom to recognize or the greatness to admit them and say mea culpa (I am to blame)."

DOMINATED ROOSEVELT
Churchill, the general said, completely dominated Roosevelt in forcing the North African and Italian campaigns, against the advice of all senior American military leaders.

"I, for one, still think of the Mediterranean as a trap which prolonged the war in Europe by a year. It was a side show, and it cost many unnecessary lives."

Wedemeyer insisted the U. S. planners continually pressed for a cross-channel invasion of Europe in 1943, not 1944. But they

Georgetown Barn Destroyed By Fire Sunday Morning

GEORGETOWN — Fire which broke out about 4:45 a.m. Sunday morning completely destroyed a barn on the property of Peter Dalton of Georgetown.

The fire, which was of undetermined origin, was first noticed by Harold Dicks as he neared the town by car on his way home from Borden where he is an employee of the M. V. Abegweit.

Mr. Dicks gave the alarm and a crowd was quickly on the scene but the building was past saving.

Lost in the fire was a horse owned by Mr. Dalton who is the royal mail courier, also lost were a large quantity of hay, some new lumber about $50.00 worth of asphalt shingles purchased only a day or so ago and stored in the barn, along with a winter supply of coal.

Fortunately the wind which was blowing quite hard at the time was blowing in a direction away from the house.

So far as can be learned there was no insurance.

Diefenbaker Sees Splendor Of Mongul Emperors In Pakistan

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LAHORE, West Pakistan (CP) — The splendor of the Mongul emperors 400 years ago was glimpsed by Prime Minister Diefenbaker sightseeing in this ancient centre of Moslem religion and culture.

On a quiet Sunday like a cool summer morning in Canada, the prime minister's party drove to the double-walled Lahore fort and stood on the balcony where Shah Jahan, builder of the Taj Mahal, held court.

Diefenbaker, with his wife and brother Elmer, gazed in wonder at Shish Mahal—palace of mirrors—in the fort and fed mountains in the distance.

He was then driven to the nearby Badshahi Mosque, said to be the world's second largest.

PASSES UP ENTERTAINMENT
Fatigue and what was reported as a slight headache kept Diefenbaker from viewing an exciting Punjab tribal dance at night.

The touring prime minister also passed up an afternoon sightseeing tour to the famous Shalimar gardens to rest before a rigorous program scheduled this week.

A spokesman said he was not ill but that it was felt advisable that he rest after a week of travel that began last Monday in West Germany.

Seven Men Snatched From Sea In Grand Banks Rescue

NORTH SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Details of a sea rescue in which seven men were snatched from death were given here Saturday by Capt. Warren Levi, 46, of Liverpool, N.S., the skipper of the schooner Harry B. Nickerson II which sank two days earlier on the Grand Banks.

The survivors were brought to this port by Capt. Chesley Abbott of the Robertson II, owned by Robertson II Limited of Shelburne, N.S.

Rescued as 50-foot high waves bounced their dories about like match sticks were Capt. Levi and crew members, engineer Denton Scott, 56, Halifax; Sidney Ingram, 26, Edward Ingram, 26, twin brothers, Burgeo, Nfld., now living here; Murdock Bartlett, 36, Fortune Bay, Nfld.; Wilburne Rose, 18, Rose Blanche, Nfld.; and George Hayman, 18, Rose Blanche.

The survivors praised the work of Capt. Abbott, of Halifax. "We owe our lives to the daring and courage of these wonderful men," said Capt. Levi.

Owned by the local firm, H. B. Nickerson and Sons Ltd., the schooner went to the bottom at 9 a.m. Thursday, a little less than three hours after trouble was first experienced.

The 72-ton vessel purchased five years ago, was about 320 miles from North Sydney when she sank.

Capt. Levi said: SENT OFF SOS
"Just as the vessel went over the crest of the sea, and then fell she split open underneath, the opening being so bad that in approximately five minutes enough water had poured into the vessel to float the table in the forehead cabin. That was at 6:25 a.m. I immediately sent out an SOS and made contact with the Robertson II.

"I ordered the pumps started and the crew to get the boats (dories) off, as at that time there was two feet of water in the fish hold. We had fished only a part of the previous day and had only five halibut aboard.

"I again called the rescue boat and told them we would anchor our dories at the position given. In the meantime, the weather worsened and I was afraid that the dories wouldn't live" anchored, so I cut the anchor road and went to leeward.

"With me in one dory were engineer Scott and Sidney Ingram, while in the other were Murdock Bartlett, Ed Ingram, George Hayman and Wilburne Rose. In the other dory, one of our paddles broke, and as we had two extra ones in our dory, we first of all went out to catch up with the other dory to give them a paddle as with only one they would have been more helpless.

"Then we returned in the two dories to the locale where the vessel was water-logged and we used her as a 'breakwater' as long as we could.

"When we reached the locale of the vessel, we are able to re-board her, although at the time her hold was filled with water, and forecastle also forward decks were under water.

"I went into the wheelhouse, checked the position and again called the rescue boat which when we first contacted her was about 25 miles away, and told Capt. Abbott our position, the depth and informed him that the vessel was drifting and holding the same depth of water in 84 fathoms. I also told him that we would now have to leave the boat.

75 Young People Meet For Bible Conference

MONTAGUE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN
MURRAY HARBOUR — Some 75 young people from the Churches of Christ on P.E.I. met at the Murray Harbour Church of Christ in a successful Bible Conference on Saturday evening and all day Sunday.

The theme of the conference was "The Tabernacle - God's pattern for the Church." Brother W.O. Weale of Summerside introduced the subject Saturday evening, explaining the types and shadows in the old testament and mosaic dispensation, and their fulfillment in the new testament and christian dispensation. In the wisdom and for knowledge of God, he portrayed the church in minute detail in the tabernacle, its furnishings and worship.

At 10:00 a.m. Sunday the young people met with the Murray Harbour church in their bible school session. Lewis Herring taught the young people's class, and Cyrus Penny the adult class.

At 11:00 a.m. the Lord's death was commemorated as the entire group gathered around the Lord's table for the Lord's Supper.

After the communion Mr. Kenneth Norris of Montague spoke on "The outer court of the tabernacle - a type of the world." In his message he emphasized that the church is in the world but the world should not be in the church. God has provided for our salvation through the sacrificial death of Christ, as typified in the altar of burnt offering he said. The laver in which the priests washed before entering the Holy Place typified christian baptism where in those who have put their faith in Christ are washed before entering the church which was symbolized by the holy place, he pointed out.

ESSENTIAL FEATURES
In the Sunday afternoon service Mr. Weale spoke again, explaining the furnishing of the Holy Place as representing the essential features of the church.

The seven-pronged candlestick symbolizes the Word of God which is the Light of the world. The table of shew-bread foreshadowed the Lord's death. The altar of incense, burning continually and offering up a sweet savor to the Lord represented the continual prayers of the saints of God offered in the name of Jesus Christ, he told the group.

In the evening service Merle Zimmerman of Fredericton, P.E.I., spoke on "The holy of holies" as typical of heaven, the abode of God. Under the Mosaic law the high priest entered once a year to make atonement or the souls of the people. Jesus Christ offered himself once and for all and entered into the presence of God, bearing his blood, to make atonement of all those who will believe on him.

At his death the veil of the temple was rent from the top to the bottom symbolically signifying the access he also obtained for us into the very presence of God.
