

Junior Civic Council Are Guests Of Rotary

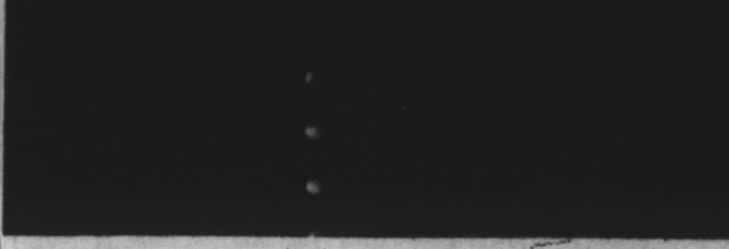

Still smiling after their successful encounter in the battle of the ballots and subsequent term of a day in office at City Hall, the Junior Civic Council, elected by the students of Queen Charlotte and Birchwood high schools were given an insight into the broad field of international study and action as revealed in the Rotary luncheon in the Charlottetown Hotel on Monday.

George Walters of the Rotary foundation committee, described the origin and work of Rotary in making possible the fellowships which have been awarded to more than 1,000 young men and women in over 60 countries or geographical regions in the past 10 years.

Schools chosen by the fellow-ship winners are located in 42 countries. Mr. Walters said the program has provided the students with a chance to broaden their professional education and has been claimed by government officials, educators and experts in various fields of study.

The fellowships provide for one year of specialized study or research in a country where medical, social science or educational fields are well developed he stated. They give an opportunity to a qualified person from a country where there is little or no development in a particular field to learn techniques and get first-hand information which he can take back to assist in the basic development of that field in his own country, the speaker said.

CONTRIBUTIONS HEAVY Since inception of the Rotary Foundation, contributions amounting to more than $6 million have been made by Rotary clubs and individuals who believe that it provides a real opportunity for development of a common understanding between people of different countries and an effective approach to the achievement of world peace, Mr. Walters said. A year of study is made possible at a cost of $2,700. Introduced by Brian Cudmore, chairman of the youth committee

In the inter-class competition, the Juniors, with 100 per cent attendance, took the trophy from the Seniors, who had won it at both the April and December 1958 clinics.

Winter Work Plans Awaited

None of Prince Edward Island's communities have made application for assistance under the winter work program of the federal government, it was stated yesterday by W.W. Reid, deputy minister of welfare.

The program designed to aid communities in providing winter employment through federal-provincial co-operation in financial aid begins on December 1 and continues until April 30.

Any work started by a community prior to the filing of an application setting forth plans for the project will only be assisted financially on the basis of the balance remaining after the application for assistance is filed.

W. H. Crandall, consulting engineer, has been making inquiries regarding the possibility of the City of Charlottetown following through with its sewer disposal plans by running outfalls from the northwest section of the city into the North River.

These pipes would be laid over the top of the ice, in the same fashion as was employed by the Village of Parkdale last winter. On completion of the assembling of the pipe the ice is then cut on each side of the long lengths and the entire line permitted to sink to the bottom.

No word has been received in the department from the Town of Summerside as yet.

Baptist Men's Association Forms Mission Service Choir

Members of the Men's Association of First Baptist Church formed the choir at last evening's evangelistic service. Its president, Ira Lewis, assisted the pastor, Rev. H.L. Milton in the conduct of the service. A male octet, consisting of Lloyd Archer, Bruce Lewis, Edwin Cook, K. Robinson, H. L. Milton, Harold Jenkins, Russell Jones, and Ross Aitken sang the selection, "Something For Thee."

A unique part of the service last evening was a question-and-answer period. The question put to Mr. Bailey last evening was, "How essential is the matter of baptism?" Mr. Milton announced that at each of the remaining services at least one of the questions submitted to him in writing beforehand would be considered by the evangelist.

Mr. Bailey spoke on the question, "Man - Angel or Devil?" saying that whilst man was created in the image or likeness of God, man has been corrupted through disobedience and the moral disorder called sin.

Citing a potential best-seller, "The Exodus," which recounts some of the bitter atrocities perpetrated by the Nazi regime upon the Jews, Mr. Bailey declared that man, in his depravity, is capable of unbelievable wickedness. "But it is the glory of the Gospel," he continued that the living Christ can change human nature.

Dealing with the philosophy of behaviourism which maintains that a man cannot be any different than circumstances have made him, Mr. Bailey continued by giving instances from his own experience of the Gospel's transforming power.

Also guests at the service last evening were the members of the Canadian Girls in Training with their leaders, Mrs. Harold Receptor and Mrs. Leslie Lachner, as well as the members of the Fern Levy Guild.

At this evening's service Mr. Bailey will preach on the subject, "This I Know." Special guests will include the Boy Scout Troop and the various missionary guilds and societies.
