Boils

It is often difficult to convince people their blood is impure, until dreadful carbuncles, abscesses, boils, scrofula or salt rheum, are painful proof of the fact. It is wisdom now, or whenever there is any indication of blood, to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and prevent such eruptions and suffering.

Impure

"I had a dreadful carbuncle abscess, red, fiery, fierce and sore. The doctor attended me over seven weeks. When the abscess broke, the pains were terrible, and I thought I should not live through it. I heard and read so much about Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I decided to take it, and my husband, who was suffering with boils, took it also. It soon purified our built me up and restored my health so that, although the doctor said I would not be able to work hard, I have since done the work for 20 people. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured my husband of the boils, and we regard it a wonderful medicine." MRS. ANNA PETERSON, Latimer, Kansas.

Odd Wedding Present.

An interesting and somewhat original wedding present has been sent to the young Princess of Naples by the aristocratic ladies of Venice. It is a sunshade covered with a magnificent piece of ancient Venetian lace, which is ingeniously draped so as to avoid cutting the priceless cover at all. The handle is of a single piece of tortoise-shell round which winds a serpent covered with brilliants. The serpent's diamond eyes are fixed on the royal crown of gold, inlaid with diamonds and rubies, which forms the top of the handle. A knot of gold is fixed to the lower part of the sunshade, on which, encrusted in diamonds, the words are engraved, "Le Signore Veneziano, 1896." The sunshade is placed in a case of olive wood ornamented with silver.

Last of the Kissing-Gates

The London Telegraph records with regret the disappearance of the last of the kissing gates on Parliament Hill, due to the falling off in an old pastime once usual in country lanes and byways. Kissing, except in romances, on the stage, and in the Divorce Court, seems to be a lost art; therefore, there remained no further need for the gates which conduced to that form of enjoyment. They were so constructed that only one of a twain of sweethearts could pass at a time, and the embrace took place over the gate. The one which has now been removed was situated at the top of a path leading to Merton lane, Highgate. It has been replaced by posts, so arranged that perambulators and bath chairs may be wheeled between them.

ALEXANDRA SCHOOL EXAMINATION,

Alexandra School, under the efficient management of Mr. Chester McLure, held a highly successful examination on Dec. 23rd. Quite a number of ratepayers, parents and visitors, in all twenty-five, assembled in the schoolroom to listen with pleasure to the pupils answer the many questions asked. The pupils were examined by Mr. McLure, assisted by Mrs. J. H. Judson and two students of Prince of Wales College; and judging from the ready and correct answers given, the pupils gave evidence of careful training. One part of the class work deserving special mention was the quickness of the pupils in mental arithmetic. At the close of the class work was a programme of dialogues, readings and recitations, the smallest up to the eldest taking part in a worthy manner. The dialogue, "The Choice of Trades," by nine little boys, was well rendered indeed. At the close of the examination several of the gentlemen and ladies gave short addresses, complimenting the teacher on his success in the school, and all showed their appreciation by a hearty vote of thanks to the teacher, which was responded to in a neat and worthy manner. It was evident from the first appearance of the school that someone was interested in it, as some of the eldest of the girls had it very nicely decorated for the occasion. Finally the teacher best pleased the smaller pupils by treating them with Xmas candy. Mrs. Judson then treated all with apples, and the school closed for the day, everyone feeling that it was good to be there.

A PARENT WHO WAS PRESENT.

Care of the Nails.

Women never cared more carefully for their nails than now, but the woman of taste avoids extremities in this, as in all things. Pink nails are admired because a perfect nail should be thin enough to show the rosy blood beneath, but a nail glowing with the red paint of the toilet table is no better liked than lips and cheeks which owe their brilliancy to the rouge pot. Nor is an artificial polish to be recommended; the natural gloss merely should be maintained and heightened. The best authorities forbid the use of the nail-brush. Any dust or soil may be removed with a bit of cotton wound round a wooden toothpick or bit of orange wood, and emery boards which are sold everywhere for the purpose keep the under surface of the nail so smooth that little or nothing can adhere.

FARMERS' MEET AT ROLLO BAY.

A meeting under the auspices of the Farmer's and Dairymen's Association was held in the Hall at Rollo Bay, on Monday, Dec. 21st., for the purpose of discussing the dairying industry and other matters pertaining to farming. There was a large attendance of representative farmers.

Mr. Patrick Manning presided, and Mr. J. D. McInnis acted as Secretary. The meeting was addressed by Messrs. T. J. Dillon, Dairy Superintendent, J. C. Underhay, President of the Farmers and Dairymen's Association, Theo. Robertson, Red Point, and Hon. Thos. Kickham, Souris.

Mr. Dillon gave a brief and clear outline of the progress of dairying in this Island, and made some encouraging and instructive remarks respecting this matter

Mr. Underhay showed the successful management of the Little River Dairy Station, and stated that a plant for butter making had been placed in the factory there, and was doing most excellent work.

Mr. Robertson, in a practical speech, dealt principally with the necessity for more thorough organization on the part of the farmers if co-operative creaming is to be the success it should be.

Mr. Kickham thought, recognizing the importance of co-operation, that such could be further strengthened by the farmers uniting to see that the best policy in their interest should be framed in their tariff laws.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the speakers, who appropriately acknowledged the same, Mr. Dillon's reply being especially happy in his statement that the best thanks would be the co-operation of the farmers still further to make the cheese and butter industry a still greater success.

After tendering the chairman a vote of thanks the meeting closed.

A Way to Test Your Eyesight.

You may be your own oculist, and in a very practical and simple way. All you need is a stereoscope and a photograph.

That arrangement in which the picture holder slides up and down a flat frame, trombone fashion, is the best sort of stereoscope for the purpose, although any will do, and the photograph that will give the best results is a cabinet size view of some locality, with people in it.

You put the photograph in the holder and focus it just so that you can see the faces clearly. Then close the left eye and look at the picture intently with your right eye, while you count thirty slowly. Now close the right eye and look at the picture with the left eye for the same time. Then open both eyes and stare at the picture without changing the focus.

Something queer will happen. The figures on the one side of the view will seem to move across the view and group themselves with those on the other side, and—this is the point of the experiment—the figures will always move away from the weak eye. Moreover, they move with a very precise relation of speed to the weakness of vision.

If the left eye, for example, is quite weak, the figures will move very quickly across the plane of sight to the right side, while if there is but a slight defect, the movement will be gradual and so on.

A queer thing about this experiment is that, simple as it seems, it will bring out defects of vison that have never been suspected, and another queer thing is that it will demonstrate the cases in which both eyes are of equal power to be surprisingly exceptional.

Rain in the Desert.

A rainstorm in the Colorado desert is a stranger thing than many of the curious tales which for ages gave Herodotus a unique reputation among his historians for mendacity. During a rainstorm in the Colorado desert not a single drop of water touches the earth The rain can be seen falling from the clouds high above the desert, but when the water reaches the strata of hot dry air beneath the clouds it is entirely absorbed before falling half the distance to the ground.

Exploring Australia.

In June last an expedition started with the object of exploring central Australia, says the Detroit News. It is not generally known that there is an unexplored region in that island continent six times the size of England The great difficulty of pushing into this terra incognita has always been its waterless character. The new expedition, under the command of Mr L A Wells, is provided with camels and equipped with all necessaries.

Height at Which Meteors Burn.

It is supposed that meteors begin to burn when they are within about 12 miles of the earth, and that combustion is completed and they disappear at from 35 to 50 miles above the earth When we see a falling star, therefore we may consider that we have watched it through a flight of about 100 mile before it finally burns out and disappears from view.

Vesuvius is an Active State Again.

Vesuvius is officially reported to be in an unusually active condition; lava issues copiously from the largest crate of the volcano, filling completely the Atrio del Cavallo, and running some hundreds of meters down the north west side of the mountain, seriously threatening the observatory.

An Ancient Hog.

The fossil remains of a hog have been recently discovered in the "bad lands" by an expedition led by Professor J. E. Todd, State Geologist of South Dakota, and are said to prove that the animal must have been as large as a medium-sized elephant.

His Profession.

"Does the gentleman you just saluted as 'professor' occupy a chair in one of our colleges?"

"No; he's a chiropodist."

THE MITTEN.

The night was frosty, bright and clear,
And Bessie, cozy as a kitten,
Was snuggled at my side, her dear
Small hand held in mine, for fear
It might chill through her mitten.

The sleigh bells jingled, i, absurd.
With Bessie's charms was deeply smitten.
The mare skimmed onward like a bird;
Of love I uttered not a word,
But still clasped hand and mitten.

"'Tis love that makes the world go round."
No truer words were ever written.
My tongue and Bessie's lips I found;
And when we parted, on the ground
I found her tiny mitten.

I have it yet. It's contraband.
My wife don't know how I was bitten.
'Twas long ago, you understand.
Some other fellow got her hand,
And I—I got the mitten.

DREAM WITHIN A DREAM.

Story Told by a Broker That Terrified an Attentive Listener.

They were discussing the subject of dreams, says the Detroit Free Press, and the broker, after hanging from most of the others, declined to advance an opinion, but said he would relate a dream he once had, and leave his hearers to draw their own conclusions.

"I was a young man of active habits and anxious to get rich by the shortest possible method consistent with honesty. I found myself in the western part of what is now the State of Washington. I met a rough miner who said he was about to depart for the section where the Blewett gold mines are now being operated, and wanted me to go along. His inducement was that we could realize 50 cents a pan at placer miner, which was a dazzling bonanza.

"I also met a man whom I had known in the East, and he advised against the project, because my proposed partner was under suspicion. He had started out on half a dozen expeditions with some t nderfoot, and always returned alone, though n thing had been proven against him. But I resisted all opposing advice and went. The third night out we spread our blankets early and laid down, for we were tired, and a storm threatened. It must have been about midnight when I had the most blood-curdling dream. As plainly as I see you gentlemen now I saw that rough miner, who was accustomed to losing men whom he took out, standing over me with a drawn bowie and about to plunge it into my breast.

"I could not scream or move to offer resistance. The very terror of the situation must have awakened me. The cold sweat was pouring from every pore, and it was only when I realized the immediate safety of my position that I could move. Stealthily I moved with my trappings to where my horse was tethered, hastily prepared him for the journey, and soon went galloping over the back trail. I imagined pursuit, but no shots were fired, and my escape was assured."

"Did the man turn out to be a murderer?"

"What man? The whole thing was a dream, I told you. There was a dream within a dream. I was never west of St. Louis in my life."

Whims and Caprices.

The triple chinchilla cape is much worn with dressy evening gowns.

Wax white satin gowns, cut en princesse, are the correct thing in bridal attire.

Some of the new coats look for all the world like abbreviated Mother Hubbard wrappers.

It is pleasant for those whose birthday comes in February, to hear that the amethyst, their birth stone, is once more fashionable.

The buttonhole watch is the fad of the bicycle girl. It is not a bit larger than a 10-cent piece, but its cost is not in proportion to its size.
