

CCF Convention Adopts New Provincial Program

SUMMERSIDE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN
A new provincial program was adopted at the CCF party's annual convention in Kensington yesterday.

The program, revised with an eye on an expected provincial election, outlines the CCF attitude towards agriculture, education, electoral reform, fisheries, government, health, highways and public works, insurance, industrial development, labour, consumer protection, tourist industry, transportation, and finance.

In a short reference to policy the program stated the CCF belief that the primary purpose of the government is to protect the interests, and to promote the welfare of all the people.

POLITICAL PATRONAGE
"We believe," the statement said, "that such an objective is only possible when the government is free from political patronage and when the party in power is financed, controlled and organized by free electors not influenced by special interest groups."

"The CCF provincial program is presented for consideration and study by all citizens, and we contend it can be implemented by a government free and dedicated to legislate in the interests of all citizens."

For agriculture the CCF program promised a long term, low interest, farm credit policy, especially to help young farmers get established; to promote and help establish producer marketing boards for potatoes, eggs, poultry, and other farm products as may be requested by their own organization with each board to be operated on a co-operative basis; to help expand the small fruit and vegetable industry on the Island through financial aid in building a producer-owned plant or by helping growers set up collective bargaining boards to assume contracts; help establish immediately a processing plant for potato by-products; promote a real forestry and conservation program for the province and to appoint a government minister to be responsible for the supervision and promotion of co-operatives and credit unions.

EDUCATION
For education, the program called for the establishment of a regional rural school system tied with a road building program to make school travel as easy as possible throughout the year; guaranteed minimum salaries of $2500 for fully qualified teachers with gradually increasing scale of pay for extra qualifications and experience.

The education program should insist on financial help from federal revenues to implement this education program and promoting the use of the regional schools for night training programs in agriculture and related occupations.

On electoral reform the new program called for abolition of the property vote and the requirement of voters lists for provincial elections.

For fisheries the program included the expansion and modernization of the fisheries program and assistance to fishermen to set up producer-owned processing and marketing facilities.

The subject of government listed the re-organization of the provincial civil service on a more efficient basis and provide greater rewards and benefits for qualified staff, free from fear of the dismissal by any change of government.

HEALTH PROGRAM
The health program asked for immediate implementation of a hospitalization plan; free medical care for pensioners and recipients of mothers allowances; free treatment for cancer and chronically ill patients.

For highways and public works the program called for all roads to be built on basis of need for travel to schools and markets; the setting up of a crown company to provide a check on costs of public works projects; and paying snow plow operators on incentive basis to keep roads open in winter.

Under the heading of insurance the CCF promised to provide insurance coverage at cost to all car owners with their license.

Industrial development called for low cost power on a commercial level to encourage industry; and the CCF promised to initiate a professional survey of Prince Edward Islands potential for industrial development, and to endeavour to promote such a program.

LABOUR PROGRAM
For labour the program called for the immediate enactment of a minimum wage law; provision for three weeks annual vacation with pay to persons with two years service with any one employer; and the convention program promised an improved Trade Union Act.

Consumer protection benefits would limit interest rates and costs on loans; and protect the consumer by requiring that producer grades be carried through to final consumer on food products.

The tourist trade would benefit from a 10-year development program with special attention for the scenic spots of Kings and West Prince counties; and promotion and assistance to build a provincial museum.

The transportation policy would consider the causeway as a long term project; seek another ferry at Borden immediately; and give special consideration for the welfare of residents of the Town of Borden if they should be affected by the causeway.

FINANCE
Under the heading of the finance the program stated that "present government policy is driving our province into ever increasing debt. Such borrowing cannot continue indefinitely. In order to correct this and to finance improved government services, the CCF will end political patronage, thus eliminating the wastefulness so long characteristic of government spending; eliminate the loss to the provincial treasury from the abuse of the present system of handling gasoline tax rebates; press for sufficient revenue under the federal-provincial tax rental agreement to enable this province to finance properly such items as education and roads; and in the event that a provincial sales tax is imposed to help finance the hospitalization plan presently being considered in this province, that such items as food, children's clothing, domestic fuel, etc., be exempted from sales tax.

LACK OF CONCERN
A resolution dealing with transportation said that, "the recent statement of CNR President Gordon, referring to the need of a new boat only if a causeway is built, is but a further example of the lack of concern and understanding of this problem by federal authorities."

"The CCF has insisted over and over again that there is an immediate necessity of a new bridge to be built, and in the meantime all citizens of the province suffer for lack of adequate transportation facilities. The CCF therefore reaffirms its demand that a new boat be built and put into service immediately."

Carl Hamilton, CCF national secretary, was the guest speaker at a public meeting in the evening.

NEW OFFICERS
Douglas MacFarlane of Bedouque was re-elected as provincial president.

Other officers elected were: Secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Muriel MacInnis, Borden; vice-president for Prince County, C.F. Gallant, Wellington; vice-president for Queens County, Herman Mayne, Emerald.

AND ON EVEN THE COLDEST NIGHT...

Thousands of Imperial people work night and day to bring you the low-priced oil products you have come to depend on

Across this country, nearly 14,000 Imperial people are at work to supply your needs... in exploration parties... at research laboratories... in refineries... on the road.

In the oil fields, and in areas which might produce oil, they are seeking to enlarge Canada's oil reserves... so that this country will not go without oil, now or in the future.

In research... (Imperial has more extensive facilities than the rest of the industry put together)... and at nine refineries, working 'round the clock... they seek to develop the products which will keep you warmer, move you more conveniently... and more cheaply.

For in all their activities, Imperial people are constantly aware of the necessity of bringing you the products you need... at the low prices you have come to expect.

Furnace oil prices have held steady compared to prices of things in general.
