Commons Discusses U.S. Policy in Asia

By JEAN SHARP
WOLFVILLE, N.S. (CP)—Changes in rural life was the main theme in the final day Friday of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada triennial conference in Charlottetown.

Necessary changes in education to meet new rural problems were urged in three resolutions passed by the 500 delegates attending the convention at Acadia University.

The FWIC will ask the federal government that an "additional and separate program be added to the technical and vocational training agreements to provide solely for training in agriculture."

The FWIC urges its members to work for the highest possible education standards for farm people and for a guidance program for rural youth.

A second resolution urged investigation of educational needs of farmers with a view to providing an appropriate program in retraining. The FWIC will ask the departments of education and agriculture in every province to help.

EXTEND 4-H PROGRAM

A third proposal that 4-H programs include courses in business management, including record keeping, budgeting, cost analysis and related subjects. The clubs have a membership of 70,000 in Canada. The FWIC resolution will be presented to directors of extension in departments of agriculture in each province.

"Canada as a nation has changed. As a rural nation, it has passed into history," said Guy H. Foulkes, executive director of public affairs at Dalhousie University in an address to the delegates.

"The number of independent, prosperous, farmers is a minority."

He said such factors are one of the minority groups which comprise and run a modern democracy.

DAMAGE BRINGS DAMAGE

In the light of economic advances which help a modern democracy to provide its people a changing life style, he said, there should be an awareness of interdependence. Damage one group does you damage everyone.

Hail Ends Fireworks

MONTREAL (CP)—A giant fireworks display on St. Helen's Island on the St. Lawrence River was halted Friday as violent hail, rain and wind storm hit the Montreal area.

A crowd estimated at up to 100,000 could do little but take a potting from marble-sized hailstones and rain as Montreal celebrated the windup of week-long fireworks called les fetes du Canada Français.

Besides the huge crowd on the island itself, thousands jammed the waterfront and open areas in downtown Montreal to watch the fireworks, called as the largest ever held in North America.

But the display was stopped early by the hail and rain which started because of the storm.

Fierce Storm Hits Oshawa

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—A sudden electrical thunderstorm, a tornado condition, struck the Oshawa area with 100-mile-an-hour winds Friday night, uprooting trees, hurling a motorboat about 30 feet into the air, causing holdups, traffic jams and causing numerous minor car accidents.

The storm, which developed over Georgian Bay, then moved over Wasaga Beach and southeasterly over Barrie to Oshawa. It lasted about 10 minutes in Oshawa.

Doctors Said Antagonistic To Commission Proposals

By STEPHEN SCOTT
VANCOUVER (CP)—The retiring president of the Canadian Medical Association said Friday the CMA is "definitely antagonistic" toward the medical insurance proposals of the Hall report.

Dr. W. W. Wigle of Toronto complimented the commission on many of its recommendations—but spoke of "definitely antagonistic" to the recommendations of a health service provided through a single fund in a little source of funds in the hands of government.

He was speaking to about 200 doctors at the CMA's annual convention here. It was the first of the executive to the convention's general session.

The executive and the ruling general council strongly criticized the medical insurance proposals in statements earlier this week.

APPROACH PLANNED

Dr. Wigle also said the association will approach Prime Minister Pearson in the next couple of days to express its interest in the recommendations of the commission. It would seek a conference to discuss the report with interested organizations such as the College of General Practitioners of Canada.

Dr. Wigle urged those objections to the medical insurance proposals.

The commission said personal health is a social responsibility to be provided by the state. The CMA believes that patients should have the right to discuss fees between themselves; the commission said revocable fees should be set by an insurance commission. # Quebec Success Not Decided By Federal

Dief Sees Study 'Most Unusual'

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson disclosed Friday that the federal government has launched a special study to find out how secession of Quebec from Confederation might affect the rest of Canada.

Existence of the study, being carried out by federal civil servants, was revealed during the Commons question period under questioning by Reil Scott, (NDP-Toronto Danforth) and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker.

Mr. Scott asked whether the government had reached any decision on giving consideration to a study of the economic, social and political effects on the rest of Canada of secession.

Mr. Pearson replied the government has reached no decision on giving consideration to a study of the economic, social and political effects on the rest of Canada of secession.

Mr. Pearson said the study is "the most unusual thing I have ever heard of."

He said the study is being carried out by federal civil servants, and is being carried out by federal civil servants, and is being carried out by federal civil servants.

Kingston MP
Said Headed
For Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP)—E. J. Benson, Liberal MP for Kingston, Ont., will be sworn into the cabinet Monday as minister of national revenue, it was learned reliably Friday night.

Mr. Benson, who has been parliamentary secretary to Finance Minister Gordon, will fill the cabinet vacancy created by the death last March of Revenue Minister John Garland.

His appointment to the cabinet was freely predicted at the time of Mr. Garland's death.

Prime Minister Pearson had previously promised a cabinet post to Sidney B. Buck-wold, former mayor of Saskatoon who was Liberal candidate in last Monday's Saskatoon by-election and was defeated.

Frothy Collar Ruled Portion Of Beer Pint

LONDON (CP)—British law in all its majesty ruled Friday the frothy collar on top of a pint of beer is legally part of the pint.

Lord Parker, the Lord Chief Justice, said in a decision handed down last February by a British magistrate against a complaint brought by a government weights and measures inspector.

The court dismissed two and a half million short measures against a brewer, Harry Mathias Searles of Bristol, who declared:

"I could have brought 30 or 30 customers along here to say they were satisfied with the pint."

"This raises the question of how much is a pint of Guinness," J. T. Malony, representing the weights and measures authority, pleaded before Lord Parker in the appeal.

"We say the customer is entitled to a pint of liquid because he can't drink gas. Some of it will be drawn in with the liquid and some of it will remain at the end of the drink, where it can be drawn in with the liquid."

"My calculation is that the frothy collar is not the only portion of the pint which is not Guinness."

"This is not a very satisfactory state of affairs."

Passing for a long time, Malony continued:

"Guinness is not the only drink prepared for human consumption with gas incorporated in it. In the water, soda water or lemonade there is gas."

"This does not relieve the vendor of the obligation of providing the specific measure of the liquid that is asked to provide."

But Lord Parker said: "In my judgment what the customer was asking for was a pint measure of Guinness, being a composite standard containing liquid and gas."

Six Killed In Explosion; Snakes Freed

MARSHALLS CREEK, Pa. (AP)—A truck load of explosive nitro-carbo-nitrate and dynamite blew up just before dawn Friday killing six persons, injuring at least 10 and freeing hundreds of snakes, some poisonous.

The truck carrying 15 tons of explosives caught fire and exploded. The blast dug a crater 10 feet deep and 40 feet wide, a few miles south of the Pocono Mountain resort town.

A reptile farm was ripped apart freeing the snakes, a four-foot attraction. Police stated that with service revolvers and reported most were killed. An emergency shipment of antivenin, the only antivenin manufactured in the U.S. to counteract poison from rattlesnakes, was rushed to the scene, although there were no reports of snakebites.

EXPLAINS PURPOSE

In a release regarding the nature and purpose of Eucharistic Congresses, Most Rev. Malcolm MacEachern, Bishop of Charlottetown, said:

"For all Christians, one of the most fundamental truths to be treasured as having been revealed under the title of the Incarnation: the teaching that God the Son became man, lived with us, brought from Heaven and left with us in a church which He established, the fullness of grace and of truth."

"A man's His teachings, in turn, are Christians—although often in varying degrees and with widely differing interpretations attach great importance to the final gift and testament left by Him to His followers at the Last Supper, on the eve of His Passion. That gift—perhaps most generally recognized under the title of the Eucharist, or the sacrament of the Lord's Supper—is a firmly held in the belief of the Roman Catholic Church to be nothing other than the body and blood, soul and divinity of Jesus Christ, really and truly present under the appearances of bread and wine. The transformation by God's power of ordinary bread and wine into the Real Presence of Jesus Christ effected within the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass; but the Presence endures as long as the appearances of bread and wine endure.

"This, briefly, is the belief of the Roman Catholics regarding the Eucharist. And, in the light of this belief, every sincere Catholic or of other creeds—who cannot accept it, should be respectful toward the Roman Catholics, must regard as absolutely central and fundamental."

Queens MP Has New Book On PC Party

CAPITAL BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN

OTTAWA—A new Canadian book on politics has gone to the publishers and will be available within a few weeks time. Health Minister MP for Queens, and the book's author, said here Friday.

The Queens' MP has been working on his manuscript for the past several years. Final publication was delayed because of the need to revise it following the 1962 and 1963 elections.

The publisher is the same one which brought out earlier books by Stanley Knowles and the Hon. J. W. Pickersley on the history of the New Democratic and Liberal parties.

The book by Mr. Macquarrie is entitled "The Conservative Party of Canada: A History with the long history of the party in Canadian political life."
